

ADAMS OF EUGENE IS BOOSTING FOR NATRON CUT-OFF

PORTLAND, April 29.—No development is of greater importance to western Oregon than the completion of the Natron cut-off from Klamath Falls north, according to E. J. Adams of Eugene, former member of the state highway commission, who was in Portland today in the interest of the proposed new road.

"The cut-off is of especially interest to the upper Willamette valley," said Adams, "for it needs products of that section. To Oregon as a whole its consequence lies in the fact that it would tie the Klamath basin to Oregon commercially. It is a region that is rapidly gaining in population and possessed of wonderful natural resources. Potentially powerful in an economic way, it will soon be counted one of the richest districts financially in the entire northwest, and the movement started by Portland business men to bring about railroad connection is one that should be prosecuted vigorously.

"People of Eugene are a unit for bringing about the fruition of the long-expected railroad connection. There are no engineering difficulties of construction to warrant delay in speedy completion, providing the financial resources for building are made available."

Dustin Farnum at the Liberty Tonight

"I surrender," DUSTIN FARNUM in "Captain Courtesy" A Paramount Picture

Dustin Farnum is superbly cast in "Captain Courtesy," a Paramount picture which will be shown at the Liberty theatre today. He says himself that this is his best picture, and there is at the bottom of it a reason which picture-lovers do not know. Mr. Farnum is extremely fond of all animals, and particularly of horses. The magnificent horse he uses in this picture is a thoroughbred especially trained for show purposes. "Captain Courtesy" is a great vehicle for Mr. Farnum, for it gives him scope for his varied talents. He is a most courageous fighter, a fearless rider, an untiring champion of the poor and helpless, and an ideal lover. When he appears as the lover of Eleanor, nobody cares that two scenes back he was a robber, he is so genuinely a lover.

U. S. PUBLIC NURSE SCHOLARSHIP FUND RECEIVES SUPPORT

One-half of a $150,000 scholarship fund for public health nurses which is being organized by the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, is already collected, according to statements made today by Mrs. Holloway of this city, state representative of the organization.

Seventy thousand dollars of this fund has been contributed by the Red Cross, which, at the request of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, increased an original $30,000 to $100,000. One item of $10,000 has been contributed anonymously and reserved for women desiring to equip themselves as teachers and executives in public health nursing work.

Mrs. Holloway stated today that it was the plan of the national organization to give these scholarships not only to returning army nurses but to graduates of present senior classes.

"The importance of this scholarship fund cannot be overestimated," said Mrs. Holloway. "An increase in the number of nurses, and a more equal distribution of nursing care, is a necessity recognized alike by nurses and the public. If provision is not made for the adequate training of additional nurses in public health service which insures nursing care for all classes of the community, there is grave danger that efforts will be made to supply the lack of nurses by offering those who cannot afford a private nurse the services of women of inadequate training."

"To supply the working man with poor nursing care because he is poor, and the rich man with better nursing care because he is rich, is contrary to all the traditions and ideals of nursing. By increasing the number of public health nurses, and if necessary supplying them with assistants, adequate nursing care can be provided for all people, according to need and not according to income.

"Many nurses returning from work in camps and cantonment zones at home, or with our army abroad, have already sought scholarships in order to train themselves for this other national service."

ASK EARLY ACTION IN OLCOTT SUIT

SALEM, April 28.—Briefs of two Portland legal firms were filed today by attorneys, as friends of the suit, in the action of Governor Olcott against State Treasurer Hoff, to determine whether Mr. Olcott is a governor in fact, or in name only. Both briefs held that he is actual governor of the state and entitled to exercise all the powers of the chief executive. They held that the public importance of the decision should govern the scope of the court's decision and pointed to the need of early action in the interest of state business.

SYRIAN PRINCESS TO GIVE TALK TONIGHT

An audience that crowded the auditorium of the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, listened most attentively to the discourse on the Holy Land presented by Princess Rahme Halder, the Syrian author and lecturer. Perhaps, never before has Palestine been brought so vividly before a Medford audience, its people, their ideals and aspirations, manners and customs; the land from whence our own civilization sprang. The princess has a glowing personality, a fluent command of the English language and a memory well stored with historical facts.

This evening at 8:15 at the same church, Princess Rahme will make her last appearance in this city, presenting her own dramatization of the Biblical story, "Naaman, the Leper." The story will be given in different scenes, the first and last being enacted between the princess and her companion. It tells of the great Captain Naaman who, at the height of his glory, was stricken with leprosy and his healing by the Prophet Elisha. It is one of the greatest dramatic possibilities and has been given in the leading auditorium and on lyricum and chautauquas of this country. Miss Burgess will render Oriental music. Preceding the drama, the princess will tell "What a title means in Palestine, why she is a princess."

ROY STEWART AT THE LIBERTY LAST TIME

Admirers of that steel-nerved, dare-devil Western star, Roy Stewart will be pleased to learn that he is to appear at the Rialto theatre for the last time tonight in the Triangle feature, "The Silent Rider." Stewart was on a vacation for some little time and has come back into the pictures in magnificent fettle.

In "The Silent Rider," he plays the role of Bob Gordon, a member of the Texas Rangers, who innocently starts out to smash up a desperate gang of cattle rustlers. He bucks up against Dave Merrill, the foreman of Jim Carson's ranch.

Gordon discovers Merrill branding calves of Carson's ranch and opens fire on him. Merrill brings charges of cattle theft against Gordon himself, forcing Bob to display his credentials as a member of the Texas Rangers. The situation comes to a climax when Merrill is unmasked and opens fire on Carson and Gordon.

There is plenty of exciting action, red-blooded gun play and dramatic thrill in "The Silent Rider," and Stewart lives up to his reputation as "The Western Whirlwind."

SAMS VALLEY

Captain Sharp, recently returned from the front, and who has been employed as an agent of the Columbia Basin Wool Warehouse company of Portland since his discharge from the U. S. army, was interviewing some of the wool growers of this section and while here mingled a little pleasure along with business by reciting some very interesting accounts of happenings during his time at the front. Captain Sharp seems to meet favorably with the sheep men here as he not only has a good insight into the business but is frank and agreeable with any information on growing and marketing mutton and wool.

The Invisible Conflict

From the moment of birth—and before—until the hour of death, there is going on within the body a constant conflict, unseen and usually unfeared, between forces that seek to defend, and others that strive to destroy.

Germs that enter from without are attacked and destroyed by the living guardians in the blood, the white blood cells or phagocytes. Poisons generated within seek entrance into the blood and are removed or destroyed by the functions of the intestines, liver and kidneys.

Food waste allowed to stagnate and remain in the intestines, unevacuated, poisons the blood and destroys its power to defend against outside or inside enemies. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

Constipation turns the tide of the invisible conflict against the body, in favor of the invaders. Nor does the taking of castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., to force the bowels to move enable the body to defend itself. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but the dose must be constantly increased with an ever-weakening effect.

On the other hand Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug. Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods by supplying necessary lubrication of the bowel contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisonous matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal and protection of the defensive properties of the blood itself.
