

WILL BREAK ALL CROWD RECORDS ON ALL FOOLS NIGHT

The close of Victory Week with "all fools night" is the talk of the whole county, as well as Medford, and everybody is going to be here, from the babies to grandpa and grandma themselves. And say, if you think there was a big crowd Monday night, and there were sure some force out, then what do you expect the crowd to be Saturday night. The old time Medford and Rogue River valley spirit will prevail, so be on hand early, come masked for the street dance and you may win a prize. Come with something to make a noise and confetti to throw and all that is asked of everyone is to leave your crouch at home and observe the law and if you don't have a good time it will be your own fault.

The festivities will begin at 7:30 p. m. with the rural school contest, for the largest attendance, most comical make up and the most noise. Parade forms on North Front street. See this big event in charge of Superintendent Ager.

The band concert begins at the park at 8 p. m., after which they will march down the street and play in the center of each block, then march back to the park to lead the all fools' parade down Main street at 9 p. m. All masked characters should be at the park at 9 p. m. In the parade will be Uncle Sam, John Bull, Frenchmen, Italians, Indians, colored folks, Charley Chaplin, clowns and other characters. All are asked to mask, and there will be a prize for the most unique costume and best representation of a national or international character.

The Mysterious Miss Raffles will appear somewhere in the throng at 9:30 p. m. and the one who meets her first and uses the Medford slogan, "With Medford Trade is Medford Made," will receive $5 in gold and have the honor of the first dance with the distinguished lady. She may be next to you so if you want to win the prize salute every woman you meet, whether you know her or not, and use the above slogan. Miss Raffles may be your wife or sweetheart, who knows, so get busy and win the coin.

After the all fools parade the streets from Central to Hartlett and Central for a half block each way from Main, will be roped off for the free street dance. The music will be located at the intersection of Main and Central.

Each merchant, as well as everyone else is asked to mask, so you can enter into the spirit of the occasion. If you don't dance, the theaters all have specially attractive programs, so don't be afraid to stay up a little late and enjoy yourself.

TACOMA BOY KILLED IN AUTO SMASH

TACOMA, Wash., May 9.—One boy was killed and two girls were severely and probably fatally injured, as the result of the collision of an automobile driven by Otto Rakness, aged 16, with a street car last night. Theodore Rakness, aged 10, died today. There were five occupants of the automobile, all under 16 years of age. The motorman of the street car declared the machine darted in front of him suddenly.

VAN A. CORNISH LONG MISSING, IS REPORTED DEAD

At last after many months of waiting Mrs. Van A. Cornish has received the news from the war department that her husband is dead in France. The following telegram from Washington was received by her Thursday: "Private Van A. Cornish, previously reported missing since July 23, 1918, now reported dead. Cause and date of death yet to be determined."

Private Van Cornish was first missed in the Chateau Thierry battle six miles south and west of Soissons, and probably lost his life in the same battle with another Medford boy, Lester Jacobs of the marines. He was in company 3, 28th infantry, First division.

When the marines were withdrawn from the fighting front for a much needed rest the 28th infantry was sent in their place. So many of the infantry were killed and wounded and the fighting was so hot that the wounded could not be taken out of danger and brought to the rear. Word was sent back to the resting marines regiment, asking for volunteers to go forward and help remove the wounded. Lester Jacobs was one of these volunteers and in doing this work of mercy lost his life thru a bursting shell.

Mrs. Cornish is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Bliton. She was married only a short time before her husband entered the army. Mr. Cornish was living in Kinmath at the time of his enlistment and was well known in Medford and Jackson county.

"Green Stockings" presented by the senior class of '19 at the Page theatre last night was a triumphant success from every standpoint. Theatre patrons have paid high prices for road productions which have not been one-half as entertaining nor as artistically produced as this play put on by Medford high school students. From the time the curtain rose on the first act till the finish of the play the audience was so carried away by the actors' splendid characterizations that they forgot they were attending an amateur production.

"Green Stockings" is a bright, sparkling comedy and none of the humor of it was lost in the presentation last night. In fact, Riley Davis as "Bobbie Tarver," the self-centered little Englishman, and Genevieve Spriggs as "Aunt Ida," added a great deal of comedy to their parts by their splendid acting. Not once did either of them lapse out of the spirit of the part they were impersonating, and few oldtime character actresses could have given a more realistic touch to the hysterical scene in which "Aunt Ida" indulged than Miss Spriggs did.

Marjorie Myers as "Celia Faraday" gave a consistent interpretation of the girl who is eclipsed by her younger and more attractive sister, in a manner quite professional. Miss Myers has both the personality and a beautifully modulated voice which are indispensable in dramatic art. One forgot that she was a Medford high school girl acting a part, for she was a real and convincing Celia Faraday, whose predicament in "Green Stockings" the audience took very much to heart.

Marie Myers made a fascinating, vivacious and pretty Phyllis Faraday, and her stage presence was remarkable. Pat Donovan as the father of the Faraday girls caused a great deal of amusement with his droll acting and set phrase "God bless my soul!" while Hans Holmer as "Admiral Grice," a retired officer, both looked and acted the part of a rather dense and blundering old family friend. Earl Campbell as the mysterious Col. Smith rendered a very difficult part in a most satisfactory manner and kept the audience guessing his identity as much as did the heroine of the play. May Lindley as "Madge" and Josephine Koppes as "Evelyn" the married and widowed sisters of Celia, added much to the play by their acting and pretty gowns, and with Bruce Wright, as "James Raleigh" and Merritt Perry as "Henry Steele," friends of the family, cleverly kept the repartee from falling flat, as it usually does in amateur plays. Not once did the conversation lag, not once did the audience have cause to feel that the actors were nervous. Both the girls, charming in their pretty gowns, and the boys, utterly devoid of any self-consciousness, produced an atmosphere throughout the entire play that made a good background for the leading characters; even the small part of "Martin" the butler, rendered by Vallen Wilson, was a finished bit of acting.

Miss Ethel Newland, who directed the play, deserves a great deal of credit for both the selection and development of talent, which made "Green Stockings" a success. Margaret Sears, who had charge of the stage settings, is to be congratulated on the artistic effect produced, and Dorothea Hill, who supervised the costumes for the play, luckily selected gowns that were well adapted to the glare of foot-lights, and were consistent with the atmosphere of the production.

Sharon Merriman made a splendid business manager, a character that gets none of the applause, but on whom much of the success of a play depends. Between acts the high school orchestra, under the direction of Mr. McReynolds, entertained the audience with well rendered selections of classical and popular music.

The theatre was filled to its utmost capacity, and many people were turned away; those who attended last night were so well pleased with "Green Stockings" I am sure it could be produced a second time with success. Many would enjoy seeing it the second time and those who were not able to attend last night would be glad of an opportunity to attend this unusually excellent production. H. G. Adv.

Insurance Man Tells of Friend's Recovery

"He suffered considerably from gas in stomach and colic attacks, and at times was very yellow. His doctors diagnosed his ailment as gall bladder trouble and that an operation was necessary. Some one persuaded him to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Since taking it one year ago he tells me he has been able to eat anything." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by druggists everywhere. Adv.
