The news of the secret wedding of Reginald Fifer, well known young Medford man and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fifer and Miss Minora Cornelius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Cornelius of Ashland, has just leaked out. They were married at the Presbyterian parsonage by Rev. L. Myron Booser on Wednesday, May 14. They are living with the groom's parents until June 1st after which they will reside in a suite at the Wheeler apartments. Mr. Fifer is a clerk at the Jackson County bank with which institution his father was connected for years as teller, and the bride was and still is a clerk at Shasta confectionery. They have the best wishes of many friends.

NEW DEFENSE IS SPRUNG IN LOCAL BOOZE HEARING

William Withrow, the new deputy sheriff whose special work is to look after violators of the liquor and speed laws and who has only been on duty this week, spending most of the time looking over the situation and getting his bearings, last night got busy and as a result arrested four men up on the Skisyouws who were returning from California with 27 flats of booze in their auto. Not only that, but as a result of his week's labor it is rumored that a large bootlegging sensation is in store.

The four men arrested last night were J. C. Robinson and James E. Ward of Medford and E. R. Wall and E. W. Anderson, well known mining men of the Blue Ledge district. The arrested men were arraigned in Justice Taylor's court this morning and were represented by Judge Crews. Their hearing was set for this afternoon.

Attorney Crews raised a new point of law which may prove a puzzler for Judge Taylor under the circumstances, and it is the first time it has ever been raised in Oregon. He stated that the men were transporting the booze which was in bottles which had not been opened, from Hornbrook, Calif., to the Blue Ledge for their own personal use there.

He said that relying upon the recent decision of the United States supreme court, as reported in the newspapers, that it was no crime to transport liquor from a wet state thru a dry state to a wet state, that the arrested men were taking this booze with them without fear of molestation from the authorities. They were guilty of transporting booze into dry Oregon from wet California while enroute to wet California again.

This put it up strong to Justice Taylor to make a ruling on this con-attention, which was very embarrassing in view of the fact that no official news has been received here or elsewhere in Oregon on the supreme court ruling and the only thing known about it here is from the newspaper dispatches. County Prosecutor Robson was in Jacksonville and therefore Justice Taylor set the hearing in the case for this afternoon when the prosecutor could be present.
