Overland Breaks World's Record

—truly the Thrift Car for You and the Family

Overland stock car, Model 90, on April 5th, at Oklahoma City, made a new world's record for a seven day's non-stop run, with gear sealed in high.

Over rough country roads, good and bad city pavements, through traffic of a city, with two days of rain, the Overland Model 90 traveled 4370.1 miles. That beats next best record, standing since 1914, by more than 129 miles. It traveled a distance equal to trip from New York to Los Angeles and back to Oklahoma City at a cost of less than two cents a mile for gasoline and oil.

The Overland Model 90 is the car you want.

Overland Stock Car Model 90, Number L45135 established new World's Record tonight at 7 o'clock, completing Seven Days' continuous non-stop sealed in high gear run with a total mileage of 4,370.1 miles. This beats all previous records made by any type or size of cars by 129.1 miles.

No trouble at any time. Engine ran 168 hours without missing an explosion. Encountered two days' rain—rough country roads, good and bad pavements and traffic from twelve to fifteen hours of every 24-hour period.

Most remarkable showing ever made by any stock car. Used team of four drivers working in four hour shifts with observers. Overland 90 averaged 624.3 miles a day and the speed was 26.1 miles per hour. Averaged 20.66 miles per gallon of regular 59 test gasoline. Never changed carburetor or a spark plug.

Broke all records but engine runs as well tonight as any I ever rode behind; it's the gamest car ever built.
