

TEX RICKARD AND MAJOR BIDDLE ARE TO JUDGE FIGHT

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 27.—Ohio Pecord, official referee of the Toledo boxing commission, will be the third man in the ring when Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey meet in their heavyweight championship contest here July 4.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 27.—Less than 50 pounds instead of the hoarded 60 or 70 pounds will be the difference in weight between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey when they climb into the ring at Bayview Park a week from today to box for the world's heavyweight championship.

Dempsey scaled 197 pounds yesterday and Jimmy DeForest, trainer of the challenger, said today he expected to send his charge into the ring weighing about that figure.

Appointment of these officials was made by Promoter Rickard today upon receipt of the telegram from Adam Epstein, secretary of the army, navy and civilian board of boxing control, which undertook the task of making the selections.

The announcement that Rickard and Biddle have been named judges caused a sensation. Pecord's selection as referee had been forecast, but the names of Rickard and Biddle had scarcely been associated with the official question.

Major Biddle was noted as an amateur boxer and has been prominently identified with all amateur sports. Major Biddle comes from an old and distinguished Philadelphia family. He was in the service of the nation during the war and since the armistice was signed has been busy in his efforts to keep boxing on the high plane it gained through sanction of the government during the war. He was one of the organizers of the army, navy and civilian boxing control.

Rickard stands high in the estimation of nearly every one connected with professional boxing. When Jeffries and Johnson were unable to agree on the third man in the ring for their championship contest at Reno, Nevada, in 1910, Rickard, who was the promoter of that battle, referred it with the confidence of both men. The Jeffries-Johnson fight was the only fight in which Rickard officiated.

The selection of Pecord is regarded as a concession to the Toledo boxing commission under whose license the Willard-Dempsey match will be staged. He is regarded as an extremely capable ring official. Although he is not widely known, he has officiated in more than 400 contests, and was himself formerly a professional boxer. He is 52 years old.

The appointment of Rickard as one of the judges was one of the demands of Champion Jess Willard, Rickard said today.

"I would much rather had someone else take the job," Rickard said, "but Willard held out for me, even suggesting me as referee. He was so insistent in his demands that I finally had to accept."

Pecord will be in complete charge of the boxers while they are in the ring. If the contest goes the 12-round limit, the two judges will attempt to decide the winner, and if they fail to agree Pecord will cast the deciding vote.

KEEPING THE HOME FIRES BURNING WHILE CHAMP'S AWAY TO FIGHT

Jess Willard is a fighter because that's his business. He doesn't love the game and he isn't so proud of his physical prowess that he wants his wife and kiddies to see the battle with Jack Dempsey at Toledo, July 4. So Mrs. Willard will remain at this pretty home in Lawrence, Kas., Independence Day. She is supremely confident her big and handsome husband will return with additional honors. Mrs. Willard is minding her victory garden, her five kiddies here shown and enjoying her daily horseback ride. Jess Willard is a home body and so is his wife. They want to rear their children in happy, outdoor surroundings and when they have finished with the public schools they're going to the nearby center of culture—the University of Kansas.

According to the petition for probate of the will filed in the circuit court today by Mrs. Rachel Clark, his widow, and William T. Clark, a son, both of whom were appointed executors of his will, as was his wish. Of the property, $400,000 was in stock and notes, chiefly stock in the concern of which he was president, and $150,000 in real estate in Multnomah county. The property is left to his widow and children, with a few special bequests to friends.

NEGOTIATIONS ON COAST WALK-OUT ARE AGAIN OFF

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—All further negotiations are off between the striking telephone operators and Inmen of California and Nevada and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, as the result of another deadlock today at a meeting between representatives of the two sides. The strikers will place the matter again before Mayor James Rolph, Jr., and the committee of the board of supervisors of San Francisco. Representatives of the company stated they would concede a three-year period of apprenticeship instead of five years providing the operatives would consent to a reduction in wages already conceded in the compromise offer of the company. This was flatly refused.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Through the intervention of Mayor James Rolph, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and the striking Inmen's and operators' unions in California and Nevada were to resume negotiations here today after having broken them off Wednesday. The mayor was said to have persuaded the company to make concessions. Evidences of a split between the international officers of the striking unions and the strikers were less apparent today, it being announced that L. C. Grasser, international vice president, had decided to suspend his decision to submit the company's latest compromise to a referendum of the affected locals. Such referendum is opposed by the strikers as they are holding that their full demands must be granted.

CLARENCE REAMES PLAYS DETECTIVE

Playing a new role of detective, Deputy United States Attorney Reames discovered an automobile tire and rim that were stolen from his garage about a week ago, and after cross-examining the supposed thieves, got a full confession and was reimbursed for the loss of his tire. Mr. Reames says he was suspicious of a gang that had been operating a small green car in his neighborhood without any "visible means of support." For several days he tried to find the owners of the automobile, but they always managed to elude him. A few days ago he saw the little car standing by a gasoline filling station, and when he went over and began examining the tires, the occupants displayed signs of deep concern. By certain marks, he said, he identified his tire, but when he attempted to take the number he found that it had been defaced. The driver of the car admitted that the tire had been stolen, but denied that he did it himself, saying that it was given him by some other boy. No attempt was made to prosecute, and the matter was dropped after a new rim and tire had been purchased to replace the old ones, which had been damaged from usage.—Portland Journal.
