

GOLDEN GOBLET OF GOLDEN GATE IS DRAINED TONIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—San Francisco's golden goblet, which was cast from the nuggets of the first pioneers, was to be turned "bottom up" tonight. The barbery coast was to take on an amber glow as it did in the days of "Bottle" Meyer and "Bottle" Koenig, and along the Great Highway, the lights were to shine throughout the night.

At the Bank Exchange the Peruvian tang of Pisco was to be restored, after having given way to milder fluids. The little shons of the Latin quarter where many a budding and seasoned author got his "loacle" were to call on the best that the vineyards of Asti and the great Napa valley could afford.

The city's drinking spirit has been capitulating for some time. First the Cliff House, where the goblet was held to the lips of presidents and potentates gave up its fume haloesd spirit, then followed "The Willow," and saloons of lower caste on the Embarcadero, where the Shanghai adept practiced in by zone days.

Although the ban on liquor is not expected until midnight Monday, San Francisco was to do its "stepping out" tonight. The police department has promised that there will be no saturation, but rather that it will be the "biggest play night" in the history of the city. Restrictions cast about the dancing and drinking privileges to-morrow and Monday nights decided the city's determination to make tonight the "big" farewell to John Harvey.

For two weeks throngs have been coming from outside points, to catch hands with the city folks in the mad whirligig. The hotels have been crowded to capacity for days.

One cafe proprietor said: "It was 'the day' in Paris today. It will be 'the night' in San Francisco tonight."

SEATTLE, June 28.—"They're headin' south in droves," a Seattle ticket agent said today in commenting upon the rush of northerners to California before what he termed "the great drought" begins.

Boats and trains for San Francisco this week were sold out weeks in advance. When told no reservations could be had, some late arrivals were even willing to "curl up in a tarpaulin or sleep with the porter" transportation men said.

OLDEST CITY UNDER U. S. FLAG IS SAN JUAN

SAN JUAN, June 28.—The Fourth of July marks the 400th anniversary of the founding of the city of San Juan, making it the oldest city under the American flag, and a committee is at work arranging for a celebration of that event and the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Cuba, San Domingo and St. Thomas have been invited to send representatives to take part in the celebration. That July 4, 1519, is the exact date of the foundation of the city of San Juan is the opinion expressed by Gavetano Colly Toste, historian, who has traced the history of the island since the first landing of the Spaniards in 1509.

ASTORIA APPLIES FOR NEW R. R. DEPOT

ASTORIA, Ore., June 28.—A hearing has been called by the state public service commission to be held here July 18, according to announcement received today, on the request of the city of Astoria for a new railroad depot. The present structure was built by the Astoria and Colorado River railroad when the city of Astoria was a little town and it has served without additions for the comfort of travelers, to minister to the needs of a city of 30,000. In the complaint to the public service commission it is declared to be unsightly, unsanitary and inadequate.

NORTH BEND MILL TO DOUBLE CAPACITY

NORTH BEND, Ore., June 28.—The North Bend Mill and Lumber company of this city has announced that beginning July 7 a night shift will be added at the mill and the capacity practically doubled. It is also announced that the logging operations of the company will be increased proportionately. The increased operations of the company is the result of improved market conditions.

ITALIANS NO LONGER BAR GERMAN MUSIC

ROME, June 28.—Italians have not for many months boycotted German music. Works of Wagner, Beethoven and other celebrated German composers are constantly the attractions in Rome music halls. A recent program consisted of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg" and his Tannhauser overture.

TAXI DRIVER IS BEST HATED MAN NOW IN LONDON

LONDON — (Correspondence of the Associated Press.) The taxicab driver is the best hated man in London. All thru the war he ruled the taxi-riding public with an iron hand and his way, owing to the continued shortage of cabs, probably will have to be endured for many more months.

You may ride in a taxicab here only if the driver finds that your destination suits his own convenience. His decision will be influenced by his quick prognosis of the amount of the tip your appearance and manner indicate. If you look like a "close un" you will save time by joining a queue for a bus or throwing yourself into the maelstrom of a tube crowd, for it is certain you won't ride in a taxicab.

Any man bold enough to challenge the lofty authority of a taxicab driver wins instant popularity and draws about him a throng of admirers. So there were loud cheers and a rush for the spot when a passenger the other day dove into an empty taxicab passing thru the Strand and refused the driver's demand that he get out. The driver stopped his cab and refused to budge.

"Drive me to Liverpool street. You can't refuse a fare," said the passenger.

"Can't I? Get out of my cab," retorted the driver.

A policeman pushed his way thru the crowd, with "What's all this?" "He refuses to get out of my cab."

"He refuses to drive me," was the shouted chorus of driver and fare.

The policeman began to make notes. "Do you wish to prosecute?" he asked the passenger.

"No, I want to get to Liverpool street," was the mild reply.

"Stick to it!" the spectators urged the passenger.

The crowd soon blocked the street. The driver leaned unconcernedly against the mudguard of his cab and lighted a cigarette. The fare reclined against the cushions. This continued for twenty minutes. The crowd began betting on the outcome. Odds were offered on the driver.

"Well," said the passenger at last, rather weakly, "I think I've taught you a lesson."

"Not going, are you?" sneered the driver.

"Unfortunately, I have an appointment," the fare said to the crowd as he alighted, trying to cover his retreat.

The taxicab driver took his seat triumphantly and with a mocking foot of his horn drove away. He still was king.

Attention, School Children.

Those having school books to discard can do a most charitable act by leaving them at the Red Cross rooms where Mrs. Schefflin will give them to pupils next fall who cannot afford to buy. Doubtless there are many high school as well as grade pupils who will gladly give school books they have finished to the Home Service department.

BLIND SOLDIERS CAN WORK IN SHIPYARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—That both the blind as well as the maimed of the great war are fully capable of doing certain necessary work in shipyards, rigging lofts and hangers is the opinion of F. J. Luebert, head of a tent manufacturing concern, who made the discovery while endeavoring to find sufficient help in order to fill his war contracts, with the United States government.

Short of help for preparing foot stops and gup ropes for his tents, which consists in knotting and splicing, it occurred to Mr. Luebert that if the blind were capable of becoming adept at basket weaving, the same principles would apply to making complicated knots and splices. His offer of work to the students of several institutions for the blind was accepted and the result proved a complete success.

HEART OF HUMANITY SPECIAL ORCHESTRA AT PAGE SUNDAY

The showing of the "Heart of Humanity" at the Page commencing Sunday will be on the same general plan as this great feature was presented at the Columbia theatre, Portland, where it made a record run for that city for two weeks. It will be the most complete and finished presentation of a moving picture in Medford since the first showing here of the "Birth of a Nation." "The Heart of Humanity" is a guaranteed attraction and one of the greatest and best productions ever filmed. It will be shown for three days at the Page, commencing Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BILL HART FOR LAST TIME AT LIBERTY

Virility, the breeziness of the west, the qualities of manhood that inspire admiration, are the strongest traits of William S. Hart, whose latest Artcraft picture, "Breed of Men," is shown at the Liberty theatre today.

During his screen career, Mr. Hart has depicted western types of every description—bad men, punchers, woodsmen, ranchers, etc. His remarkably forceful personality imparts a realism to his acting that lifts it out of the commonplace and renders it distinctly superior and convincing.

His new picture offers great opportunities for the famous star, for the role he portrays is that of a positive daredevil among cowpunchers, a man who is afraid of nothing. He is involved innocently in a great wrong which he rights, finally after some strenuous work. Seena Owen is his leading woman.
