

TRANSFER OF CO. D COAST ARTILLERY CAUSES RUCTION

Surprise, consternation and indignation reigned among the members of Company D of the Third Oregon Infantry when it became known that Captain H. A. Canaday received an official order this morning from Adjutant General Straffin in notification of the transfer of the local company to the Oregon coast artillery service battalion about to be organized with Captain A. J. Vance of Medford in charge.

The members of the company declare that they will not abide by the order without putting up a strenuous fight against the proposed change, and assert that much injustice will be done the command and each man in it if such a change is made against their will. The officers of the company have nothing to say beyond the fact they are surprised and cannot understand why the order should have been issued.

About the middle of December when Adjutant General Straffin and Colonel Dentler, U. S. army inspection officer, were here to inspect the company, they at the time broached the subject of a change to the coast artillery service, saying that a battalion of that service was about to be organized and that there was a fine opportunity for the local company to get into it if they wished.

Company D to a man did not wish to, as was shown at the next company meeting, when they unanimously voted against the suggested change, and this news was sent to the adjutant general's office. The members of the company, which is a federalized command, say that they enlisted in the national guard by preference as infantrymen, as members of Company D, an infantry organization of the Third Oregon Infantry regiment, and that this attempt to change them to artillerymen and merge the company into a unit of the new battalion of coast artillery service is wrong and an injustice to them.

To say that the men of the company are disgusted is putting it mildly, as despite the fact that the Portland companies of the regiment have long had their full equipment the Medford company has been plugging along for six months past with only partial equipment, and to this day is still wearing its old cotton uniforms and is without the federal uniforms and other personal clothing equipment. There is not even one overcoat in the company.

The reason for the delay in sending this equipment is now apparent in view of the order just received, and the men assert that it was held back because of the contemplated change of the company over into the coast artillery service.

It is understood that the Ashland company of the Third Oregon is also to be transferred into the coast artillery service battalion which Captain Vance is scheduled to command.

Major White of Eugene, arrived in the city today to inspect the local company tonight. He is commander of the Third Oregon Infantry battalion to which the company is attached.

MRS. SCHEIFFELIN STILL WAITING FOR OFFICIAL NOTICE

Mrs. Rose G. Scheiffelin has not received any official notification of her appointment on the democratic party national committee as the woman member of that committee representing the state of Oregon, and probably will not until Dr. J. W. Morrow, Oregon member of the committee, returns home from its session which was held in Washington, D. C., this week. But at the time the prospective appointment was broached to her some time ago she agreed to accept it.

The appointment of Mrs. Scheiffelin to this high honor reflects credit on the women of Medford and southern Oregon irrespective of politics, and all acquainted with her well known ability and capabilities agree that no better selection could have been made.

For years Mrs. Scheiffelin has been a public spirited woman of much activity in club affairs and general activities. She is a former president of the Greater Medford club and was its secretary for several years, and is now and has been prominent in Red Cross work. She was one of the organizers and leading members of the Women Suffrage club of Jackson county.

All of her adult life Mrs. Scheiffelin has been interested in politics and has always been a democrat. She was an ardent supporter of President Wilson in his two campaigns, worked hard for his election and made many speeches throughout the county.

The notice of Mrs. Scheiffelin's appointment is contained in the following dispatch on Jan. 9th from Washington, D. C., to a Portland newspaper:

"The democratic national committee yesterday declared a vacancy in the office of associate committee woman from Oregon, thereby ousting Mrs. Alexander Thompson because of a lack of harmony with the national committee, Dr. J. W. Morrow, Dr. Morrow was authorized by resolution to name her successor, and announced he will appoint Mrs. R. G. Scheiffelin of Medford.

The action taken by the democratic national committee at Washington amounting, virtually, to the direct removal of Mrs. Alexander Thompson as the Oregon representative of the women's bureau of the democratic national committee is the direct result of a long standing feud existing between Mrs. Thompson and Dr. J. W. Morrow, national committeeman from Oregon.

"Mrs. Thompson does not like Dr. Morrow a little bit and has not hesitated to express her mind on that subject. She now contends that the national committeeman is 'stretching the truth' when he says that he 'made repeated requests for her resignation.' She says she was never asked to resign and that she does not consider it much of an honor to work with Dr. Morrow, anyway."

LIFE IN THE KLONDIKE AS LIVED IN 1897

Gripping situations and scenes, masterful dramatic effects and an all-star cast—these are the attributes that will make "Paid in Advance," the new super-production being shown at the Rialto theater, a picture that will remain in the memory of every motion picture devotee.

The locale of the story is the Canadian northwest, heart of the fur country, and Dawson City, Klondike, in the stirring days during the gold rush to the Yukon region. James Oliver Curwood, an eminent writer of novels and magazine stories wrote the tale.

Little need be said of Mr. Curwood's stories. He is an acknowledged authority on the life in the bleak, white wastes of the north, where he lives a part of each year. He is the only American ever hired by the Canadian government to make exploring trips in the Canadian north. His stories team with the life he depicts, and the filming of "Paid in Advance" has added to its brilliancy.

Lasca at Liberty Today

The first local showing of "Lasca" featuring Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts, opened at the Liberty today.

"Lasca" is based on the famous poem by Frank Desprez, adapted for the screen by Percy Heath, and produced on a lavish scale.

The scenes of "Lasca" are laid on both sides of the Rio Grande. It shows the life of the Mexicans as well as that of the Texans and gives a picturesque view of the wealthy frontiersman's existence during the most colorful period in the history of the Lone Star state.

Around the story suggested by the poem the author has woven a plot of the most engrossing interest—of love, jealousy and adventure culminating in the great stampede of the herd.

Frank Mayo plays the part of Moreland, the wealthy young American ranchman; Edith Roberts was chosen as the ideal player for the role of Lasca.

TO IMPORT GUERNSEY CATTLE INTO OREGON

The dairymen of Oregon who are lovers of Guernsey cattle are importing a ship load of Guernsey cattle from the Island of Guernsey. This stock is all registered and comes from some of the best foundation stock of the island. This stock will cost the Oregon breeders from $250 to $300 per head delivered. If there are any Guernsey breeders in Jackson county who are interested in this matter they should communicate with the county agent before January 17th, as orders for stock will close on that date.

DINNER PAIL PASSES FROM STEEL DISTRICT

PITTSBURG, Jan. 14.—The dinner pail is passing from the mills and factories of the Pittsburgh district. Restaurants and cafeterias are taking its place in the more important plants because executives are beginning to realize that a hot, palatable meal makes the workman more contented and more valuable than the cold, indigestible food packed away in a tin bucket.

Text includes: "You're the finest girl in the world and I am a thief!!", "And in the end he gave his life to save the man she loved, as lightly as once he would have taken the life of any man who crossed his path. Rex Beach is no cynic. He believes in the race. He knows there is a substratum of gold in the blackest heart. The Kid proves it. He is a thief—he is one of a gang of thieves—all of them redeemed from dishonor and shame by a young and innocent girl playing a lone hand in a land that knows only one type of woman!" and "A peach of a story!—a Beach of a story!—a story of love and honor rising from the mud of primitive passions and surging through reefs of nip-and-tuck suspense, told by one of the greatest photo-dramatists of his time, and screened with the scenic fidelity and crystalline photography of Goldwyn!"
