Butter

Portland, Jan. 26.—Effective today the local butter market advanced three cents a pound on both prints and butterfat. This was occasioned by the fact that all outside markets are higher than Portland.

The new prices are 64c for prints in plain wrappers and 63c for cartons. The buying prices of butterfat are 59¢@60¢ at country stations and 62¢@64¢ delivered in Portland.

The advance here followed a substantial rise in the eastern and San Francisco markets, it was said.

San Francisco Markets

CENTRAL POINT

W. E. Alexander left the first of the week, in his Dodge car, for southern California to join Mrs. Alexander, who has been in California the greater part of the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will be among California relatives and friends several weeks before returning home.

Mrs. John Barnum and little daughter of Portland are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Stearns, at their home here.

Miss Arlene Hay, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hay of this city, who met with what came near being a fatal accident last week, accidentally getting hold of a live electric wire near the railroad crossing on Main street, has so far recovered from the shock to her nervous system and from her serious burns as to return to her school work again. But for the timely aid of some passers-by at the time of the accident and the nursing cries for help of her young schoolmate, who was with her, the young lady would have been killed. As it was she suffered severe shock and great prostration. It is inconceivable that she was retaining the damages wrought by the storm in December on all electric lines, could be so careless as to leave such a danger lying in the heart of town on one of the most traveled thoroughfares. It is hoped that these people who, through their carelessness, have been responsible for this accident, will see to it, in the future that no near fatality of this nature will occur.

W. L. Tuttle of Fargo, North Dakota, is spending a month with his brother, C. N. Tuttle and family, west of this city.

T. E. Sandor, formerly of Central Point, but now of Elk Creek, arrived here Friday from a month's business trip in the east.

The annual installation and dinner of the W. R. C. held Saturday evening in the lodge room in the Central Point opera house, was a highly successful and very pleasing affair. The dinner served was delicious, the program fine, the floor work excellent and the social hour all that could be desired. It was an entire success in every way.

W. E. Kahler, well known business man and a prominent figure in all church activities here, who has been seriously ill, shows improvement at this writing, and it is earnestly hoped by his many friends that his condition will soon be improved that there will be no occasion for alarm.

C. S. Sanderson, the Beagle merchant, and former real estate agent of Central Point, was in the city during the week looking after business interests.

Central Point L. O. O. F. Lodge No. 193, with the following officers, W. A. Cowley, D. D., grand master; M. M. Kinde, grand warden; J. W. Jacobs, secretary; W. A. Ryburn, marshal; J. B. Boswell, treasurer; R. H. Moore, chaplain, installed the following dates: Medford, January 17; Talent, Jan. 21; Ashland, Jan. 22; Jacksonville, Jan. 23, and Gold Hill, Jan. 24. The Central Point organization is a wide awake, flourishing lodge having a large membership, which is also increasing rapidly, seven new members having swelled the membership during the past month.

Fred Dunlap and family, who came here from Butte Falls some six months ago, have moved to Sams Valley, where they will make their home at the Siskiyow orchards.

SAMS VALLEY

A large crowd attended the literary Friday night and several new members joined the society. The following officers were installed: President, Charles Frederberg; vice president, O. T. Wilson; secretary, Mrs. O. F. Freeman; treasurer, Miss Elsie Tresham, and sergeant at arms, John Jones.

The suspicious spread given by the Sunday school members at the Sams home Sunday in honor of Charles Frederberg, who retired from the Sunday school superintendency, was enjoyed greatly by all who attended. After the 30 members had greatly reduced the loaded tables, the spent the remainder of the day in conversation and music.

Mrs. Kizer, who has spent most of the winter with her son Mike, left last week for her home in the east.
