Corn Mark Firm
CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Although sensational news breaks in sterling exchange induced some scattered selling of corn today, the corn market showed but little disposition to give way in sympathy. Opening corn prices, which varied from unchanged, $1.35 to $1.35 1/2, and July $1.32 1/2, to $1.32 3/4, were followed by a rally all around to above yesterday's finish. After opening 1/2c off to a shade advance, including May at $1.35, oats hardened a trifle.

NEWSPAPER BEST AID IN A QUICK SALE
CORVALLIS—Peter Ulan, Sr., of Riddell, Ore., sold his six purchased papers through his community newspaper, the Riddle Enterprise, before they were ready for delivery. He put the following notice in the want ads to run till pigs were sold—which proved to be just ones: "Six thorough bred Duroc Jersey pigs will be for sale about January 1. Enquire of Peter Ulan, Sr." This is the best known way to market surplus high class farm livestock as well as many other kinds of farm produce that ought to be sold in the grower's community, says the O. A. C. press bulletin. The college is conducting a campaign in favor of wider use of community newspapers for marketing, to cut down cost of sales and delivery.

NEWBERRY SPENT NOTHING
"This combination of circumstances roused many a man in Michigan to the belief that it was his patriotic duty to do all in his power to assure the selection of Commander Newberry, and they expected to be promptly notified."

OH! EACH DAY A LITTLE MORE
Hurry! Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty by pay, but by patriotism—that they were actuated not by avarice, but by Americanism.

"Getting into this campaign was not of the choosing of Commander Newberry and he entered with the utmost reluctance and only after repeated urging. As early as August, 1917, a group of representative citizens had a conference on the senatorial situation. In addition to the governor of the state there attended a publisher, a banker, a lawyer, a soldier and a business man.

Newberry Very Coy
"After canvassing the qualifications of other distinguished republicans, it was their composite judgment that they should organize a movement to elect Truman H. Newberry. Their desires were communicated to the commander, who, by the way, never left his post of duty from the spring of 1917 until the war was over." Mr. Newberry expressed doubts as to the propriety of his being a candidate and refused to consider the proposal. In December and January this movement continued and furthered until finally the commander seriously set out to determine whether it was his duty and would be desirable for him to run.

Didn't Spend a Dollar
"It was not until this had all happened that he consented to the use of his name. He stipulated that he could not leave his duties; that he could not be active and that he could not contribute one dollar to this movement. This determination not to be active nor to contribute one cent was religiously adhered to by him from the beginning to the end and the proof will positively show that not one dollar of his money was ever handled by any one.

The organization that was subsequently built up under the supervision of Mr. Paul H. King was undoubtedly the most perfect political organization ever put together. With a few conspicuous exceptions, every township, every hamlet and city in the state was organized. The commander was running against the best advertised man in America. It was indispensably necessary, in the judgment of these respondents, in the principal charge of the campaign that his qualifications be given the widest publicity. A general advertising campaign of newspapers, circulars, pamphlets and similar devices was organized, in charge of the most skillful publicity men who could be found—who did their work thoroughly and with absolute honesty."

From this point the attorney told the jury in detail the connection of most of the respondents with the case.

Coughed Night and Day
John Voguen, Elberton, Ga., writes: "Last fall, when my neighbors were down with influenza, I took a severe cold and before I was aware of my condition I was down sick in bed. I coughed night and day and my throat was raw and sore. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and took eight small doses in two hours. My condition began to improve and in a few days I was as well as ever. In my opinion Foley's is the best cough medicine made." For sale by Medford Pharmacy.
