

ANDREWS-SCUTTI CONCERT WILL BE A MUSICAL TREAT

The Arloine Andrews-Scutti concert which has been under preparation for some time and will be given Tuesday evening, February 10th, at the Presbyterian church promises to be the principal event of Medford's musical season. There has been an unusual dearth of high class musical attractions here this winter and this concert will prove a great satisfaction to music lovers.

Those who have had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Scutti sing are the ones who are most enthusiastic about hearing her again. She is one who never fails to delight her hearers in more ways than one, for it is not only her glorious voice and artistic interpretation, but a warm and charming personality that wins her audience at once.

Her program is one that will show her versatility as a singer. Tickets are on sale at Palmer's Music store and Andrews' Studio, Seats $1.00.

Yellow Mustard for Sore Throat, Tonsilitis

Old fashioned remedies are often the best. Yellow Mustard, in the form of plaster or poultice, has been used for generations for soreness, inflammation, congestion and swellings with most excellent results but it blistered.

Head, ear, nose and throat pain and sore throat are relieved by the use of yellow mustard, together with other pain relieving ingredients is just as hot, but quicker, cleaner, and more effective and cannot blister.

When your throat is sore, when you have pleurisy, bronchitis or a pain-shooting chest cold you can get speedy and lasting relief with this most effective preparation because heat eases pain—20 and 50 cents at druggists or by mail, S. C. Wells & Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

LOCAL MINISTER EFFECTS CURE OF SLEEP SICKNESS

Through what is said to be the first cure of sleeping sickness ever performed in this country, Mrs. William Hill of Ashland in company with her sister, Mrs. H. Thomlinson of Portland, will leave for that city tonight.

The cure was effected by Dr. Jonett Bray, pastor of the Methodist Church South of Medford, who was a former character. Mrs. Hill's sickness attracted much attention. She was taken down December 4, and the efforts of several physicians to awaken her and restore her to normal condition, failed. Dr. Bray, whose interest in the case was aroused because of his being a former practitioner, then began working on the case December 30, and in ten days' time he had Mrs. Hill thoroughly out from the sleep.

His treatment included adjusting the vertebrae of the spine, relieving the subluxation of the axis and atlas, thus removing the pressure on the brain, which Dr. Bray believes caused the sleeping sickness.

When Mrs. Hill came out of her long sleep her eyelids were paralyzed, but she was in nearly normal condition otherwise, and now she can hold her eyelids open.

Dr. Bray hopes to go to Portland soon and treat another case of sleeping sickness. If a similar condition of the vertebrae is found in the second he will feel justified in claiming he has found the cure.

CALLS SIMS SHORE HERO (Continued from Page One)

Gloves and Vice Admiral Grant recommended commanding officers under them for distinguished service medals who displayed these high qualities when their ships, struck by mines or torpedoes, were sunk or damaged. The board of awards approved their recommendations. The greatest thing that a man ever does in this world is to turn a stumbling block into a stepping stone. If medals are not given for this sort of noble courage and coolness and direction in supreme danger, what on earth are they designed for?

Rank Doesn't Count
Referring to Admiral Sims' statement that he had not recommended any enlisted men for medals because "we had nothing to give them," the secretary called the committee's attention to be creating the awards which he said made no distinction between an admiral, captain and enlisted man.

"It is the service he renders, the services in peril and not his rank that counts," he added.

Referring to the bestowal of the distinguished service medal on Admiral Benson because of his service as chief of naval operations, Mr. Daniels declared he would give the same medal "that goes to that great and distinguished officer to the humblest sailor lad, who when placed in a position of great responsibility in a time that tested the stuff of which a man is made, met the demands of his duties and placed his life in jeopardy in order that his ship and the lives of others might be preserved."

With that in mind, he ordered further study of naval records when he found that only 119 enlisted men of the 500,000 in the navy during the war had been recommended for any such honor, he explained. As the result of this study as yet incomplete, he said 13 additional men were awarded the distinguished service medal and 68 more men were put on the list for navy crosses.

Morale Not Destroyed
Emphatic denial was made by the secretary of Admiral Sims' statement that the policy followed in awarding medals had "shot to pieces" the navy's morale.

"It is an insult to the splendid men of the service could be seriously injured by any question of awards to individuals," the secretary said on that point. "Their loyalty is in no sense dependent upon medals."

Explaining Admiral Sims' mention of a message from the secretary asking what recommendation had been made for "Bagley" (Mr. Daniels' brother-in-law) and other officers of the Jacob Jones, and other destroyers that were attacked, Mr. Daniels said the note was written late one afternoon after all officers in charge of reports had left the department and was written as the easiest way of getting the information. There was not at that time and never has been, Mr. Daniels declared, any question of favoritism or relationship in the matter of his relations with Commander Bagley.

Mr. Daniels said he had no criticism of the work of the board of awards, headed by Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight and that its recommendations were faithfully made on the basis of the meager information in its possession.

O. A. C. HENS LAY 70,176 EGGS FOR PORTLAND POOR

COBVALIS—A flock of 425 "Oregon" laid last year for the poor of Multnomah county farm 70,176 eggs valued at $2,500.00. Not only did the hens supply strictly fresh eggs for the inmates of the county inmates, but they provided employment for some of the county wards, which meant a little zest in their otherwise monotonous life.

Under the supervision of the farm foreman, U. G. Smith, the inmates did practically all the work in feeding and caring for the flock. The pullets were hatched and grown at the poultry department of the Oregon Agricultural college. Every two years for the last five years, pullets have been supplied by the college. They are kept for two years, except the poor layers, which are culled out each summer.

The flock has been laying well and it has not been necessary to cull many. Though it does not get what would be called expert care, the record of 165 eggs a hen in the second year of laying was much better than the first year performances of the average flock of pullets.

After paying for the feed there was a profit left of about $1200.

Did your Forefathers Spring from the tree tops?
The answer awaits you.
Three Days Starts Today
"The Female Tarzan" or "A Scream in the Night"
THE THEORY: Darwin said that our forefathers leaped from tree-tops and found love in the weird ape-haunts of the jungles.
THE FACT: Professor Silvio attempted to prove the theory and used a beautiful girl as his experiment. His attempts, however, failed miserably when pitted against the divine law of love.
The triumph of FACT over THEORY is sensationally depicted in the new drama, "A Scream in the Night."
