

Local Briefs

The members of the First Methodist church as well as the friends of Medford generally are paying much attention to the new church building which will be built in Medford. The location committee of this Methodist district of which Dr. J. Palmer and Clarence McKee are the only local members and of which Mrs. J. B. Wards of Ashland and Mrs. of Grants Pass are members, last week selected the location, which was one of three desirable places in the central portion of the city, but their selection must meet the approval of Bishop Stuart S. Hines of Portland before it is final. The bishop comes to Medford to speak at the Lincoln day banquet, and will take up the question with the local committee the following day.

Headache for health. Fred Collins, formerly of Medford, was severely burned about the face and head Tuesday while at work at the Collins garage in Grants Pass. He had put some waste oil in the stove, not knowing there was a smoldering fire. The waste made gas of the oil waste, and when he next opened the stove the gas immediately ignited and smothered out into his face, badly blistering the skin and singeing the hair from his head. The burns are quite painful, but will leave no permanent scars.

Mrs. Hensbet, of this city, was last night taken to Mercy hospital suffering from an acute attack of influenza-pneumonia and her condition is said to be serious. The case of Mrs. Hensbet is truly a pitiful one. She is the widowed mother of six small children. To support and educate her family the little woman has been taking in washing and working night and day that her children should have proper care. Now it seems that this tireless bit of motherhood is to be robbed of her own ambition, that of seeing her children grow into manhood and womanhood under her guidance.—Roseburg Review.

SOME OIL WELLS LAST FOR FIFTY YRS. SAYS EXPERT

No one can tell how long an oil well will produce. The Campton fields in Kentucky have been producing for over 15 years. Oil men claim they know of wells that have been producing for over forty years. A well known geologist states that he knows of oil wells that have been producing for over 50 years.

Geologist, Man of Science

There is not so much luck or chance about finding oil as many people imagine. The geologist is a man who applies science to oil finding. One company employed eighty-five geologists to locate wells, and they found oil forty out of forty-two times they drilled for it.

Over 600,000,000 barrels of oil per year would be needed to supply the world's mercantile navies, to say nothing of its war ships. The world's total annual production of oil is only slightly more than 400,000,000 barrels a year.

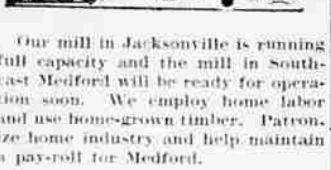

It takes nearly 100,000 of some of the crude used in watches to weigh a pound.

Model 20—Republic DREADNAUGHT—3½ Tons

Here is a truck built with ample strength and power for heaviest hauling. Red Seal Continental motor gives 32.50 horse power at 1000 r.p.m. Carburetor of late improved float-feed type is specially designed and adapted for power and economy. Perfected oil governor absolutely controls speed and delivers maximum power at all speeds. Four speed transmission gives flexibility and adds power at low speeds.

Two piece drive shaft, tapered at ends, with three universal joints and supported at center by self-aligning bearing insures smooth, even transmission of power. Rear spring suspension constructed according to government design. Heavy steel wheels of spoke type, equal to the severest service, wheelbase, 165 inches. Press-on Firestone tires 36" x 5" front, 36" x 5" dual rear. Pneumatics, extra price.

Both these models give extra value that is apparent to the experienced truck buyer—the minute he sees them. They are the result of Republic's experience in building the more than 50,000 Republic Trucks now in use.

Every particle of Republic's vast resources and manufacturing facilities has been efficiently used to make these two improved models the best in the entire field of medium heavy haulage. They have been the center of attention at every truck show. Capacity ratings are extremely conservative as you will appreciate when you see these staunch, sturdy trucks. Arrange to see them now. Telephone us and our representative will call with full particulars.
