Ye Smudge Pot

By Arthur Peery

A lady tried to warm her hands Sun, eve, at the fake fireplace in the lobby of the Rialto.

The mutilated remains of democracy in Oregon has written Senator Chamberlain a letter conveying the news that he is "out of step." That is just it. He is so much "out of step" that nobody runs anywhere near him.

War is hell, but news that the Poles knocked the same out of the Bolshevik offensive is welcome.

It has been discovered that the flour America east on the waters for Italy is returning as spaghetti.

Link Saito hails in the same language as Harry Manning's son and heir.

Citizens returning from California protested that they were soaked financially good and proper. Residents of the land of the lemon and the nut are taught to believe that is what the rest of the world is for.

Opponents of good roads know that Rome built the best roads of all time—and they are paying dividends today.

Many teachers hope to earn enough during the summer vacation to be able to teach again next winter.

It is great to be prepared. The Trigon Oil Company has "No Smoking" signs up.

There is a chance for an argument in the allegation of the Portland preacher that the women "would look better without paint."

All things being in order at home, it is fitting that the administration should aid in the establishment of a "stable government" in Turkey, which is more than they deserve.

Elijah Come is a resident of Turner, Ore. A form of religious hysteria has been predicting the event for years.

Instead of praying for rain exclusively, it might help to appeal for water without specifying the manner of its delivery.

SCHULDERMAN OUT FOR SECRETARY OF STATE

H. J. Schullerman, corporation commissioner of Oregon, has announced his candidacy to secretary of state on the republican ticket.

Mr. Schullerman was appointed corporation commissioner by Governor Withycombe in 1915 and in 1917 was reappointed for the four-year term. He is a native Oregonian, 45 years old and practiced law in Portland.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Schullerman makes the following statement: "If nominated for secretary of state and elected at the general election, I shall conduct the office on strictly business lines, cutting down expenses wherever possible and securing economy and efficiency as I have done in the office of corporation commissioner."

STRANGE—STRANGE—STRANGE

POLITICS make strange bedfellows. So do treaties. Here we have the Hon. Elihu Root of New York and William Jennings Bryan of Lincoln, Nebraska, in accord regarding the peace treaty and league of nations. Shades of 16 to nothing!

Mr. Root is also in accord with Samuel Gompers. "We should not attempt to make any man work against his will or take away his right to strike," declares the mentor of Knickerbocker Republicanism. If that had been said by some obscure cross ways lawyer, Attorney General Palmer would have deported him for sedition.

So it goes all down the line. The old party lines are so scrambled that a conscientious historian can't find any tracks that don't stagger like a U. S. sailor in his first wet port.

Look at Borah. The Idaho solon frankly declares that if the Republican platform doesn't condemn the League of Nations, he will take the stump against the party, and we suppose, run for office on the democratic ticket. Hiram Johnson seconds the motion. Apostasy! Treason!

But of all partizan Nihilists Senator Chamberlain of Oregon takes the cake. The democratic chairman of Multnomah county, supported by the democratic chairman of the state central committee, supported by Newton McCoy and P. M. Myers, proclaim "Our George" is not even a 50 per cent Democrat. He is a stalwart Republican. Not only does he ride in a Republican upholstered limousine, but aids and abets the oil trust! And if "Our George" runs on the Democratic ticket, these simon pure evangelists of Wilsonism will support the Republican nominee—probably one Robert Stanfield.

Now, seriously in the name of 100 per cent partizanship,—can you beat it!

MIXING PAPER AND POLITICS

SPeAKING of political newspapers and independent newspapers and genuinely non-partizan newspapers, our contention that the only sane and sensible policy for a newspaper is to steer clear of entangling political alliances is effectively demonstrated by William Allen White the famous Kansas editor.

Bill has conducted one of the best country newspapers in the world, and while he has been normally Republican he wandered off with T. R. in 1912 and he has never hesitated to criticize a G. O. P. adherent or boost for a Democrat.

But this year Bill got the political bee and decided to run as delegate to the national Republican convention. Here is the effect, and also the cause of Wm. Allen raising his right mitt and ejaculating "Never again!"

"Heavy, heavy hangs over our head." The white light that beats upon a candidate gleams upon the minority report of hair that shelters our thought works in our declining years. We are a candidate for delegate to the republican national convention from this congressional district, and with that candidacy liberty of the press is throttled in the Gazette.

But with this candidacy to the republican national convention we have given hostages to fortune. We are hamstrung and hobbled. Every line we write has to be considered in view of its effect upon a lot of fanatic radicals who will think we have deserted them, or mossback stampedees who will see us defying the party coup every time we indicate that Moses did not write the Payne-Aldrich tariff upon the tablets of stone.

The War Is Over

To the Editor: I am an American. My forefathers for many generations have been loyal American citizens. I can not understand how people can be so narrow minded as to object to the sale of Allies products because an ex-member of the firm was indicted for un-American utterances during the war. If the principle of not trading with persons of foreign extraction because their nation had once been at war with the United States, were carried out, we would not now be trading with Great Britain, Spain or the Southern States. All the allies and the United States are now trading with Germany and are glad to do so. Then why should we be so shallow minded as to boycott an American-made product because its makers are of German extraction.

Many of our soldiers have married German girls and all the soldiers we have heard speak of it say that they think as much or more of the German people than they do the French. Therefore, when they buy German made goods it does not show a disregard for the service which our soldiers rendered to us. The war is over and it is time we were over our own bitterness and revengeful attitude and use a little common horse sense in our relations.

How to Get Pabst's Vote

To the Editor: Having observed in the columns of your very valuable paper, that the County Court is contemplating placing upon the ballots at the May elections, a $500,000 bond issue for certain roads, I desire, with your kind permission, to present the following:

CHAMPION QUILTS TO CUPID

PHILADELPHIA—Miss Olga Dorfner, swimming champion, has given up the one-piece bathing suit for a bridal veil. She now is Mrs. Harry E. Schoenhub, wife of a Philadelphia manufacturer.

It is supported entirely by voluntary contributions and has no expensive office holders, the secretary alone receiving a small salary. Eminent lawyers have donated their services and one of our best for the good of the cause. We invite the citizens of Medford, who are interested in this work to join us and local attorneys to aid us and to form a "local" branch of the league. It takes money to pay office rent and to publish programs and reports the public and any subscription will be gratefully received and acknowledged. We will gladly furnish further information to all who are interested and want a branch of the league in every town in the state.

Bishop Hughes for League of Nations

Bishop Matt S. Hughes is admittedly one of the brightest leaders of Christian thought in the United States. At present he heads the Methodist Episcopal church in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Alaska, and his opinions on public questions always command respect and attention. Only last Monday Bishop Hughes addressed the members' forum of the Portland chamber of commerce on "The New Internationalism."

The policy of isolation, as outlined by George Washington in his farewell address, was all right for the young and struggling nation, the bishop declared, but at the present time, when America has become the richest and most powerful nation on earth such a policy is not possible even if it were desirable. The expansion of American dominion by taking control of the Philippines, Hawaii and other islands, construction of the Panama canal and other expansion of the past has made isolation impossible, he said.

To follow our traditional policy now, even if it were possible, would be not only cowardly, but criminal, he said. "If out of this war there comes a League of Nations, not necessarily the league, which will make it forever impossible for a small group of men to call millions of men under arms to stain the fields with their blood, then the sacrifices which our boys made in France will not have been in vain."—Eugene Guard.

RAILROAD MAN EATS ANYTHING SET BEFORE HIM

Since I commenced taking Tangle all my troubles of eight years' standing have left me and I can do as big a day's work as any man," said J. Curry, a well-known barman on the Key Route Station who lives at 577 West Eleventh street, Oakland, Cal. "I had the worst kind of chronic indigestion," explained Mr. Curry. "I could hardly eat a thing or my stomach and had spells of belching and nausea almost every day and a bad taste in my mouth nearly all the time. I was so badly constipated that I had to take a laxative nearly every day, was troubled a lot with headache and was so nervous that at night I would roll and tumble from one side of the bed to the other without getting near enough sleep and when morning came I would be so tired I simply had to drag myself to work."

"I began taking Tangle and will say right here it measures up to everything people say of it, for it has put me back on my feet, my health is ever well. I eat anything or nothing without the slightest bad effect. I sleep like a log every night and all my other troubles are gone. I have more life and energy about me than I have had in years and can't praise Tangle enough for it is the most dependable medicine I ever found of."

Tangle is sold in Medford by West Side Pharmacy, and by leading druggists in every town.
