The many Medford friends of Freddie Anderson of Vancouver are elated at his splendid showing in the boxing contest with Joe Benjamin, at Portland Wednesday night, as related by the Portland newspapers, one of which says: Joe Benjamin today stands stripped of most of the laurels which he brought here with him from the east, and his ability as a boxer is sadly denied. Freddie Anderson, Vancouver's one eyed fistie marvel, dethroned Benjamin from his pedestal of pugilistic royalty and punctured his reputation almost to a farewell Wednesday night. At the end of the tenth round Referee Perle Casey called the furious affray a draw, but three-fourths or more of those in the packed house felt that Freddie had shaded the good-looking Hebrew and deserved the decision.
