FROST EXPERT IS IN MEDFORD READY FOR COLD SNAP

Floyd Young, the government frost expert arrived in the city with his family Saturday night from Pomona, Calif., to resume his usual frost season duties here, and the old hoodoo brought along with him just to demonstrate to his three months old son what he could do in the weather line, two of the most typically disagreeable March days ever known here, consisting of driving snow and rain and a very chilly, penetrating temperature.

The precipitation from Saturday noon to this morning in rain and snow, amounted to .24 of an inch, more than fell all last month, and it was still raining off and on this afternoon. This precipitation is a big boon to the agricultural crops and orchards, and was generally welcomed despite its disagreeable trimmings. Much snow fell in the mountains, and Hoque river and the other streams which for some time past had been at lowest ebb known for many years, steadily began to rise Saturday and are fast rising now. More rain and warmer weather are predicted for tonight and Tuesday.

Frost Expert Young's arrival is rather timely, as the fruit buds are far advanced and dangerously nearing the stage where frost would injure them, especially the pear buds, which are ready to burst out with three or four days of war weather. The apricots are already blooming in the Ashland and Medford section. Mr. Young will prepare for action in frost warnings soon, and in the meantime has some work to do in cleaning up last season's work in the way of making reports and the like. Their only child, a three months old son, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Young at Pomona. The family is at the Medford temporarily until they can find a suitable dwelling or apartment.

WAR CHAPLAIN CHIEF SPEAKER TUESDAY MEETING

Among the many questions propounded to the men who are promoting the expansion and re-organization campaign of the Medford Chamber of Commerce, five seem to be the uppermost in the minds of the citizens.

- 1. Why should Medford have a Chamber of Commerce? 2. What can the Medford Chamber of Commerce do? 3. Who is going to run the Medford Chamber of Commerce? 4. How will the Medford Chamber of Commerce be financed? 5. What about the permanence of the Medford Chamber of Commerce?

Each of these questions is a vital one. Beginning Tuesday, March 16, The Mail Tribune will publish the answers to the five queries, one each day for five consecutive days. Tuesday's special story will deal with the first question:

"Why should Medford have a Chamber of Commerce? The present expansion and re-organization movement of the Medford Chamber of Commerce will afford the young men of the city an excellent opportunity to make a closer and better study of community service matters, and they, together with the older men, the men who have been doing their part in putting Medford to the front will no doubt accomplish greater things in the future than have ever been accomplished in the past. Because of the opportunities offered during these days of reconstruction, it is a great age for the young man, and those who do not accomplish things now may never have as good a chance again.

"I bespeak for the Chamber of Commerce the commendation of all good citizens and believe that no man or woman who is financially able, will refrain from taking out a membership during this big drive. Let's every one of us bear in mind that this is a great opportunity to do our home town a lasting good, and help make this campaign a great success. -W. F. (Togger) Bill Isaacs.

The principal speaker at the community conference tomorrow evening at the Pazo theater will be Jake Allen, one of the chairmen of the late war who was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extreme valor under fire, who in private life until recently, has served as managing director of the Visalia Board of Trade. Mr. Allen is rated as a speaker of unusual ability, and those who hear him tomorrow night will be well repaid for their time and trouble.

Mayor C. E. Gates of Medford and James E. Green, former secretary of the Bethlehem, Pa., Chamber of Commerce of 2200 members, who is directing the present campaign for the local Chamber of Commerce, will make short talks. The program for the Community Conference will be featured with 30 members of community singing from special song sheets prepared for the occasion. The community singing will begin at 7:30 o'clock, and an orchestra will be engaged to furnish music for the occasion.

The announcement was made at campaign headquarters today that plans are progressing rapidly for the big civic dinner to be served at the Hotel Medford next Monday evening, March 22, at which time Henry Gaines Hawn will be the principal speaker. Mr. Hawn is president of the School of Speech Arts, Carnegie Hall, New York City; former president of the National Speech Arts Association and special lecturer upon oral English for the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. He is now engaged in delivering a series of lectures throughout the country for the American City Bureau in connection with the Chamber of Commerce campaign.

BUSINESS MEN DECLARE FOR A REVIVAL MEETING

Few editorials of recent times have attracted the wide attention given to one on "The Need of the Hour," by Richard H. Edmonds, and published in "Manufacturers Record." It is a business man's plea to business men for a genuine revival of religion, and reads as follows:

"Above all else of this country needs a nation-wide revival of old-fashioned, prayer-meeting religion. A religion that makes men realize that if there is a Heaven, there must of necessity be a Hell. A religion that makes a man realize that every act is recorded on his own conscience, and that though that may slumber, it can never die. A religion that makes an employer understand that if he is unfair to his employees and pays them less than fair wages, measured by his ability and their efficiency and zeal, he is a robber."

"A religion that makes a farmer, who packs bad fruit at the bottom and deceives the buyer by the good fruit on the top, realize that he is a thief just as much as the one who robs the hen roost at night. A religion that makes a man who robs a railroad of its fare, or its freight bill, know that he robs himself of all right to feel that he is an honest man."

Mr. Babson's Plea Mr. Roger Babson of Boston in Babson's Barometer Letter to Merchants, Bankers and Investors published an editorial on "The Need of the Hour," which strikes the same note. The following is an excerpt:

"The need of the hour is not more legislation. The need of the hour is more religion. More religion is needed everywhere—from the halls of Congress to the factories, mines and plants. It is one thing to talk about plans and policies, but a plan and policy without a religious motive is like a watch without a spring, or a body without the breath of life. The trouble today is that we are trying to hatch chickens from sterile eggs. We may have the finest incubator in the world, but unless the eggs have the germ of life in them, all our efforts are of no avail. The solving of the labor situation is wholly a question of religion. The wage-worker will never be satisfied with higher wages and shorter hours any more than you and I are satisfied with more profits and a bigger house. Things never did satisfy any one and never will. Communities and industries where right motives are paramount have no serious labor troubles. "Meanwhile what is happening to

ONE WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Of Interest to Expectant Mothers

Goshen, Ind. - "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results after I had suffered for some time with female trouble. Some years ago I had twin boys and took your Vegetable Compound before they came also before my four year old boy was born, and afterwards, and think it fine for such cases. I tell others what it did for me and you may publish my testimonial." -Mrs. Geo. A. Foss, 711 S. 9th St., Goshen, Indiana.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong, and this good old fashioned root and herb remedy contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

our churches? They are going to seed. The ministers are paid starvation wages and the whole church industry lacks pep and imagination. And yet the church is the only organization in existence for generating right motives in man. School-develop intellect, theaters and novels foster passion, but the church is the sole organization which develops those good motives of love and sympathy, hope and inspiration on which the industrial salvation of the world depends. But that organization is asleep, and other agencies which develop hate, jealousy and fear are running rampant. These two editorials constitute a vigorous plea for just the thing the First Methodist Episcopal church is trying to bring about in Medford, through the evangelistic campaign which has begun. The pastor, Rev. J. Randolph Sasmeth, says he expects to make his messages of a very practical character, applying the teachings of the gospel to local conditions. He also promises that subjects of a controversial character will have no place in the services. It is a drive to make Medford feel the impact of the teachings of Christ, and to bring to bear upon the life of the community these principles so vital to its very interest. The public is cordially invited.

The Fiftieth Anniversary

Just fifty years ago this winter Dr. Pierce gave to the world his famous "Favorite Prescription" for the distressing weaknesses and complaints of women. For many years he had been in the active practice of medicine and his specialty was the diseases of women. Later he desired to give this to the public, and he received a trade-mark protection from the United States patent office for this medicine which is an herbal, "temperance" prescription with all the ingredients printed on the bottle wrapper. In his every day practice in the early days he also used a tonic and alternative for the blood, which was so universally beneficial that he determined to place this medicine in the drug stores of the United States, where it could be readily procured by the public. This he called his "Golden Medical Discovery," which he had prescribed many years for the stomach, liver and blood. Both these medicines met with instant success, and during the past half century have sold in greater quantities than any other proprietary medicines. Neither of Dr. Pierce's medicines contains alcohol and both are herbal extracts of native medicinal plants. For the past fifty years forty-eight million bottles have been used by the American public, and they are today the standard tonics for men and women. They are now put up in tablet as well as liquid form, and sold by every druggist in the land. A trial package can be obtained by sending 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. Write Dr. Pierce if you want free confidential medical advice, or a free booklet on any chronic disease.

Where Romance and Adventure Flourish Still Travel by Land and Sea to the Picturesque Places of the World—Afforded by the United States Marine Corps.

"Sailing Orders" If you're weary of the office and your step has lost its snap, if you're looking for a life that fits you, if you want to go adventuring... All this jolly old world round, come a-runnin', runnin', buddy, when the bugle starts to sound. For we've got our sailing orders, and there's joy in all our hearts. O, we're dropping down the river, and it's hey for foreign parts! It's hey for Guam and Haiti! And the beach at Waukelet! The Marines have got their orders, and they're putting out to sea.

Home Life of the Marine No Marine ever seems to stay in one place long enough to get rusty. When he is not just off for foreign ports or just coming home from a tour of duty, he is on one of the big battleships which are always on the move from one port to another. Today he may be in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and the next day he may be in San Francisco Bay. And when he's on duty in the States he may be at any one of a number of interesting places—Quantico, the station just out of Washington; the League Island Navy Yard, at Philadelphia; the Brooklyn Navy Yard, at New York; or he may be at San Diego, in sunny California, or Mare Island, in San Francisco Bay.

The young man who has not felt the call of the sea, who has never known the "wanderlust"—that restless hunger for the sight of strange foreign lands and stranger people—he does not exist. But how many men neglect their opportunities and grow old without ever having wandered very far from their own home towns. What have such men gotten out of life? What have they looked back on but a monotonous round of uninteresting toil? How do they must envy their more fortunate—or perhaps more daring—fellows, who have traveled and seen and done—who have lived life to the full!

There is wireless telegraphy and signal work to be learned. There is training in scouting and woodcraft. Maybe you didn't know that every Marine is a regular Robinson Crusoe when it comes to making himself comfortable in a wild country. There is artillery practice and something of sailing, rowing and seamanship. For a Marine is a sailor as well as a soldier. But it's good work—all of it.

The Marine and the Wide World At the moment you are reading this there is hardly a country on earth where there are not United States Marines, doing men's work—free and playing, too, as real men play—storing up health and memories that will last them to the end of the chapter. There are Marines down in Cuba, picturesque old Cuba, almost as Spanish today as when the red and yellow flag of Spain floated over Morro Castle. In Haiti—the queer little republic, where the colored folks speak French, Marines are helping to stamp out the bandits on the way when they misbehave. That's life—life with just enough danger in it to make it worth the living.

There are Marines walking the streets of London and Paris, they are hearing real ukuleles on a real beach at Waukelet. They are in the Philippines and "somewhere east of Suez," where Mr. Kipling tells us "there ain't no ten commandments and a man can raise a fist." Maybe it isn't as bad as that, but the Orient is mighty interesting.
