The storm flag went up this morning and the wind and steady sky foretold the weather prediction that rain will soon be with us. C. C. Cate, local weather observer, as soon as ascertained that the wind, low barometer and other local conditions as well as outside ones indicated a heavy storm. The wind of today was stronger than usual for the Rogue River valley, and at times reached a 30 m.p.h. at hour's end. The official weather prediction from San Francisco merely says "Rain and warmer."
