LAMPORT STORE IS ROBBED, NO CLUES REPORTED

No clue has yet been obtained of the burglars who broke into the Medford Harness company store on East Main street, some time during Sunday night and carried away about a dozen revolvers of different calibers and munition for the same, several suit cases, some shoes and other articles as near as can be ascertained by E. H. Lamport, all to the value of from $300 to $400. It is conjectured however, that the burglars were three men who were strangers in the city and were seen here Sunday. Mr. Lamport has offered a reward of $100 for the recovery of the stolen articles.

The burglary was not discovered until Monday morning. The burglars gained entrance by breaking and forcing open the back door of the store with a crowbar and other tools they had stolen from the Trowbridge foundry on South Riverside. It is presumed that to get the revolvers was the chief object of the burglary.

ations and other department officials he was informed that the missions of his command were to prepare for instant service; to protect the coasts of the United States and train naval personnel.

Navy Orders Faulty

Disposal of the ships of the Atlantic fleet along the coast of Central America in 1913 and 1914 to protect American interests there had a "very detrimental effect," on its efficiency, Admiral Mayo said. The outbreak of war in Europe called attention to the "unsatisfactory condition" of his command, he said and he immediately began to whip his forces into shape. The result was reflected, he added, in the splendid condition of the fleet in the spring of 1917.

On February 3, 1917, Admiral Mayo received instructions to take every precaution for the safeguarding of the fleet in view of the strained relations with Germany. A few hours later orders for the defense of the fleet, were placed in effect he said.

Fleet Still Inadequate

Upon the return of the fleet to northern waters a patrol force of cruisers and smaller vessels was organized and he was informed that this force would be directed by the department.

"This was the start of what the commander in chief believed to be a false policy," said Admiral Mayo, namely control of active operations of subordinate forces by the department.

"In view of my presence in the area of operations to be covered by the patrol force the mission, in my opinion, should have been assigned to me."

"This fleet at the outbreak of war was lacking in types of vessels essential to efficiency, particularly battle cruisers, scout cruisers, light cruisers and seagoing submarines, the witness said, adding that "furthermore there are none of these types even now available."

"TEDDY" AGAINST EXPULSION

Two republicans, William W. Pellet, of New York, and Theodore Sittl, of Brooklyn, signed a report expressing the belief that the socialists were entitled to retain their seats. They state that no evidence was produced to show that the attitude of the socialists during the war was not other than negative, withholding aid, and comfort to their government, rather than a positive one of giving aid and comfort to the nation's enemies.

Two Members Dissent

Two democratic members of the committee, Maurice Bloch and William S. Evans of New York, hold that the members of the assembly cannot unseat the five socialists without violating their own oath of office.

Evans contends that under the constitution of the state the assembly is "forbidden from imposing upon any member any test of loyalty."

"Radical minorities," says Evans, "must not be driven from the legislature. It is better to have them in the legislature than in secret meetings in cellars."

"Liberty involves the right to think wrong," says Assemblyman Bloch in his report.

come from the front, told the correspondent that the continued existence of the treaty would mean another European war. Another member of the directing committee said the committee was thoroughly determined to subject the mines to sabotage if the reds were marched into the Ruhr district. The reds, he declared, would kill their families and themselves before surrendering.

ENGLISH COMPANY BUYS GOLD LAND ON ROGUE RIVER

Operation of another mining industry in Jackson county will be begun very soon in the Rogue River vicinity by Joseph S. Taylor, a mining engineer, and former British army officer, whose associates are presumed to be English capitalists. Mr. Taylor has been working quietly on the project since last July, purchasing land and gathering up the riparian rights along the east bank of the Rogue river for a strip of about a mile in length. He closed up the last deed on this strip yesterday afternoon with Attorney E. H. Hurd in Medford and then returned to Rogue River, after stating that he would begin gold dredging operations at once.

The first heard of Mr. Taylor, who was a high officer in the air service of the British army during the war, was when he appeared at Rogue River last July, making his headquarters at the Waller hotel in that town, after a trip to Australia and New Zealand following the signing of the armistice, and began making tests and buying up from the various owners a continuous strip of land and the riparian rights thereof between the Southern Pacific railroad track and the Rogue river from Ward's creek a mile this way, lying outside the Pacific highway. He paid from $100 to $300 an acre for the 25 to 30 acres in this strip.

All this time Mr. Taylor kept the fact that he wanted this land along the river for extensive gold dredging operations in the old river bed channel, a secret, and it was not until just before leaving for England last October to confer with his associates that he admitted this fact to E. H. Hurd, who as attorney for some of the owners from whom land was purchased, had had considerable dealings with him. He recently returned from England and closed up all the purchasing contracts. Twelve families will move to Rogue River as a result of this deal.

ROAD INSIDE THE RIM CRATER LAKE TO BE ABANDONED

Upon the suggestion of Will C. Steel, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, of a road on the inside of the rim of Crater Lake and also a connecting a tunnel to the rim road, the national park service, through its director, Mr. Stephen T. Mather, has made the following comment:

"There are so many very real and necessary improvements calling for all the time and labor under the small appropriations we yearly secure for the development of the park that I hesitate to make any promise for looking into either of these projects at this time. Regarding the road, I might say that I figure it would be approximately four miles in length and descending 900 feet during its course, would admit of a grade slightly in excess of 4 per cent. The constant movement of rocks taking place inside the rim would make travel on such a road dangerous at all times, and without doubt the avalanches of snow and rock that descend every spring would obliterate sections of the best road that could be built to a point where expense of upkeep would be prohibitive."

"The problem of development at Crater Lake is to get roads in such condition that the thousands of visitors may travel with a reasonable degree of comfort. I am more than glad, however, to have your suggestions, or have any other suggestions that occur to you from time to time."

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce are of the opinion that the inside rim road would be impracticable and therefore are not inclined to push the matter any further. The development asked for is that roads now established be maintained in good order and that new roads and trails be built as soon as appropriations available will permit.

STATE CHURCH MEETING HERE OPENS APRIL 8

The Jackson county conference of the Inter-Church World Movement will be held in Medford on April 8, the first session starting at 9 a. m. o'clock, according to L. Myron Hoover, executive officer for the county who has the local arrangements for the conference in charge. This is one of the conferences which will be held in every county in Oregon during the early part of April. According to present arrangements, the conference will include representatives from each of the Protestant churches of the county associated with the Inter-Church World Movement and any other church or friend of the churches, who may wish to attend.

The team of speakers who will have charge of the program at this conference were trained at a speakers' training conference which was held in Portland on Friday, March 26. They will have complete stereopticon equipment and will present the same slides that were used in the state pastors' conference in Portland in March.

At this conference, which is an outgrowth of the state pastors' conference, an organization will be made for financing and improving the local churches and to mobilize the Christian forces for their part in the campaign to raise Oregon's quota of the budget to be secured during the united simultaneous campaign April 25 to May 2. To carry out this program in its many details there will be set up a county church organization. This will be headed by a county advisory committee, composed of the pastor, a man and woman worker from each church in the county and chosen representatives of the forward movements of each denomination.

SETTLE SCHOOL TANGLE BY CALLING OUTSIDER

A situation of the Medford kind is almost impossible to straighten out without damage to the schools and injustice to individuals. It is a situation possible to arise in any city where a school board religiously keeps out of politics, employs the best superintendent it can get and backs him up in introduction of methods intended for school betterment. So long as a school board is kept in power it can do little less in honor than stay by its superintendent, unless the superintendent is guilty of mismanagement sufficient to justify his removal before the expiration of his contract. While lack of harmony in school administration is a severe reflection on a superintendent's administrative capacity, the fault is not always with the superintendent.

One of the best ways to cope with a difficulty like this is to call in an outside educator, or a committee of outsiders, to investigate and make recommendations. Being freed from factional feeling, such a committee often can find where the fault lies and suggest a cure that imposes a minimum of hardship.—Oregon Voter.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

Chamberlain's Tablets

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

HOME COMING OF ODD FELLOWS IS A GREAT SUCCESS

Successful beyond all expectation was the home-coming and reunion event staged by the Odd Fellows of Medford at their hall Monday evening. Two hundred persons responded to the invitations recently issued for this affair, fully one-half of whom were ladies—members of the Rebekah branch and wives of Odd Fellows. A full four hours of enjoyment was the portion of all present.

The program was introduced by the reading of letters and greetings sent by absent members and by officers of the grand lodge. This was followed by a well-varied program of musical numbers, readings and original stunts. The musical features were quartet selections by Messrs. Maddox, Millard, Bentley and Kirkpatrick, a duet by Messrs. McDonough and Meeker, and solos by Rev. D. E. Millard, A. B. Williams gave a humorous recitation, and G. W. Howard shared honors of the evening with his "slide" trombone effort. C. A. Hoover and A. J. Hanby furnished a very laughable sketch that would have made Luengah green with envy.

After a time of general mix-up and introductions and greetings, the assemblage was marched to the banquet room, where a very refreshing repast was served.

By all, this was voted one of the most delightful events that has been undertaken by the I. O. O. F. lodge for a long time, and encourages a probable series of similar affairs.

It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity to-day with the understanding that the purchase money will be cheerfully refunded to any dissatisfied user.
