Wonderful Results from Internal Baths

Mrs. Geo. Matthew, Carthage, S. D., writes Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute of New York, as follows:

"With reference to your J. B. L. Cascade" will say I wouldn't part with mine under any circumstances. It is simply wonderful what it did for me less than a year ago. I was in very poor health, short breath, dizziness, headache, heartburn, rheumatic pain and bloating, but after using the Dr. Tyrrell's Tonic and J. B. L. Cascade" for a few weeks, faithfully, those ills have left me and I feel like a new person.

"The J. B. L. Cascade" cleanses the lower intestine its entire length and keeps it always free of poisonous waste.

Thousands testify that Constipation, Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Biliousness, Headaches and all the many serious troubles which they cause are absolutely relieved and prevented by this Nature Treatment.

The West Side Pharmacy will be glad to show you the "J. B. L. Cascade," explain its simple operation and will give you, free on request, an interesting little book by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, a noted specialist on Internal Bathing for 25 years in that City. Clip this out as a reminder to ask for the booklet at your first opportunity.

Always it has been the backing of his banking institution that has brought fruit industries, packing plants, paper mills and a variety of other industries to Salem, and stood back of them once they were located there until their success was assured. That this broad policy of community building is sound in a business sense is shown by the fact that the institution adopting it has grown larger and stronger as the city has expanded commercially and industrially. There are in every community wealthy men who might well emulate Mr. Bush in constructive investments and by adopting a policy of helpfulness to those who are engaged in legitimate commercial and industrial activities, and do it, too, in a quiet way, as if it was the most natural thing in the world to do, just as the Salem banker has always seemed to view it."

UP TO THE PEOPLE

DICK CROCKER was always a man of few words. But shortly after his horse won the English Derby he made a speech to a group of Tammany politicians who visited him at his country estate near Dublin, and among other things he said:

"Orby won on brains. That's what wins all races, in politics as well as on the track. This man Hughes might make a good drum major in the Salvation Army, but he won't last long. He doesn't know any more about politics than horse races. Tammany wins on brains, because Tammany out thinks these Sunday school reformers and white necktie hymn singers. Tammany knows that the people will vote for the man that puts butter on their bread,—and Tammany bread is always buttered. They talk a lot about bosses,—but no one bosses the people. The people merely have the sense to know on which side their bread is buttered, and they vote that way."

Nevertheless, Hughes won. But the system which the former Tammany chieftain outlined still holds good, and is based upon a shrewd appraisal of human nature. Tammany's system in Crocker's time was briefly to give the voters a free picnic in public and then engineer a generous rake off, for their own pockets in private. The essential principle involved was that discovered by P. T. Barnum that the people love to be humbugged.

The success of this system depends upon the apathy of the public toward public affairs,—the indifference of the masses to the details of politics. There has been marked improvement in this direction the past few years, but there is still much to be desired.

Take the present presidential campaign for example. The American people are to select a manager for the largest and most important business in the world. One might expect the individual to show a fraction of the concern he would show if his private business were involved. But there is no indication of this to date.

None of the candidates are being analyzed for their business capacity, their efficiency and skill as demonstrated in the past, but if current discussion is a criterion, the public is entirely concerned with the most trivial and irrelevant details,—whether or not General Wood has a tumor of the brain, Lowden lived on his wife's money, Hoover was knighted by King George, McAdoo was Mary Pickford's attorney, Johnson wrote a letter to Lenin, etc., etc.,—all the most delirious nightmares, which the most superficial investigation would dispel, and many of which, if true, would have no vital bearing upon the fundamental issue.

Hoover was right when he said all the candidates considered are good Americans, deserving well of their country, the only important matter for the people to decide, is which, in light of the circumstances, is the best. There is no question of General Wood's physical vigor, Lowden's financial independence, Hoover's Americanism, McAdoo's legal ethics, or Johnson's loyalty,—the only question is which man holds the higher promise of being best qualified for the presidential job.

A little more substantial, clear-headed analysis of the candidates at this time, and a little less of the childish gossip which is going the rounds, would go far toward showing Mr. Crocker again, that he is wrong.

What We Know and What We Do

To the editor: Please insert the enclosed regarding the inter-church world movement. This is only one example of the attitude many leading religious periodicals and ministers are taking. All Christians should prayerfully seek God's guidance, and study to know the right, before entering into this movement.

(An editorial under date of January 22, 1920, in The Presbyterian, of Philadelphia.)

"We know that the world of today is in a state of great unrest and is virtually turned upside down. The church also is greatly confused, does not see the way to discharge its solemn and all-important duties under the conditions, and is more and more being drawn into unauthorized and frenzied movements.

"We know that the great Methodist church has pledged, but not yet collected, the fabulous sum of about $112,000,000 in connection with its Centenary, and at the same time lost 50,000 members.

"We are told that the Presbyterian church has reached the highest per capita contributions in its history and has compared with any of its evangelical sisters, and at the same time lost from its church membership more than 28,000 souls, and from its Sabbath schools there has been a loss of about 70,000. We have not the figures from other denominations, but the reports from these two great churches are certainly very serious.

"We have read that the great Columbus (Ohio) exposition cost the Methodist church about $1,399,000, and the income from it was about $300,000, leaving a deficit of one million dollars.

"The survey shows that the homes and hospitals are overcrowded and have been closed to many who are in dire need.

"This great Interchurch World Movement means great salaries and expenses. More than this, great conventions are being held at much expense, and there are now planned forty-eight state conventions, the delegates to be invited by the authorities in New York, and the expenses to be paid out of great central funds. The purpose of this, involving thousands upon thousands of dollars, is simply to show what needs to be done and how to do it, but not even a finger is to be used to help bear the burden.

"In the meantime, the survey of the Methodist church shows that ninety-two per cent of their ministers who are doing the real work of the church are getting an average of $907 per year. This includes their parsonages. We have not seen the records for other denominations but they are not likely to vary essentially. How can these men work, how can they live on this support? They cannot work; they cannot live.

"Reports are coming to this office that pastors' wives are compelled to go out from their homes to teach school and do other work in order to help support their families. The church has no right to expect the blessing of God on such extravagance on the one hand, and such heartless injustice on the other.

"We know that the great movements have called pastors from many churches. At the Atlantic City convention there was a whole host of vigorous young ministers who have been taken from their churches to push the great what-to-do and how-to-do movement, while in every city, and almost every town and country, there are numbers of pastorless churches.

"Our Lord sent His apostles and ministers out to preach. Paul declared he was not sent even to baptize, but to preach. Preaching, personal preaching, is magnified in the New Testament and the history of the church.

"Now the Interchurch World Movement is conducting at the Madison Square Garden, New York, (the largest place of public assembly in the United States), the great pagan developed and used by the Methodists at Columbus, with such a colossal deficit. The white elephant has been loaded on to the Interchurch World Movement. Are they, too, to enjoy a deficit?

"The miracle plays had a full test in the Middle Ages, and after the full test they were rejected because of their inherent profanity in attempting to put into human caste that which belongs only to the divine. Despite a certain restraint which appears in this performance, it is a clear evidence of modern degeneracy toward the corruptions of the Middle Ages.

"We need go no further with details. Have we not in some of these things explanation why the young people are leaving the church and why there is such a slump in membership? Is it not all-sufficient to make the head sore and the heart sick?

"The bishops of the Methodist church (South) refused to endorse this movement and their general conference will not meet for two years. The Methodist church (North) has not assumed responsibility for it and their general conference will not meet before May. The great Baptist church of the South has refused endorsement.

"Is it not time that all the evangelical churches would relieve themselves of the responsibility for such frenzied movement before it is too late and return once more to the care of the great cause and commission thru their regular courts and agencies? If we go on at the present reckless rate, what must the outcome be?

"In the sky of modern Protestantism a portentous cloud rises above the horizon, showing the pride of big money, mighty organization, and low spirituality. This cloud is already larger than a man's hand."

SAVE THE BABIES

Last year we lost two hundred and fifty thousand babies, and over twenty thousand mothers died in childbirth—and the government did nothing. However, congress did spend forty-seven million dollars to save hogs and cattle from preventable diseases. A bill now before congress appropriates money to save babies and mothers.—The same bill was killed in the last congress. The women of the country should bombard congress in support of the bill. Women and men in every congressional district should pledge candidates for congress to support the bill. Let women use their new power of voting to this end.

The United States government pays no attention to the health and lives of mothers and babies. It does pay attention to the health and lives of hogs and cattle. Last year our government spent forty-seven million dollars to protect farmers against avoidable losses of hogs and cattle. It did not spend a cent to save mothers and babies from avoidable death and we lost two hundred and fifty thousand new-born babies and twenty-three thousand mothers died in childbirth.

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen pays a mother a sum of money on the birth of a child—a sufficient sum to enable her to secure proper medical attention and a nurse. A few other like institutions do the same. About the only thing the public does, outside of charity, is to provide a penniless mother with a city physician, usually a third-rate doctor who is worked to death and consequently neglects individual cases.

Protection of maternity and infancy by the state is recognized as a principle of government in every great country in the world except our own. Women are regarded as the natural conservers of human life. Their enfranchisement has been urged not only because it is just, but because the weapon of the vote will arm them more effectively to protect women and children, to improve the race. Now that American women are practically enfranchised, will they use their political power for this purpose?—The Yeoman Shield.

TROTZKY ORATORY SWEEP AWAY THE KOLCHAK TROOPS

NEW YORK—How an army of 80,000 Kolchak troops "melted away" by desertion to the bolsheviks, following a speech made to prisoners of war by Leon Trotzky, in Omsk, Siberia, two days after that city's evacuation by the All-Russian forces, was told here today by Major General I. Thord-Grav, a former officer of the British, Canadian and All-Russian armies just returned from Vladivostok.

Trotzky, he said, addressing the prisoners as "comrades," said they would be welcomed by the red army if they cared to join. Captive officers, he said, who wanted to return to Kolchak would be given safe escort and 2000 rubles each. A number of the prisoners accepted the offer and, returning to their own lines, told what Trotzky had done. Within two weeks, General Thord-Grav said, Kolchak had practically no army and a few months later was executed.

General Thord-Grav went to Siberia with a Canadian expedition and was taken prisoner by the bolsheviks when they captured Vladivostok. Before leaving, two attempts, he said, were made to assassinate him. Toward the last, he said, the bolshevik troops showed better morale than Kolchak's men. They also had one machine gun for every 20 men, he said, whereas the Kolchak army had only three with every battalion, almost 600 men. During the retreat of the Kolchak army, a 2000-mile retirement, they were driven before machine guns, but seldom before rifle fire. General Sakharoff, the All-Russian war minister and chief of staff, he said, "lost the army at Omsk without a fight."
