

REAL ESTATE IS AGAIN ACTIVE IN CENTRAL POINT

CENTRAL POINT, April 26.—One of the new business places recently opened in Central Point is a real estate office on Main street, next door to the Central Point post office. Guy Tex and George Fox attend to the business there, and since their entrance into that now thriving occupation, many very important deals have been made. Central Point seems to be on the boom now, much of the land is changing hands and there promises to be much to keep the local real estate dealers busy.

D. D. Simpson, popular clerk in Faber's store here was on the sick list several days last week and was greatly missed at the popular business place where he daily serves the populace.

Ivan Arnold, young son of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Arnold of this city, who has been among Iowa relatives for the past several months, is in Central Point now and will remain in the valley permanently.

Early risers here for the past several mornings have seen on all sides the bright gleam of the snudgenots which have been illuminating the orchards and protecting them from the frost the past week. No considerable damage has been done to the fruit by the frosts thus far, but all orchardists are exercising the greatest care for the prevention of any great loss of fruit, and the black smoke, which envelops the place each morning will probably continue to hang over the city until all danger of frost is passed. The good housewife yearning for spring house cleaning, will well put it off until June.

A merry group of young people, members of the Grants Pass high school, bent on pleasure, some hiking and others riding, made their appearance here Friday evening visited several of the confectionery stores and then joyously continued their merry way.

There promises to be little excitement at the coming primary election here. Very little enthusiasm has been shown and there has not been much talk concerning the important questions among the voters.

Edward Kahler of Portland was in Central Point, looking after business matters and visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kahler here.

There was an auction sale of household goods here Wednesday afternoon under the direction of the able auctioneer, George L. Neale. A good crowd was present and all the goods brought good prices.

The J. N. Smith ranch here recently purchased by L. L. Love was more recently sold to Mr. Myers of Roseburg. Mr. Myers and son are now busy putting in the crops on the new place.

Mrs. M. M. Cooksey, who spent the winter with her daughter in Portland has returned home. Mrs. Cooksey was accompanied home by her friend, Mrs. Paulson, who will visit some time here.

The senior class play given here Thursday evening was one of the largest attended and most enjoyed entertainments that was ever given here. It was a great success in every way, and much favorable comment has been made upon the skillful way in which each participant acted his part. A goodly sale was realized from the sale of seats as the building was packed.

Mr. Love, the new owner of the Snowy Butte orchard and ranch here, formerly owned by F. H. Hopkins, recently arrived at his new home and is now looking after the interests of southern Oregon's most famous orchard.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

Saturday evening after I had written the Eaglelets Mr. George V. Loosley and family of Fort Klamath; Harry Lewis, who had been out to Klamath county and W. S. Baker of Derby came in to spend the night.

Sunday morning broke on us, not as gloomy as we had had during the past few weeks, but rather dismal for one who had anticipated going out and having a good time on the banks of our beautiful Southern Oregon streams, but nevertheless, it was not so disagreeable, but what quite a goodly number of the pleasure loving citizens of the towns and cities came out for a ride and dinner. Among the first of those who stopped at the Sunnyside was Miss Lena H. Wilson, Mrs. Fred Neil and her two boys, Joe and Kay of Ashland. They had come to meet Mrs. Neil's husband, who was here looking after Mr. Loosley's Cattle. Then Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McReynolds, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Merrell and daughter, W. A. Summers, D. R. Wood and wife; Miss Dye, Fred Arnes, Miss Ethel Anderson of Medford and A. J. Florey, Jr., Miss Jane Hinman, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hinman and Mrs. R. A. Gill of Medford. Instead of the usual greetings, when our guests arrived Sunday morning, about the first thing was "What has become of the Eaglelets?" Have you quit writing for The Mail Tribune? Why were there no Eaglelets in the paper all last week?" etc. And the only explanation that I could give was that The Medford Mail Tribune was getting to be so popular and has such a wide circulation that the leading business men and women are demanding space for advertising so that the Eaglelets were simply crowded out, but that I wrote regularly every Wednesday and Saturday. It is a matter of history that that is the first week during the last two decades and more but what the Eaglelets have made their appearance in The Daily Mail Tribune or its predecessor under a different name, for I have written regularly every week almost since the paper was first published as the Medford Monitor.

Mrs. Adamson of Trail, the wife of the mail carrier on the Eagle Point-Persist route, came out Saturday and spent Sunday with her husband and daughter. Mrs. Theron Taylor and went up home on the stage Monday morning.

John Warner, formerly of Trail, but now of Portland came out on the stage from Medford and went up home to visit his mother, Mrs. John Warner of Trail.

Mrs. Ralph Stanley of Lake Creek and Mrs. Ira Limzate and her sister, Mrs. Ed Cowdon, were shopping and visiting friends here Monday morning.

Mrs. Walter Meyers of Hay Creek came in Monday morning to bring her cream and eggs and reports that she has not had as great success with her chickens as she anticipated as after they were hatched, disease got among them and she had lost quite a lot of them, but that her turkeys were doing fine and that the first hatching were well feathered out and were very large for their age and that she also is raising a quantity of ducks. If Mrs. Meyers don't make a success in life with her cows, hens, turkeys ducks and then as a side product, pigs, with her husband to help with all their energy and perseverance I don't know where some of those who sit around and take the world easy and say that they won't milk cows because they have to get up too early in the morning and won't care for chickens because they are liable to die after they are hatched, etc., will come off.

William E. Butler and his father, W. C. Butler, were transacting business in our town Monday. W. E. Butler was having some repair work done on his auto in the Holmes and MacDonald garage.

H. T. Pankey and E. R. Outman, the two fruit tree inspectors were out last Monday inspecting the trees and looking over the fruit prospect. They report the prospect good for a crop of fruit but that the crop will not likely be as heavy as it was last year.

Pete Young and W. C. Pool were among the business callers also Monday.

C. H. Toney, who owns a fine farm on Rogue River, near McLeod, who has been spending the winter in Oakland Cal., came in to the Sunnyside Monday and remained until this Wednesday morning and went up home on the Eagle Point-Persist stage and J. H. Shaw of Aberdeen, Wash., came in on the jitney Monday, on his way from Los Angeles, and took a room at the Sunnyside and is here at this writing. He is considerably interested in the agate business.

N. J. Hooges and son, Nedborn of Medford, were here for dinner Monday. They had started to go to Butte Falls in their car, but on learning the condition of the road between the Reese Creek school house and vestals, they concluded not to try to make the trip.

Floyd Pierce was on the streets Monday for the first time for months. He has to use crutches, but has high hopes that he will eventually have the use of his leg that was mashed, set and rebroken. Now both legs seem to be the same length. While he was here he asked me to send his subscription in for the Weekly Mail Tribune, and so did C. H. Toney and I am sending in both subscriptions with this letter.

C. E. Bellows and Sam Cov were both in town Monday on business, and so was Mrs. Hamilton Watkins and Mrs. Merritt of Reese Creek.

Mr. Milton Conley commenced to haul lumber from the P. & E. depot for Mr. Jacob Monia. Mr. Monia is hauling lumber to replace his house that was burned down some time ago. Charles, Dorsy and Ruth Given were in town Monday to register so they can vote at the primary election on the 21st of May. Roy Ashpole does the registering.

F. D. Dills of Yakima, Wash., came in Monday evening, took a room and the next day went to work helping to put up a lot of fencing for Franz Rhodes.

George Hollenbeck, who has been here and at the hospital in Medford for the past month with blood poison in his hand has so far recovered as to be able to go home to Prospect Monday.

Pioneer Leabo, who has been working in a box factory at Hill, came in and took a room Monday night. He was laid off on account of the strike on the railroad.

Ralph Tucker of Brownsboro and Nobel Zimmerley came in on the stage and Nobel went on up to Butte Falls on the stage.

The P. & E. railroad seems to be doing some business. They brought out five cars of saw logs Tuesday for Medford.

William Holman and family have moved into the house belonging to Mrs. Marvin Wood and this morning went, or rather started for Derby, but it is a question whether they can get through for the road is almost impassable.

Misses Ella Belford and Julianna Hornik were attending to business in town Tuesday.

I have a few more items but they will keep through for my next, as this letter is too long already.

Chicago Schools Resume.

You Can't Rub It Away; Rheumatism is in the Blood

Liniments Will Never Cure.

If you are afflicted with Rheumatism, why waste time with liniments, lotions and other local applications that never did cure Rheumatism, and never will?

Do not try to rub the pain away. Try the sensible plan of finding the cause of the pain, and go after that. Remove the cause, and you remove the pain. You will never be rid of Rheumatism until you cleanse your blood of the germs that cause the disease. S. S.
