

CAPTAIN EARNEST HILL, of Portland, Me., who says he was not able to report for duty before taking Tanlac. Declares he feels like a new man now and is on deck every day ready for work.

"I feel just like a new man since I began taking Tanlac and I am not only willing, but I am anxious to tell other people what this medicine has done for me," said Captain Ernest H. Hill, Portland, Me., recently. Captain Hill is in command of the Ben Hur, plying between Portland and Casco Bay. He has been in the service for ten years and is held in high regard as an officer and citizen by all who know him. "I have suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble for the past eight years," continued Captain Hill, "and at the time I started taking Tanlac I was in such a weakened condition I could hardly stand up. When I walked I would actually stagger like a drunken man and, at times, would have to hold on to something to keep from falling. After every meal I would simply suffer torment. My food would sour and I would swell up so with gas I could hardly get my breath. "I would also have awful smothering spells at night and sometimes I would have to get up to get my breath. Lots of times I would have to open the windows and doors to let in fresh air, or go out into the open air in order to get my breath. I could not find anything to do me any good and along toward the last I became so weak and nervous I could not do my work. "Five bottles of Tanlac have made a wonderful change in my condition. It helped me from the very first dose and now I feel as good as I did when I was twenty years old. I sleep fine and have a fine appetite and just feel like a new man in every way. I am now able to be on deck every day ready for duty. "Tanlac is sold in Medford at West Side Pharmacy and by leading druggists in every town. Adv.

ENGLAND STARTS ATTACK ELECTRIC LIGHTING TRUST

LONDON—England has started an investigation of the past war growth of alleged trusts and monopolies. A profiteering committee which has been looking into the activity of electric light companies and lamp bulb manufacturers, in a report recently made public, says that "a trade combination does exist among electric light manufacturers in this country and exercises a powerful influence over the conduct and development of the industry." Standard vacuum lamps, now sold to the public for three shillings, states the report, could be sold at two shillings at which price the manufacturer and distributor would still have a satisfactory working profit. "One and a quarter million half-watt lamps," adds the report, "sold to the public in 1919 at twelve shillings and sixpence each were purchased in Holland by three associated manufacturers at about three shillings a lamp. They could have been sold at not more than eight shillings which would still have left ample margin for the importers and distributors. Importers and distributors between them made profits on these lamps, of something like $1,400,000 over and above what would appear to us reasonable. "Since the largest of the three dominant firms," continues the report, "is under the majority control of an American electrical concern, there is some danger that the interests of the British lamp industry may be subordinated to American interests. "There is a possibility of an international combination comprising British, Dutch and American manufacturers which would be able to control supplies and dominate prices over a considerable part of the world. "The operations of an association which so effectively controls an important industry," concludes the report, "should be subject to public supervision and control."

CATTLE STEALING AS SPORT REVIVED IN EMERALD ISLE

DUBLIN—Conflicts over land attended by organized "cattle drives" to intimidate land owners and compel them to sell have been added lately to Ireland's other troubles. The disturbances are a revival of conditions which prevailed 30 or more years ago when farmers and graziers were forced by similar methods to sell large land holdings. The malcontents complain that most of the good land in the south and west of Ireland is being used for grazing purposes and that they are unable to purchase it. Consequently they have resorted to the "cattle drives" and threats of bodily harm to the owners. It is very difficult to police all the country and many of the drives have resulted in three or four farmers losing all their cattle at one swoop. The intimidators are represented as renters who are demanding longer leases of land, small owners and a certain number of holders of comparatively large tracts who believe their neighbors' land used for grazing is more suitable for tillage than the ground they are trying to cultivate. "It's the same story again of the eighties," said a former south of Ireland land holder. They forced us to cut up our large holdings then by use of the same methods now employed. The land troubles should not be confused with crimes resulting from the political unrest. It is separate and distinctive and shows evidence of being on the increase.

TRAIN FOOTBALL PLAYERS ON FOLK DANCING STUNTS

AMHERST, Mass.—Folk dancing as training for football is being given candidates for the Massachusetts Agricultural college eleven this spring. Instead of lunging and charging against a tackling dummy, husky candidates for places on the "Aggies" line are being taught the intricacies and graces of the English folk dances. Thirty men, with the broadness of shoulder and bulk of frame necessary to the efficient football lineman, are learning to do gracefully the handkerchief folk-dance known as "Laudanum Bunches," and to trip lightly through other steps of the old dancing school. For a time they were embarrassed as, waving handkerchiefs in the air they pirouetted on one toe with an arm and hand extended, but they have since taken to the dance and appear to enjoy it. The object of the dancing instruction to the football men is to im-

PRIZE FIGHTING POPULAR IN ITALY SINCE THE WAR

ROME—Boxing and prize fighting have just gained some headway in Italy. As a result, embryonic sportswriters are being born whose efforts for flowery descriptions eclipse even the vernacular of American sportswriters. Here is the report of a prize fight from one of the provincial papers: "There was vivacious animation in the impatient crowd when there appeared on the scene what seemed to be two-gun caissons that had just come out of battle. They were scantily attired so much so that they nearly froze to the teeth. Then there was sounded a fanfare of trumpets right into the ears of the waiting crowd and it was as if the wrath of God had been let loose. "Then there were the sporting bloods who frothed at the mouth because the public was ignorant of the beauty and passion of the sport and because the spectators did not take the sport seriously. This delicious sport—as the English call it, 'the manly art of self-defense'—was prohibited before the war. But then, the war was fought for liberty and right, at least, the right to enjoy oneself, even at the risk of others losing their lives. "The two ruffians were placed in the 'ring' (a cord which separates them from the crowd). After some preliminaries, the two began to launch blows at one another—a truly intellectual amusement to watch. One of the two, by virtue of his being lightweight champion, gave the other a severe punch in the stomach. The other returned a punch to the jaw as if nothing had happened. The public laughed and commented. "Then the heavyweight delivered an elegant punch to the face of the lightweight and he fell to the floor. His friends came to his assistance and put a sponge to his mouth jabbering he was 'Yellow.'"

AUSTRIAN WAITERS ARE OUT OF A JOB

VIENNA.—Aristocratic Vienna, once famed for its chefs, now offers small opportunities for the display of gastronomic art. Professional cooks are regarded as "superfluous" as are also an army of waiters, all jobless and forlorn. Many hundreds of Austrians who were interned in England during the war returned here to find they could get no work to do. By far the greater number are waiters. They are in a desperate plight. Owing to the great increase in the cost of living there has been a great diminution in the number of those who were wont to patronize hotels and restaurants. Waiters fortunate enough to get a job at their calling encounter almost insuperable difficulties in providing themselves with conventional garb. There are few second-hand dress suits in Vienna. And new dress suits now cost from 6000 to 8000 crowns. It has been suggested that in lieu of dress suits they should be allowed to wear white linen uniforms which could be had much more cheaply and would render it easier to distinguish between waiters and guests. prove the co-ordination of mind and muscle and to keep the players constantly "on their toes."

URIC ACID IN MEAT BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says a little Salts in water may save you from dread attack. Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism. At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.
