ORCHARDISTS ARE ASKED TO LOOK OUT FOR BLIGHT

New blight has made its appearance in a few orchards in various parts of the valley. All orchardists should make a careful inspection of their pear blocks at this time, and remove all visible signs of any new infection.

Blight is showing up in the young fruit and it is difficult to see unless very careful inspection is made. If such infections are removed at this time, a great deal of wood growth can be saved.

Know Your Battery and Save Battery Bills

Do you belong to that class of automobile owners who seldom, if ever, take note of a storage battery service station while enjoying a tour? If so, read carefully what M. B. Walker of Auto Electric Equipment Co., USL Service Station representative for this section, has to say about you.

"Strangely enough, there are some motorists, though they are in the minority, who are never happier than when showing the tail-light to a service station. They wouldn't stop at one on a wager, excepting on one occasion and that is when their batteries require a postmortem examination.

"Now, I hold no brief for this class of motorists, except that I have pity in my heart for them. I consider them the flimsy class of the motor world—the ones who become the most hysterical when their batteries finally go wrong. They are the boys who make up the forlorn hope when the old auto gets marooned fifteen miles from a service station—who are the first to burst into volcans when it means a league of two's hike back to civilization.

"I pity them for their battery knowledge is of the external kind. They know nothing of machine-pasted plates and the manner in which these have added to the serviceability of batteries. They may go on from day to day sweetly oblivious of the little black box of mystery on their cars but they must show up at the service station some day—you can bet your liberty bonds on that. And their battery repair bills will be heavier than those of the great army of drivers who make it a habit to have their batteries inspected once a month."—Adv.

to 500 parts of water. This will disinfect both wounds and instruments. Blight Cutters Wanted
The orchardists are badly in need of blight cutters, and anyone who can cut blight, should leave their names with the county agent at once. Both men and women can be used for this work, and women who have had experience in this line are especially urged to lend assistance at this time.

OBITUARY.

WALL—Ellis William Wall died at his home, 525 South Central avenue, May 18th, of infirmities due to old age. He was born at Richmond, Ind., Nov. 28, 1834, being 85 years, five months and 20 days old at the time of his death. He had been ill for the past two years.

At the age of 15 years he left Indiana and went to the Dakota Territories and lived there 25 years and was one of the first legislators and helped to frame the laws admitting them to statehood. He served in the legislature for three terms, and was also sheriff of Bon Homme county, South Dakota for two terms. He was married to Nancy Melvina Conklin, April 17, 1876, at St. James, Neb., and settled on a ranch at Running Water, South Dakota, afterward moving to Springfield, South Dakota and engaging in the hotel business. When General Custer was on his way to the Black Hills he was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wall at this place.

After this he had important government contracts at the Pine Ridge agency, South Dakota, meeting such famous warriors as Sitting Bull, Black Bear, Spotted Tail, and Rain-in-the-Face. Mr. and Mrs. Wall understanding the Sioux Indian language were able to keep the friendship and good will of the Sioux who were on the war path, and were at the Battle of Wounded Knee, the last battle of the Sioux.

Mr. and Mrs. Wall came to Portland, Ore., in 1890 and were in the hotel business there moving to southern Oregon in 1893 and engaging in placer mining. They came to Medford in 1907.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Nancy M., three sons and three daughters, Enos A., Etha W., Everett R., Mrs. Myrtle Blakeley and Mrs. Fred Colvig, all of Medford, Ore., and Mrs. Emma F. Guth of Duvall, Wash.; also eleven grand children and three great grandchildren, and his brother, Colonel E. A. Wall of Salt Lake City, Utah, and four sisters, Mrs. Geo. W. Cyphers of Valentine, Neb., Mrs. Fred Pfunder of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Nancy Sipes and Mrs. Matilda Likens of Winchester, Ind.

Funeral services will be held at the home Thursday, May 20, 1920, at 2 p. m., Rev. L. M. Boozer officiating. Interment at Jacksonville cemetery.

U. S. EXCHANGE DROPS.

many would pay something of her debt.

Sees Lower Prices
In general, the official gave it as his view that the production of the world was relatively in a better position toward consumption than it had been since 1914. He noted that there had been a general tendency toward lower prices in cotton and wool and that silk prices were declining, and he thought that similar improvement might be expected within a year in steel, iron and coal.

The exchange market opened today with a rush, speculators who had been playing for the rise of the dollar and the pound unloading, while others were busily engaged in trying to stem the tide of decline. The opening transaction in sterling was 5000 pounds at 48 francs. Later transactions averaged fifty francs. American dollars were not quite so active.

The dollar closed at 13 francs 44 centimes and the pound sterling at 51 francs 40 centimes after the heaviest day's transactions in foreign exchange since the armistice.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Stringent credit conditions provoked further selling of Liberty bonds and Victory notes, mostly at low records, on the stock exchange today.

By 12:30 o'clock, on sales approximating $20,000,000 par value, new points of discount were established by Liberty first and second fours, the second and fourth 4 1/2's and Victory 3 1/2's.

Heavy liquidation over the counter or at private sales also was reported by bankers and dealers in bonds.

W. E. PHIPPS DONATES 5 ACRES TO CITY FOR A PARK; HEAVY TRUCKS BARRED FROM CITY

The chief features of the city council meeting last night were the acceptance of a small park on South Riverside avenue, deeded to the city by W. E. Phipps, and the passing of an ordinance in the interest of protecting the paved streets of Medford from damage by heavily loaded auto trucks and wagons.

The council also amended the water ordinance by fixing penalties of from $5 to $50 for water violation ordinances. It was the first meeting attended by T. W. Miles, the new councilman who succeeds Dr. H. P. Hargrave, and because of his previous councilmanic experience of years ago and his general familiarity with city affairs he took hold like a veteran and demonstrated that no mistake was made in his appointment to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Phipps' gift to the city consists of 4 to 5 acres of land on the east side of North Riverside avenue, opposite his home, and the deed is made and accepted with the understanding that the city will use it for a city park. Nothing can be done until fall about converting this land into a park but eventually the city plans to make of it a public beauty spot of that section of the city. It is understood that other citizens are planning to give similar sites in other sections of the city for small parks.

The new vehicle traffic ordinance passed last night, which goes into effect at once, practically bars 5-ton auto trucks from Medford. It forbids the passing over any paved street of Medford except South Riverside and North Riverside of any truck, drag or other vehicle with load exceeding 600 pounds per inch of width of two tires, and stipulates that the maximum load shall not exceed 10,000 pounds, regulates the speed to not faster than 10 miles per hour. This ordinance also forbids traction engines and heavy tractors from passing over the paved streets.

The only exception made is that logging and other heavily loaded vehicles coming to the city from the east may do so on East Main street by keeping in the street car track all the way to Riverside, and turning into that thoroughfare. The heavy vehicles coming into the city from the west and other directions must keep to the dirt roads and unpaved streets on the city's outskirts.

The council also amended the water ordinance by fixing penalties of from $5 to $50 for water violation ordinances. It was the first meeting attended by T. W. Miles, the new councilman who succeeds Dr. H. P. Hargrave, and because of his previous councilmanic experience of years ago and his general familiarity with city affairs he took hold like a veteran and demonstrated that no mistake was made in his appointment to fill the vacancy.
