The glories of the Oregon System were brought out in bold relief by the primary. The state, ostensibly goes for Hiram, but all but one of the chosen delegates, is for somebody else.

Now that Mr. Carranza is dead, his whiskers and his faults are forgotten, and the newspapers tell of the virtues he possessed.

Miss Nina Tenn is a school teacher at Eureka, Cal., probably specializing in mathematics.

The preliminary campaign shows that candidates should state their religious as well as political faith on the ballot. For instance, John Jones for dogcatcher, republican and Baptist. Sang in the choir since 1908.

An unknown motorist made a desperate attempt to commit suicide at the Main street crossing Monday. Espee engines need bumpers not cow-catchers.

Kernel Carl Tongwald's mustache is taking form. It is supposed to add dignity, but instead confirms suspicions that he was 2nd loot.

Skinned candidates, unable to diagnose their defeats now know it was due to lackus votus.

Economists figure lean days ahead, with soup houses in garages, and many with naught to devour but a 1920 model auto.

More Dakota weather in the Sunny Il' of America.

The ladies on the election boards, won't cheer so loud at the suffrage praises in the future.

Dock Keene received no vote for vice president this election—the first time in years. He forgot it.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRE

Narcotic clinics, operated in several cities under police supervision, are to be discontinued under order of the federal government, it became known yesterday, with the issuance of an order closing the municipal clinic in Memphis, Tenn.

An excise tax on print paper to curtail consumption will be one of the recommendations of the senate manufacturers sub-committee investigating the print paper shortage.

The British charge at Berlin was notified by the German government yesterday of its acceptance of the entente's invitation to participate at the conference in Spa.

Cardinal Gibbons yesterday received an invitation from the chairman of the republican national committee, in Chicago, to offer the invocation Thursday June 10, at the convention and a member of the cardinal's house hold in Baltimore said last night he had accepted.

STOP IT!

HOW LONG are the people of Jackson county to tolerate this religious issue nonsense? After every election, there is a rumor that this candidate or that lost out because he belonged to this church or didn't belong to that one. It is up to the people of the county to put a stop to this sort of foolishness. For as long as votes can be captured by such contemptible tactics, the tactics will be used.

It is really a most extraordinary situation. The inquisition we supposed belonged to the dark ages. It has also been stated that the Pilgrim fathers crossed the ocean largely to get away from religious intolerance. The United States, according to the constitution, was based upon the right of every man to worship God in his own way and according to the dictates of his own conscience.

But here we have in this day of grace, supposedly self-respecting citizens and loyal Americans, sneaking through back alleys whispering about Jones having had dinner with a Catholic, or Brown being a charter member of the Holy Rollers.

The way to cure this rotten business is for every citizen to vote against any candidate who engages in it. If any public official believes in denying rights and privileges to a member of any church, then the people should know it. And knowing it they should put said official, not where he belongs for that would offend the proprietries, but where he can do the least harm.

Now that the four per cent limitation has passed and the county bond issue also, the next thing on the program is to see that the money thus authorized is well spent. There is a pretty well established suspicion that in the past a good deal of road money has been wasted. The best way to avoid a continuance of this feeling is to go slow, and pay as much attention to maintenance as construction. For every highway badly in need of repair spells waste to the average taxpayer traveling it.

President Wilson asked the Oregon Democrats to vote for Starkweather. They voted for Chamberlain. Mr. Hoover asked the Oregon Republicans not to vote for him. Some 15,000 of them did. Eugene Smith, the Multnomah labor leader asked the laboring men to vote for Wood. They voted for Johnson. The political atmosphere is an atmosphere of protest with a capital P.

A state election is largely responsible for the death of President Carranza almost escaping public attention. There have been a good many nasty things said about Carranza, but somehow his last few days raised the old boy's stock considerably. He fought like a man and he died with his boots on. That's a pretty heroic epitaph for a Mexican.

Good for Oregon. The passage of the educational bills demonstrates that the people have awakened to the truth, that good schools and colleges comprise the best paying investment a commonwealth can make.

Somehow, the "I told you so pests" are scarcer hereabouts than formerly. The only man who qualifies as a prophet is the man who admitted he didn't know a darn thing about it.

Strange but Jackson County appears to be one of the few districts in the state emphatically opposed to being politically annexed to California.

The losing convention delegates are ahead of the game. They save the price of railroad fare.
