Ye Smudge Pot By Arthur Perry

No one knows quite so much about the Republican convention as a small town Democrat. A little thing like distance does not count.

The rain spoiled the little potatoes by making big ones out of them.

There is so much American food in Paris that the price of French grub declines. The French should counter by sending some over here.

The impossible has happened again. The Poles and the Bolsheviks each won a victory at the same place Sunday.

The 32-minute prayer delivered at the opening of the G. O. P. sessions did not much more than escape being a sermon.

The Screen

One of the greatest of James Oliver Curwood's famous stories of the Canadian Northwest will be shown at the Rialto theater four days, beginning tomorrow. It is different from anything previously produced and a picture of real merit.

The remarkable alertness of the big motion picture producers in procuring material for the screen is illustrated by "The Dark Mirror," which stars Dorothy Dalton, and will be shown at the Liberty Theatre three days beginning today.

Miss Dalton has two contrasted roles—the rich society debutante and the belle of the Chinatown underworld, whom she greatly resembles. By a freak of fate, the daughter of the rich is mistaken for the girl of the slums and involved in a wild series of adventures.

THE ONLY WAY

I'M WEARING my old raiment, the duds of bygone years, and so I make no payment to clothing profiteers. I've pawned my old tin Lizzie, that burned up costly gas, and now on foot I'm busy—you've doubtless seen me pass. In spite of advertising that profiteers receive, the prices keep on rising, and make the victims grieve.

gates who seemed more intent on shaking hands and chattering than for beginning the convention.

Sons of Great Men On every hand there were evidences of the newer generation in politics.

The convention was not very much interested in the reading of the call, most of the delegates knowing its terms.

A November Mandate "The republican party has met in this free and open convention," said he, "to accept from the people a mandate for the government of the United States."

Roars of cheers greeted that statement. Chairman Hays then introduced Senator Lodge as the temporary chairman of the convention and the convention let out more cheers, and a rolling chorus of ayes affirmed the selection.

The committee thought they had the platform fixed so the committee could come up a set of concealed stairs, but the arrangement would not work and Senator Lodge and his escorting committee had to go around to the rear entrance to the rostrum.

Unlike former conventions, the old guard came early. In the old days they were the last to arrive, being held back by conferences. As many of the leaders took their seats without causing a ripple of excitement the band played a mournful air.

There were many women delegates and alternates on the floor.

The seating arrangements were altogether different from what they were four years ago. In the front rows were delegations from California, North Dakota, Arkansas, Connecticut, Colorado and Virginia.

The platform was slow in filling up. Apparently the leaders were in conference elsewhere to determine what was to be done on the question of permanent organization. The women delegates were eagerly sought by the scouts of the campaign managers and held quite a handshaking affair of their own. They seemed to be enjoying their first participation in a national convention. The band continued to blare off popular airs with regularity and the delegates and alternates continued to pour in at all the doors. The galleries were filled early with the fortunate hundreds who managed to get in to the disappointment of the unlucky thousands who lost out on the tickets.

The candidates were up and about early. Campaign managers were on the job, taking stock, and hoping to find out if there had been any overnight changes in the lineup.

Everybody was still up in the air as to who would win the nomination and from all sides there was a volley of inquiries as to when the job might be finished. Also, for many the weather was of more vital interest than the nominee.

Less than a dozen state delegations had failed to hold a caucus, but with the exception of Georgia and possibly one or two others there was no fight ahead, and little interest was displayed.

The main idea was to get to the convention hall, to see the break-away and hope thereby to get the right slant on the possible outcome. There was a lot of talk about the Johnson mass-meeting and the declaration by Senator Borah that he would transfer the long senate treaty fight to the floor.

But in the general groping, the doubt, confusion, mess and muddle, all the delegates except those fighting inch by inch for their favorite candidate, seemed to agree that the old days when leaders showed them the way were not so bad after all.

The convention evidently liked the keynote and broke into another roar of cheers and applause, many of the delegates standing and waving flags.

Senator Lodge bowed and smiled as he acknowledged it.

The temporary chairman then recognized National Chairman Hays, who presented a list of temporary officers, previously agreed upon. Secretary Miller of the committee read the list.

By a chorus of ayes the convention accepted the list. General T. Coleman DuPont of Delaware presented a resolution proposing to have the convention act under the 1916 rules until a permanent organization is affected. It was adopted. Other routine motions on procedure necessary to organization were offered and accepted.

Governor Morrow of Kentucky offered the resolution for a committee on permanent organization. The resolutions for other organization committees were quickly adopted.

The first woman to speak in the convention was Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen of Minneapolis, one of the Minnesota delegation. She offered a resolution which was adopted. It could not be said Mrs. Fosseen was the first woman to be heard in a national convention because as a matter of fact, she wasn't heard, but the chairman informed the convention of the contents of her resolution.

Another wave of cheers greeted the senator as he stepped out to the speaking position. Another cheer leader on the job with three cheers for Senator Lodge and they were given. It was one minute before noon when the cheers died away and Senator Lodge began delivering his address after having been introduced by Chairman Hays as "Honorable Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States."

Before Senator Lodge got under way, the motion picture men turned on a battery of strong light, which were focused on Senator Lodge, but which cast an intense glare in the faces of the delegates and spectators. There were such insistent objections, so loudly voiced, that they had to be turned out and Senator Lodge went ahead with his prepared address, reading from manuscript.

The Weather. Tonight and Wednesday fair; cooler tonight east portion, moderate southwest winds.

When a woman is nervous—worried The lives of most women are full of worry. Men's troubles are bad enough, but women's are worse. Worry makes women sick. It pulls them down, and in their weakened condition they are subject to pains, aches, weakness, back-aches, headaches and dizzy spells.

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

LENTS, OREGON—"In my younger days I was greatly distressed. I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and received such relief that I can recommend it to others. I have raised a large family and am a great-grandmother and have always insisted on my daughters-in-law using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during expectant periods."—Mrs. B. F. SEELY, 6411-94th Street.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU. NOTHING that we could say would so thoroughly convince you of the value of Chamberlain's Tablets as a personal trial. We can tell you of thousands who have been permanently cured of chronic constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver, but this will have little weight with you as compared to a personal trial. That always convinces. Chamberlain's Tablets
