KANSAS LADY SPEAKS.

me speak recently wrote me a letter and said he had claimed to be only 86.

Mr. Depew said the country needed experienced statesmanship to deal with the problems growing out of the war, declaring the republican party had handled it with "ability," after the Civil war and has proven its ability to do so.

Mr. Depew took successive flings at President Wilson's trip to Europe to the great amusement of the delegates. Other presidents, he said, had dealt with foreign nations, but had selected the best brains and men in the country to go and do it.

"When Mr. Wilson went to Europe and the politicians and diplomats said to him 'what do you want?' he replied, 'I want a League of Nations, a Heaven on earth, of which I shall be the recording angel.'"

"The League of Nations is there and there is no man who can add one word to the description which was given by our chairman, Senator Lodge. As I travel about, man after man comes to me and says 'I always have been a democrat, but Mr. Wilson has taken away every principle of the democratic party and I want you to nominate a good man and win.'"

"I think during the summer, millions of these democrats will vote our ticket."

At that point Mr. Depew couldn't resist the temptation to tell a story.

Then in a serious vein Mr. Depew, speaking as a veteran of sixty-five years on the republican platform, prophesied that out of the convention would come wisdom and enthusiasm, and that the nation "standing for the principles of Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt, would take its place as a leader for the peace and unity and civilization of mankind."

Then there were calls for various speakers after Mr. Depew had retired and amid a whirlwind of cheering Mr. Lodge introduced Mrs. Margaret Hill McCarter of Kansas who got rounds of cheers.

The convention stood while Mrs. McCarter took the platform. She wore a close-fitting turban with a neckpiece of monkey fur and a taine gown.

Mrs. McCarter was in good voice and evidently reached the farthest part of the hall.

"The women of America," she said, "are organized and trained and ready for the duties of citizenship. We stand by the party that never has failed in its loyalty to the good old Stars and Stripes. The women of America must follow that banner and pledge you that the womanhood of America will not be found wanting in upholding republican ideals. At the ballot box we stand ready to fight that in all the coming years, our nation with all its ideals of republicanism, shall endure and the Star Spangled Banner in Triumph Shall Wave O'er the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."

Mrs. McCarter's speech was short but snappy and the audience liked it. The movie men demanded a shot at the first woman speaker on a republican platform.

"Please be quiet," asked Senator Lodge, "while we endure one of the afflictions of public life—being taken for the movies."

While the movie men were getting their "shot" a song leader distracted attention in singing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

"The audience entered into the spirit of the thing, and sang the chorus, 'Gloria, Gloria, Hallelu-yah,' with the accent on the 'yah.'"

The song leader was ready for another effort, but was escorted to a seat by Charles B. Warren of Michigan, one of the platform committee. There were some loud cries for "Uncle Joe" Cannon from the floor, but Chairman Lodge announced the former speaker was not in the hall.

Then there were cries for adjournment and Senator Wadsworth moved that the convention adjourn and meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. While the adjournment motion was being out, Mayor Hale Thompson vainly tried to get the attention of the chair to announce that the Illinois Steel company had invited the delegates and alternates to luncheon.

"The lunch will be wasted if it is not announced," pleaded the mayor. Although the convention had been adjourned, Chairman Lodge succeeded in getting some attention and the secretary announced the invitation.

honest and effective enforcement of the eighteenth amendment," he said, among ringing cheers.

When Wheeler finished Committee-man Richards of Washington leaped to his feet and insisted that he be heard in opposition, but he sat down again when he was advised that he would be heard in executive session. Joseph Oberzell of Cincinnati urged a modification of the present dry laws.

Others who spoke at the morning session included Jane Addams, for the Women's International League for Permanent Peace; Lucy Branham, D. Robert Lovett and Miss Grace Abbott for a lifting of the Russian trade embargo, and John Kelly and James Eads How, for the enfranchisement of itinerant labor.

Measures to restore agricultural production to pre-war levels and check the depopulation of the farms were advocated by representatives of seventeen farm organizations, led by John A. McSparan of Pennsylvania. He said that while "we seek no class legislation, the nation must realize the danger confronting it and act or pay the price of neglect now and in later years as well."

Supporters of inland water development were before the committee with pleas for planks pledging the upbuilding of the Mississippi, and for deepening of the St. Lawrence that ocean carriers may reach Duluth.

While the gateways advocates were before the committee, E. J. Grose, Wisconsin member, sought to have other hearings, concluded in order that all members could begin the work of formulating the platform. This was opposed by Senator Smoot, Idaho, who said members of the subcommittee, named earlier by Chairman Watson, should continue their work. The chairman then announced the hearings would continue as long as necessary.

Card of Thanks

As the time approaches for my departure from the Sacred Heart hospital, I deem it fitting to express my sincere thanks to the sisters in charge whose kind ministrations have done so much for me in my affliction.

To Dr. Conroy, in removing a portion of the shin bone from my right limb and grafting it upon my left and injured limb has succeeded in mending my fractured hip after six years standing and bringing me to a point where I am assured of being able to walk and enter upon the discharge of my duties. His great charity and kindness can never be forgotten.

In fact I wish to thank all who have helped to render my lot more bearable during my recent suffering. No better work or deed could be done by some one or more of our citizens, than to dedicate a part of their wealth to the maintenance and righteous support of the Sacred Heart hospital, an institution contributing much to the comfort, health and happiness of our community.

SAGE AND SULPHUR. DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost. Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
