

New Year Greetings

A RESOLUTION

To the patriots, rather than partisans; to win the peace by reviving the idealism, which won the war; to broaden our outlook and narrow our animosities; to carry into national and international affairs the maxims which guide gentlemen and gentlewomen in their daily conduct; to practice thrift that we may be able to practice charity; to recognize that each is, and always must be his brother's keeper; to work well that there may be plenty of goods in the world and think well that they may be rightly distributed; to go forward each day to a higher level of purpose and effectiveness, and live as one afraid of no man, and of whom no just man is afraid.

THE NEW YEAR

1921 promises to be, to Medford and the Rogue River Valley, a prosperous year marked as an era of commercial and agricultural development for this section. In order to insure this prosperity the people of Medford and adjoining communities must resolve to exert every effort, individually and through the various Chambers of Commerce, to boost this section of Oregon and cooperate in every movement for its advancement.

"Home Patriotism" is essential and every citizen here should determine to stand by home institutions and thereby increase the present payrolls and build up new ones. The success of home business activities is measured by the support of home people.

The Medford business men take this opportunity to express their appreciation to one and all for their confidence and support during 1920 and hope to merit this same backing during the new year.
