FRONTIER VIGILANTES PROMISE TO GET BUSY ON BROADWAY IF PRESENT CRIME WAVE CONTINUES

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—New York has thrown away its nickel novel of 1920, to begin reading the 1921 thriller of Dead Man's Gulch moved into Broadway and the Black Hills set down on Fifth avenue, somewhere between the Waldorf-Astoria and 42d street. With something like 400 robberies and "stickups" on the newspaper lists of crimes for the past year, and more than 100 murders and killings set down by news offices as "unsolved," the new year has had set for it a penny-dreadful record it will take two gun men from Coyote Canyon a lifetime's endeavor to beat. A ride from the Grand Central in a taxicab now is conceded by leading newspapers of the city to have nothing on a trip in the Deadwood stagecoach and the big hotels and restaurants loom up as cheery as the Santa Fe saloon in the wild west days of the six-gun toter and the Bad Boy Bandits of Bloody Hollow. Twenty police riflemen patrol the streets at night in automobiles. The curfew rings at midnight when Central park is closed to vehicular and pedestrian traffic, and all persons abroad must give an account of themselves when asked. In the past month judges on the criminal courts bench have urged formation of citizens' committees on a par with the vigilantes of the frontier before "was accused of moving back east to metropolitan centers. The mayor has warned all persons carrying or possessing valuables to procure permits to arm themselves against highwaymen and the police have tried to get back to something like first principles in life and property protection. Crimes have been chronicled as though they were robbery and murder cyclones, and the subway newspaper reader has felt all the thrill of riding the Overland Limited in the days when Jesse James and his gang held no prairie railroad immune from their ravages. Estimates have placed about $4,000,000 as the total value of loot obtained by burglars, thieves and yeggmen in New York during 1920. Daylight holdups, attacks in leading Great

White Way hotels and automobile banditry have yielded much of the valuables stolen. As many as 40 robberies and thefts have been featured for a month's acts of violence of note, and six such attempts in a day have been recorded. Of the more than 100 "unsolved" murders listed by some papers, a number now are nationally, if not internationally, known. Beginning with a killing last New Year's Day, 1920's record started strong. Conspicuous in the 12 months' list were the murders of Joseph B. Elwell, Miss Renie Constance Hoxie, and Frederick C. Ecker. Elwell, known from coast to coast as a whist expert and horseman, was shot to death in his home, furnished West 70th street home; Miss Hoxie, a 17-year old girl, was found mutilated in her father's house; Ecker, a former government agent and alleged whiskey runner, was found shot dead in an automobile in Staten Island. In the robberies, organized bands of gunmen have seemed to predominate. Thefts of valuable goods from railroad freight cars, bulking big in packing cases, have been considerable. Stolen automobiles have been reported constantly. But holdups of the old time type, by day as well as night, on the street, in the home, in hotels, where masked and unmasked men have taken what they wanted at the point of pistols, have called forth the hue and cry against alleged "inadequate police protection." Automobile bandits have made off with a number of factory payrolls and banks have seen gunmen walk in and demand money from the safe under penalty of instant death. All this time, the Police Department has been under fire. Police Commissioner Enright, right bower of the city administration, has been attacked continually in the newspapers because of the prevalence of the gunmen. The commissioner has retorted by asserting that this condition exists elsewhere. To combat it he has lengthened the hours of police duty called for 500 additional policemen and sent out automobile squads armed with rifles to patrol the shopping and business districts. MAY RESTORE DEATH PENALTY FOR ROBBERY

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Legislators in this state served notice during New York's crime wave that at the next session they intend introducing measures to provide greater punishment for highwaymen and burglars. With daring robberies becoming every day occurrences, the courts here quickly decided to mete out maximum punishment wherever possible and raised bail to insure keeping criminals behind bars. A study of existing laws in various states shows that in three, burglary is punishable by death and in four, robbery—should the maximum punishment be applied. First degree burglary may be punished by death in North Carolina and Virginia by means of electricity and in Delaware by hanging. Alabama and Virginia's laws provide the maximum of death in robbery cases, while Nevada specifies death for train robbers and Texas for robbery accomplished by means of deadly weapons. Several states provide for life imprisonment or for "any term up to life" in burglary cases. The life penalty thus is possible in Massachusetts, Florida, Iowa, Ohio, Rhode Island and South Carolina, while in Maine the law merely provides "any term of years" making it possible to impose a sentence which virtually means life. New York, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota accomplish the same end by stipulating that burglary shall be punished by "not less than 10 years." Other states vary from maximum punishments of 40 years in Utah and 30 years in New Hampshire to only seven years in Arkansas. The heaviest fine possible for the offense is in Pennsylvania, which provides "not over 10 years and $10,000." Robbery may be punished by life imprisonment in Idaho, Rhode Island, Texas, Oregon, Utah, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, and Hawaii. California provides for "not less than one year." The least severe penalty is that of Connecticut which stipulates "not more than seven years." In most states the maximum varies from 15 to 20 years. In view of present conditions, however, bills are being prepared for introduction in several states to increase the maximum penalty to death or life imprisonment.

The Woman Game The theme of Elaine Hammerstein's production "The Woman Game" might be summed up by the use of the familiar adage "All's fair in love and war." Although there is no trace of martial conflict in this beautifully staged screen play which opened at the Page theatre yesterday, there is a strong love theme and the war element is represented in the age-old battle of the sexes. In this story by Leighton Osmun and Frank Dazey, Miss Hammerstein is given greater opportunities for characterization than she has heretofore had in any of her other pictures.

Madame X at Page The Page theatre announces for tomorrow a masterful presentation of the greatest drama the screen has ever inherited from the stage—"Madame X". If you have ever seen this powerful play in the spoken drama, you will want to witness its marvelous transformation on the screen. If you have never seen it, do not miss the opportunity our engagement presents to you. "Madame X" is a throbbing drama of life with all its highlights and shadows. It is poignant with tragedy, yet so human in its appeal that you will follow every episode with breathless interest.
