COMMUNICATIONS

George Eagles Replies
To the editor: I have just noticed an article in your paper written by Joe Thomas, in behalf of Jess Ingram with reference to the bout Ingram and myself had at Gold Hill, New Year's day. It is very evident from the statements made therein by Thomas, that he is not entirely satisfied with the showing I made, as he says I even fouly butted Ingram. I believe any fair-minded person who saw the contest will say I beat Joe's meal ticket in every round, and I furthermore believe, even Joe himself was somewhat worried thru-out the bout, lest it should end in a sudden way that he would not fancy. However if Joe is not satisfied, would like nothing better than to try it again with his boy. However in any future contest would not want hitting in clinches barred, and I am sure I can show Mr. Thomas it won't take "all afternoon" to win.

Wish to add since I returned to Portland Willie St. Clair got a decision over me, and while allbies are not in order, want to say to my friends down here, I had caught a very bad cold on the train returning from Gold Hill to Portland, and was certainly in bad shape for this contest.

GEORGE T. EAGLES.
