ITALY'S PROSPERITY NOW DEPENDS ON U. S. IMMIGRATION

ROME.—Professor Ugo Antonca, former Under-Secretary of Transportation, estimates that at least 1,500,000 emigrants must leave Italy within the next two years if the nation is to prosper. He suggests that the government aid emigration by transforming cargo vessels into emigrant ships, because the greatest present obstacle to emigration is the lack of transportation facilities.

The professor proposes that Italian emigration should be conducted in a new and systematic way. He advocates a plan of collective emigration to include large and complete units of labor, comprising not only laborers but engineers, experts, managers and, if possible, capitalists, who would all emigrate together to the countries where they are most needed.

He points out that if 1,500,000 emigrants were to leave Italy in the next two years they would send back home something like $1,000,000,000, which bringing foreign capital into Italy, would go far toward raising the exchange value of Italian money. This value is now so low that it crushes initiative and prevents immediate re-generation of Italian finances.

REGULAR DIVIDEND IS DECLARED BY JACKSON CO. BANK

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Jackson County bank, the entire board of directors, as well as the officers were all re-elected. The year 1920 proved to be the most prosperous one since the organization of the bank 22 years ago. This was attributed to the lucrative prices received for pears, the growth of the dairy business and the generally sound condition of the valley. An 8 per cent dividend was declared.

It was brought out at the meeting that there was only one other business in the city, that of Chas. Strang Drug store, which was established in 1881 and which was known as the Vrooman Miller Drug Co. The Jackson County bank was established in 1888, and for many years occupied the building now housing the quarters of Paul's Electric store. The founder of the bank, the late W. I. Yawter was for 28 years its president and manager. In November last year, admission to membership in the federal reserve system was granted to the bank.

During the war the lads and lassies of the Salvation Army occupied no shell-proof position in the rear, but made and packed hot doughnuts and coffee to the soldiers in the front line, battle or no battle, and for this, if for nothing else, the organization is entitled to the moral and financial support of every citizen.

"An ex-president of the United States is a very humble individual," remarked Mr. Taft after the greeting, to which the governor responded: "But not in a British colony."
