COL. WASHBURN'S LETTER, FEATURE LINCOLN BANQUET

A feature of the big Lincoln banquet here Saturday night was that the invocation was delivered by a Salvation Army officer, Envoy W. C. Sinclair, who is in charge of the Medford branch of the army. Also overlooked in the Sunday Sun account of the banquet, due to the lateness of the hour and the hasty writing of details were the messages of greeting,—one from Colonel R. C. Washburn, retiring president of the Lincoln club, who is spending the winter at Santa Monica, Calif., and from State Representative Ben Sheldon, who, too, was unable to be in the city for the banquet.

Col. Washburn's speech follows:

Santa Monica, Cal., February, 1921.

To the members of the Lincoln club of Jackson county, at banquet assembled:

As president of the Lincoln club, I regret my inability to be present at the seventh annual banquet when we have so recently received the good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

My regrets are all the keener and more pronounced when I realize that for the first time in the club's history you are able to sit at the groaning tables of Emil Mohr and rejoice over the most sweeping republican victory in a period of sixty years.

In relinquishing the office with which you honored me a year ago, I desire to express my disappointment at having accomplished so little as its president.

But I am able to extract some consolation from the fact that another president is also about to retire with a record which for paucity of real achievement is even more appalling than my own.

Despite the fact that during my tenure of office I may have done those things which I ought not to have done and have left undone those things which I ought to have done, it is a pleasure to record that others have not been equally lax, and I desire to pay tribut t the splendid efforts of those individual members of the club who assisted so mightily in the removal of the democratic tumor that was fast bringing national debility to our body politic.

I feel assured that when the unbiased historian of two generations hence records the story of the republican victory of 1920, he will unhesitatingly ascribe that victory.

First—To democraatic mistakes and mismanagement.

Second—To the dignity, poise, wide vision and rare common sense of the republican candidate.

Third—To the wizard like skill and marvelous astuteness of Will H. Hays, and Fourth—To the patriotic and never-ceasing activity of the Lincoln club of Jackson county, Oregon.

During the past seven years the work of the Lincoln club has been largely that of criticism.

And of all those indulging in fault-finding and rebuke I, perhaps, have been not the least conspicuous.

It remains for us now to prove that we, while in power, are better able to run this government than are those whom we have criticised when they were in authority.

It remains for us to show that our chief object in overthrowing the democracy was not

"To turn the rascals inside out,

"And the outside rascals in,"

but rather to put strength, efficiency and wisdom where there has been weakness, incompetence and down right foolishness.

From the time when Abraham Lincoln journeyed to Washington to face a war of secession, no more formidable task has ever confronted an incoming administration than that which must be met now.

We have appreciated the magnitude of the undertaking. We have declared that we are equal to the emergency. And now the republican party must make good.

And if the party has within it the character, energy and honesty of purpose that gave inspiration at its birth there can be no doubt of the result.

We have been given full and complete authority.

For the first time—at least in eight years,—the president will be an unembarrassed spokesman.

We must begin at once to effect a readjustment that will gradually release us from the abnormal conditions brought about by the war and its inefficient administration on this side of the Atlantic.

In the more important posts of government we must at once replace pinheads and rubber stamps with men of ability.

We must sweep into the street of oblivian the thousands of loiterers, leaches and lunkheads who encumber the federal departments, draw regular pay and play pinochle during office hours.

We must substitute deeds for words no matter how chaste and excellent the diction.

We must substitute a fixed policy for drifting; direct action for dodging, and a constant forward movement for persistent backpedalling.

We must close the bung-hole that was opened with a democrataic jimmy and for the first time in eight years draw what we need from the spigot.

We must stamp out bolshevism, else, before we know it, law, order and the best fruit of civilization will themselves be stamped out.

Those disciples of Lenine and Trotsky now in our midst and all others who are eternally hostile to orderly government, work and thrift, must be shipped out of the country and marked "charges collect."

The men who have become fat, oily and oppulent by raising prices 100 per cent when costs have increased only 50 per cent, should be given their deserts by law.

Autocracy having been dethroned as a result of the war, it should never be re-established, either at Potsdam or the White House.

For seven years we have been twitting, teasing and terrifying our democratic friends by charging them with inaction, incapacity, ignorance, insanity, incompetency and inherrent disability. And we have loudly proclaimed that we can do better.

Now, we must make good or eat our words.

And the Lord knows that in my own case the bill of fare would be long, varied and far from appetizing.

If we succeed, as I think we will, it will work to the glory of the republic and the happiness of its people.

If we fail, then, just as surely as the sun rises over Roxy Ann to bathe in splendir the garden spot of the world, just so surely will be again assemble at a Lincoln club banquet for the express purpose of firing hot verbal shot at a democrataic party that has been restored to power.

If such should come to pass, then may the Lord have mercy upon us.

COL. R. C. WASHBURN.

MASSACRE OF IRISH CADETS IS DESCRIBED

LONDON.—The first detailed authentic account of the killing of 17 auxiliary cadets of the Royal Irish constabulary by a party of Sinn Feiners near Macroom, Ireland on November 28 has just been obtained from the sole survivor of the ambushed party, Lieutenant H. F. Forde. The lieutenant has recovered from his wounds in a London military hospital. All previous accounts of the affair have been based on deductions, in the absence of reports from eye witnesses.

Lieutenant Forde suffered a bullet wound in the head and was clubbed with the butt of a rifle and left for dead.

He says that the two motor cars carrying the cadets were attacked as they were passing between rocky declivities on either side just as the leading car ran into a ditch which had been prepared for it. Many of those in the first car were wounded by the first fire from forces concealed behind huge rocks.

Those in the second car came up and fought until the last man fell wounded. Forde was lying wounded when he heard the order to cease fire. He adds: "Then a large number of attackers from both sides rushed into the road. They wore the uniform of British soldiers and handled us all very roughly, not excepting the dead. After knocking us about they called on us all to stand up.

"Two of the party were able to get to their feet and were immediately shot down at close range by the 'shinners.' One of the cadets near me groaned and turned over. One of the civilians plunged a bayonet into his back. I muttered something and he turned to me and after cursing me, said it would be my turn next. I could see the others going through the clothing of the cadets who were being brutally treated. One of the civilians tried to pull a gold ring from my finger but failed. The next thing I remember was when one of them rolled me over roughly, to see I suppose, whether I was dead.

"When I woke up it was pitch dark. The ambushers had retired to their positions and occasionally fired a few shots."

WEDDING BELLS

Holmes-Moffat

A wedding of interest was that Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Mark's Episcopal church of two well and favorably known young Medford people, the bride being Miss Mary Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Holmes, and John Paul Moffat, nephew of John C. Mann. Only the relatives were present at the wedding, which was a quiet and beautiful affair, including the groom's mother, Mrs. Robert Moffat of Dubuque, Ia., who arrived in the city Sunday morning, and his brother, Frederick Moffat, who is in the federal forest service and stationed on the Klamath Indian reservation. Rev. Wm. Hamilton performed the ceremony.

John Paul Moffat is one of Medford's most popular young business men and is manager of the men's department of Mann's department store. The bride had been a student at the O. A. C. for the past two years until recently, and Mr. Moffat also attended that institution last year.

The newly wedded couple last night left on a honeymoon trip of a week or so at Portland and other northern points, and upon their return will reside in the Barnum apartments.

M. H. S. OFFERS NO ALIBI, ROSEBURG HERE WEDNESDAY

The Medford high basketball quintet returned yesterday from Roseburg where they completed the first two games of the southern Oregon championship series between Ashland, Roseberg and Medford. There is a difference of opinion as to the victors of Friday night's tilt. At the end of the first half the local tossers led their adversaries 15 to 8, but in the second period the Orange and Black squad through a series of clever plays, tied the score, 19 to 19, according to the Medford scorer. Roseburg, however, had the score 19 to 20 for their team and the controversy was settled six minutes before the end of that period by an announcement by Cecil Black, referee, who called the score a tie. During the last minutes of play Medford made a field basket and free toss or 3 points, while Roseburg made two points on a field basket leaving the score, according to Medford, 22 to 21.

In the second game, however, the Roseburg hoopers showed some of the cleverest and fastest basket work ever displayed on their floor and defeated the local men 36 to 19. During this game Whipple, playing center for Roseburg, was a whirlwind and the Medford men, although they played a good brand of ball, were played off their feet. Coach Klum has no excuses for the defeat of the second night. According to him the "Medford men played a good brand of ball but the Roseburg lineup was faster." Since the local hoop team is confident that they will show up their victors when the Roseburg squad plays here Wednesday and Saturday of this week the people of Medford can look forward to two fast games.

The Medford girls sextet played the Roseburg girls off their feet in both games last week winning by a score of 33 to 11 in the first game and 33 to 13 in the second. In these games the Roseburg girls admit that they were unable to fathom the various plays and understand the style of play of the Red and Black aggregation. The lineup for the boys' game was:

Medford.		Roseburg.
Coleman	F.	Hunt
Watson	F.	Fields
Baughman	C.	Whipple
Sherwood	G.	Campbell
Prescott	G.	Singleton
Young		Fields, T.

FIVE MILLION GERMANS PLAN TO EMIGRATE

BERLIN.—Students of economic subjects assert that at least 5,000,000 Germans are preparing to leave the Fatherland for the United States, Mexico and South American states as soon as they are able to raise passage money, or obtain admission in the case of the United States.

A majority of the would-be emigrants have expressed a preference to go to South America.

Official and unofficial quarters have displayed considerable uneasiness over the class of men who are now emigrating or preparing to emigrate. The head of the government immigration office said:

"The most able-bodied, enterprising, stalwart sons of Germany are leaving. The very poor, the communists, the radicals, the bolsheviki, generally are remaining with us. It is the family of some substance which is moving out."

One cause of this emigration is conceded to be the war taxes and particularly the income tax which virtually prohibits the salaried man from laying something aside for the rainy day. These men generally no longer patronize the banks. They are hoarding a little bit of salary each month, against the day they can emigrate.

In spite of the general agreement among political economists that Germany is overcrowded and that unless radical readjustments are made within one year the nation will be able to support only 50 percent of the present population, suggestions have been made that the government take immediate steps to regulate the number and quality of emigrants. With this in view a new law is being drafted.

It is argued that this tide of emigration could be turned back upon Germany to good purpose. Germany's arid lands, if irrigated or drained, would be capable of supporting 10,000,000 additional persons, it is said, and the government has been urged to make these lands available to the numbers now flocking into the cities.

Dr. Max Hirsch who, writing in the Berlin Tageblatt, says: "Germans who are preparing to emigrate at this time should, for the sake of the Fatherland, reconsider." Unrestricted emigration eventually will result in a weakened, probably aenemic, German race, he believes, in view of the character of the men who are leaving.

Others fear the exodus will result in an "impaired German culture" and suggest the advisability of state aid for the intellectuals who have been hardest hit by economic conditions.

Under the present German law an emigrant is permitted to take out with him 30,000 marks, tax-free.

'HAVE A HEART' TAG DAY BRINGS IN NEARLY $200

Have-a-Heart tag day for the Albertnia Kerr nursery brought in close to two hundred dollars. The exact amount will be announced as soon as all the money is in. The school children deserve almost all of the credit for without their efficient and faithful work Medford would never have made her quota. A bevy of them were at work in the residence district Friday after school and Saturday morning before seven at the public market and all day long they faithfully tagged every one who didn't wear their tag in plain sight.

Ruth Miller and Clara Wisely won the Shasta box of candy by selling $42.80 worth of tags.

Keith Howard worked alone and won the Sugarbowl box of candy by selling $39.75 worth of tags.

Pearl Reed and Susan Vimont won second prize which was a box of candy offered by Mrs. Locke. They sold $34.45 worth of tags.

A special prize of another box of candy was offered by the Valley Candy company and a friend, to Helen Shirly who sold $23.60 worth of tags. This youngster did a good sized amount of house work before she could start out, getting a neighbor to bake her bread after she had it ready for the oven and also danced at the Lincoln Tea in the afternoon and still came in third among the girls, and if it were counted that she worked alone, she sold the greatest number.

The chairman of the committee wishes to thank all who helped, the Golden Rule for their balcony for headquarters and the donators of the prizes, and Mr. Tait, who acted as treasurer.

PEERLESS BAKERY HAS NEW DELIVERY CAR

Mr. Bodenheimer, proprietor of the Peerless Bakery, has recently purchased a new Reo "speed wagon" to handle his increasing trade in this city and near-by towns. This new car was first seen on the streets Saturday afternoon and has caused much favorable comment because of its smooth operation and beauty. It has a capacity of 100 loaves of bread with room for pastries which enables Mr. Bodenheimer to better handle his Ashland and Grants Pass trade as well as intermediate points.

The new Reo was sold to the Peerless Bakery by the Pruitt-Myers Motor company last Saturday and this sale speaks well for the rapidly increasing popularity of these trucks On that day the Pruitt-Myers company sold three cars including a new Nash sport model to Mr. Isaacson of the Central Point bank.

HUNGARIANS MURDER ARRIVALS FROM U. S. A.

BUDAPEST, Feb. 14.—A number of Hungarians who have returned recently from the United States have become victims of an organized murder gang here. Disguised as guides, members of this organization lurk near the railway terminals and press their services upon unsuspecting arrivals, who are then led into out of the way places, waylaid and robbed, and sometimes murdered.

The body of George Bodnar, who recently returned with $3000 in savings, was taken out of the Danube. Peter Kelen, of Columbus, O., who brought $2000 with him was kidnaped and later was found shot to death in a forest.

80 Years Old— Attributes Health to Internal Baths

Mr. D. C. Newcomb, 704 N. 4th Ave., Atchison, Kansas, writes Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute of New York as follows:

"My next birthday is July 13—80 years old. Have used Tyrrell's 'J. B. L. Cascade' for more than 20 years. Best and only remedy that brings relief without the use of drugs. My experience proved that it always relieves. No danger from it. My ailBiliousness, Constipation, etc."

This is by no means an exceptional letter for Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute to receive, as there are now over half a million Americans using Dr. Tyrrell's "J. B. L. Cascade" with like results.

By the scientific use of Nature's cleanser—warm water—it eliminates all poisonous waste from the lower intestine and gives Nature a chance to work unhampered.

You will be astonished at the difference in your feelings the morning after an internal bath.

The "J. B. L. Cascade" will be shown and explained to you by West Side Pharmacy, Main and Grape street, who will also give you free on request, an interesting booklet by Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell, "Why Man of Today Is Only 50 per cent Efficient."

HIGH PRAISE FOR UNCLE SAM'S HELP IN INDIAN CRISIS

LONDON, Feb. 14—Newspapers here today gave considerable attention to the address of Lord Reading, viceroy of India before the English speaking union on Saturday night during which he told of the United States opening its treasury reserves to send silver to India during the war. The newspapers expressed the liveliest appreciation of this action which brought considerable relief to England at a time when affairs in India appeared to be critical.

"Remembrance of acts like these," says the London Times, "should enable both peoples to judge a great deal of ill-considered talk with becoming contempt."

The Telegraph says the transaction was most eloquent of the value of American good will toward this country, adding:

"When it comes to a pinch, even in war time, such an act never could have been done if a deep lying sentiment had not been there to further it."
