

TROUBLE BEGAN IN 1900 STATES SEATTLE MAN

Well Known Florist Tried Eighteen Years to Get Relief—Tanlac Overcame Trouble Three Years Ago—Still Enjoys Fine Health

"Tanlac proved to be just what my wife and I both needed, and we have been praising it for nearly three years," said W. A. Mohr, well-known wholesale florist reading at 2630 Holly St., Seattle.

"In the year nineteen hundred I began having trouble with my stomach. I had such terrible pains nearly all the time. I would rather take a meal than endure the suffering afterwards. I gradually went down hill. Many days it took all my will power to keep from going to bed, and finally I began having pains all through my body and my back often hurt so bad I could hardly stoop over. I had rheumatism in my shoulders and knees so bad I couldn't sleep well.

"When Tanlac was first introduced in Seattle to many people began praising it that I fell in line and it wasn't long before I was completely relieved of all my troubles. I still keep the several pounds in weight I gained by taking Tanlac, and my appetite is simply splendid. In fact, I am in perfect health in every way. My wife also took the medicine and it did her a world of good, and I don't think anybody praises Tanlac any more than we do."

Tanlac is sold in Medford by West Side Pharmacy, in Jacksonville by J. W. Robinson, in Rogue River by W. S. Cary, and by leading druggists in every town.

REVIVE INTEREST IN PROLONGATION OF HUMAN LIFE

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Popular interest in the oft-discussed question whether it is possible to keep old age at bay indefinitely and correspondingly prolong the span of life has been revived by Professor Julian Huxley of Oxford. Julian is a grandson of the great Huxley and inherits no inconsiderable measure of his talent for painstaking scientific research.

"The common-sense view of the life-cycle, drawn from the observation of man and the familiar animals," said Professor Huxley, "is that it proceeds always and inevitably in a definite direction with a definite plan. The normal life-cycle of a man, for instance, is as follows: The individual starts as a tiny single cell, then follows a period of rapid growth accompanied by differentiation; then growth without differentiation, then senility and finally death, which supervenes as a natural phenomenon, even if not through disease or accident."

Experiments had shown, however, that this process was not irreversible, and was not inevitably similar in all animals; that it was possible to modify the rate of growth and the length of the period of growth and thus prolong life.

"It has been shown," Professor Huxley continued, "that by alternately starving and feeding planarian flatworms they can be kept not only within certain definite limits of size, as was to be expected, but also within certain definite limits of age. One animal has thus been kept of the same age—that is, in the same lively activity, the same form, the same type of behavior—for a time during which the rest of the brood have passed through 13 generations; a period which, translated into human terms would take us back to Chaucer. Thus, age does not merely depend on the lapse of time; it is the expression of internal processes."

"The chief of life so long sought in the middle ages at last has been found—but, alas! Only for flatworms."

An illustration of reversal in mental life, Professor Huxley mentioned that in some shellfish and neuroathia cases the patients revert to an earlier stage of mental existence, having the minds of children and the bodies of adults. "The most striking case," he said, "was that of an Australian soldier who reverted to the condition of an infant, unable to walk, or talk, and incapable of taking any food but milk. This is known as mental regression."

Professor Huxley held that numerous other examples showed that the apparent irreversibility of the life-cycle was only apparent, and that the ordinary type of life-cycle had been adopted as the most convenient, but not as the only possible method of grappling with existence. In the case of mammals, the normal life of rats had been prolonged by about 40 per cent.

"Observation of life process," said Professor Huxley, in conclusion, "has given way to experiment as the chief method of research, and experiment is leading to control."

U. S. SUIT FILED AGAINST POSTAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The United States government thru Assistant United States Attorney Earl Barnes has filed in the United States district court a suit in equity to obtain an accounting from the Postal Telegraph system for the money paid to that company as agent of the government in operating the system for one year during the war.

Mr. Barnes said that the amount in dispute between the government and the Postal Telegraph company totals approximately $2,000,000.

According to Mr. Barnes, the companies took in a net revenue exceeding $1,000,000 during the twelve months they were under government control, but when the lines were returned to their owners, the government neglected to take its money out and the companies later refused to give it up.

WILSON IS DENOUNCED FOR DEBS TREATMENT

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—A statement denouncing the department of justice and President Wilson because Eugene V. Debs in the Altona federal prison, had been denied his visiting and visiting privileges has been issued by socialist party headquarters today. The statement accuses that the order "which extends even to his weekly letter to his wife," was issued at the instance of the president.

"The socialist party takes this opportunity proudly to proclaim that it stands with Debs and for him," the statement said. "That it is its greatest joy to number within its ranks the one character in modern history that comes closest to the all-forgiving rebel of Nazareth."

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 23.—The home state affairs committee has reported favorably the anti-alien land ownership bill designed to prevent Japanese from acquiring land in Texas. It follows closely the California law. The bill passed the senate with little opposition last week.

TRACTORS CLIMB ON GREENLANDS ICY MOUNTAINS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Tractors are crawling over the snow-covered fields of northern Greenland carrying the supplies of the Lange Koch expedition. This novel use of a new-born vehicle recalls that some of the oldest transportation methods still are employed in regions whose civilization is older and higher than that of the Greenland Eskimo," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

The ox-cart still serves the southern "clarks" in North Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama, as well as in other portions of the south, as his coach and four for the Sunday "go-to-meeting." During the week the stolid beast plows tobacco and cotton fields. In India bullocks hitched to a wagon with an ornate bee-hive shaped or elongated covering, not unlike the picturesque tobacco schooner, convey the Burmese man and his family along the road to Mandalay. Nor does this animal cease being a means of transportation upon his death. The natives blow up his skin and use it as a float or raft on which they cross the rivers.

In Arctic regions and in Alaska particularly the dog has rendered mankind inestimable assistance. Today he is the means by which letters, parcels, and provisions reach the snow-bound inhabitants of the interior. The reindeer also plays an important part in the transportation system of Alaska.

The dog is the Belgian peasants' close friend, drawing the truck and milk wagons in many towns.

"One of the quaintest wagons of the schooner type now in use is drawn by camels through the streets of certain towns in India. This country affords a variety of conveyances and conveyors among which even the most blasé of novelty seekers might find something to interest him—the humped ox, the horse, the donkey, the camel, the elephant, and the human being carrying a long pole across his shoulder to which his burden is slung."

The back of man bears the burden in China. And as the chain of burden bearers goes around the world, with the elephant of Siam that piles the native work, the carabao that thrashes the rice of the Philippines, the man who propels the palanquin, the jirikisha, and lately the "buricomobile" of Japan, the trotting ox of Cayton, the splendid horse of Arabia, the saddle ox of Central Africa, and the camel of the Sahara and Central Asia, to the llama of the high Andes, the ubiquitous automobile, and the homely but utilitarian little burro of Mexico, Central and South America. Thousands of these last named little animals daily tread the trail leading from the lowlands to the city of La Paz, delivering in the capital of Bolivia practically everything the city gets from the outside world. Patiently, too, the burro has trailed its way through history, from a period in the Holy Land older than that in which Joseph and Mary fed from Herod's slaughter of the innocents, thence to northern Spain and across to America with the Spanish explorers and colonizers.

The section of France known as Landes discloses one method of traversing her many square miles of flat, sandy marshes that is probably employed by few except the American boy in play. The shepherds in this area tend their flocks on high stilts.

"There is one city at least in which the horse has no prestige—Venice. It has often been called the "horseless city." If traffic policemen are necessary on her liquid highways, they occupy their minds with the problem of keeping the freight boats from submerging the amorous and oblivious gondolier."

"The Mother Goose rhyme about the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker who went to sea in a tub may have had its inspiration in one of the curious circular wickerwork boats, covered with skins, which are in daily use on the Tigris and Euphrates rivers for hauling both freight and passengers."

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE

Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples

A headache remedy without the dangers of "hectic medicine." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts at once! Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can it affect stomach and heart, as some internal medicines do.

Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

HOME RULE BILL COMPLICATES THE IRISH SITUATION

DUBLIN.—British determination to apply the newly-enacted home rule bill has injected new complexities into the Irish imbroglio.

The big questions of the hour are whether conditions in southern Ireland are too chaotic to permit the experiment of an election and whether the electors in that section will refuse to vote.

An important problem in Ulster is whether the nationalist minority will refuse to accept the Home Rule Act and thus give full sway to unionists, of whom Sir Edward Carson has long been leader (since succeeded by Sir James Craig).

These are the dominant issues on which the whole country is speculating.

Preparations for the application of the act in northern Ireland are in an advanced stage. There it is to come into force at the earliest possible convenient date. The splendid Belfast city hall will be placed at the disposal of the new northern parliament, eliminating any delay for erection of a parliament house. It is assured that the Carson adherents will have a working majority. The result will depend on the extent to which the nationalists in northeast Ulster, dissatisfied with its severance from the rest of Ireland, go to the polls.

If they vote in proportion to their numbers, they will form somewhat less than half of the membership of the new body. The Carsonites will be given virtual carte blanche if the nationalists boycott the election. Refusal of the nationalists to vote will not prevent the parliament from functioning.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your crown. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"Here's Real Tobacco"

says the Good Judge

That gives a man more genuine chewing satisfaction than he ever got out of the ordinary kind. Smaller chew, lasts longer—so it costs less to chew this class of tobacco.

And the good, rich tobacco taste gives a world of satisfaction.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.
