SOUTHERN OREGON POULTRY MEETING ASHLAND SATURDAY

ASHLAND, Feb. 25.—"Incubation and Baby Chicks" will be a theme dwell upon here, on Saturday afternoon of this week, Feb. 26. The scene will be Chautauqua Pioneer hall, and the occasion will be a gathering of the Southern Oregon Poultry association in convention assembled. The program incorporates a business meeting at 1:30 o'clock, followed by an address on the topic as outlined, at the hands of F. H. Cockell, of Portland, who heretofore as an instructor in poultry husbandry, has been connected with the University of British Columbia at Vancouver. At the business meeting various committee reports will be submitted, notably from teams identified in the drive going on of late incident to the campaign inaugurated for an increased membership. The poultry industry is an important one, and secondary only to orchard, grain and livestock production. The speaker of the afternoon will also review the status of chicken raising in various other sections outside of our valley, having had years of experience along practical lines in leading commercial establishments in the east, devoted to poultry exclusively. All interested are cordially invited to be present.

The Chamber of Commerce will be host to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon to be served at 12:30 o'clock preliminary to the business meeting. As to whether chicken will be served, depends on the weather, but under the direct supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Billings, Mrs. A. C. Briggs, Mrs. J. H. Fuller, Mrs. John Hill, and Mrs. Mary Homes Tucker, visitors may rest assured that a substantial lunch will be provided by this local committee.

"Ring out the old, ring in the new," applies to a notable business change along mercantile lines, to take place in this city on or about March 1. This refers to the sale by C. H. Vaupel of his well known dry goods and furnishing establishment to the E. R. Isaacs & Co., Inc., of Medford. In disposing of this familiar merchandising emporium, Mr. Vaupel does so after over thirty years continuous business experience in this city in the several capacities successively as salesman, employe, partner, and sole proprietor individually. Emigrating from Iowa in 1887, he came to Ashland, entering the employ of the late D. R. Mills, merchant of the earlier period, as a clerk, a continuance of former service rendered to Mr. Mills in the Hawkeye state. In 1898 he formed an initial partnership under the firm name of Vaupel, Norris & Drake, followed by that of Vaupel, Drake & Kinney, the third association being under the title of Vaupel, Beebe & Kinney. Selling his interest to Beebe & Kinney in 1909, he established the familiar headquarters adjacent to the First National bank, under personal ownership and supervision, an establishment which has earned a well-deserved prestige among the leading mercantile centers of the town.

Earl R. Isaacs is at the head of the new incorporation which has purchased the local store. For nearly a decade he has been actively identified with the Mann department store in Medford, and it is needless to add that "Mann's" and "Vaupel's" are well high synonymous designations as relatively indicating the extent of two important business houses of the respective towns. It is understood that the Ashland store under its new management will handle dry goods, notions and women's furnishings, exclusively. It will close temporarily for inventory on Saturday night, Feb. 26. Mr. and Mrs. Isaacs are already here and have rooms in the Shook apartments on East Main street.

REIMER LECTURE PHOENIX SUNDAY

Twice postponed on account of heavy rain, the lecture by Prof. F. C. Reimer is now announced for Sunday evening, February 27, at the 7:30, at the Phoenix church. He is to speak on "The Truth About China and the Chinese," and their present and future place among the nations of the world. Those who have heard Mr. Reimer speak of his experiences while traveling in China and Manchuria in search of pear trees which would prove to be blight-resisting, will want to hear this interesting lecture. Everyone is invited, and also to the other services for Sunday the 27th, which are to be unusual, both morning and evening.

At 6:45 p. m. our delegate to the recent state C. E. convention at Corvallis, Miss Liberta Gore, will have charge of the young people's meeting and give a report of the convention. A good meeting.

At 11 a. m. Sunday, Miss Ruth Warner of Medford is to sing, and the pastor, Joseph W. Angell, will preach on the following theme: "With Great Joy, and with Great Gladness." All welcome.

Next week, Friday evening, March 4th, the Phoenix Brotherhood will hold its March meeting at Clyde hall, with supper and special features to be announced early in the week, which will be of unusual interest to men of the community, all of whom are invited.
