

PORTLAND WOMAN RECOVERS HEALTH TAKING TANLAC

"I am now enjoying splendid health for the first time in many years and I owe it all to Tanlac," said Mrs. Bertha Carlson, of 634 Quinby St., Portland.

"Nobody but myself can know what I suffered from nervousness and indigestion during all those years. I never had any relish for food, and when I forced myself to eat a hearty meal, I always paid the penalty. I had to be always taking medicine for constipation, my kidneys were disordered and my back hurt like it would break in two.

"I was so nervous I couldn't get any restful sleep, and many a night I lay awake suffering and wondering if there was nothing that could help me. But Tanlac has relieved me of every one of my troubles.

"Why, I want to be eating all the time and my stomach never bothers me a bit. I have gained so much in weight I can hardly get my clothes on and just feel fine. I have been so delighted with the way Tanlac has restored my health that I got my son to taking it and he has already been helped wonderfully. Tanlac is certainly a grand medicine."

"Tanlac is sold in Medford by West Side Pharmacy, in Jacksonville by J. W. Robinson, in Rogue River by W. S. Cary, and by leading druggists in every town. Adv.

FINAL GAMES IN ASHLAND SERIES FRIDAY, SATURDAY

The last two games of the Medford-Ashland basketball series will be played Thursday and Friday of this week, according to an announcement made today by Coach Klum. The final game Friday is scheduled to be played at the Natatorium in this city and the tickets will be placed on sale tomorrow morning.

The Medford men, although crowded out of Saturday's game with Ashland by a 22 to 20 score, are still going strong and after they undergo a stiff week's work-out and tooming practice, local fans may expect a strong rally in the concluding games of the series. The Red and Black boys were unable to ring baskets Saturday although their superior team work placed them continually under their adversaries' hoop, and if they brush up on shooting, the Ashland aggregation will have to go some to hook the series. Although the officials have not been selected by the school authorities Rol Andre, who handled Saturday's game in such a satisfactory manner, would be a popular selection with the people of both Medford and Ashland.

HILLSBORO, Ore., Feb. 28.—An inquest will be held Saturday to determine the cause of death of Robert Self, 16 years old, newspaper carrier of Aloha Station, who was found early Sunday morning shot to death on a bridge over a creek. Although Sheriff Alexander is of the opinion that the boy either accidentally or intentionally shot himself, the boy's father, George M. Self, declared today he was convinced the boy was murdered.

Title to one of Jacksonville's historic spots changed hands the beginning of the week when Mr. Schmidt purchased the Sisters' Academy and Convent property on California street. During pioneer days this academy was the leading educational institution of southern Oregon and was largely attended by young people from all parts of the valley. The property consists of a large, well-shaded lot, beautifully located, and one of the old academy buildings, which, it is understood, Mr. Schmidt will convert into a residence with a view to making it his future home.—Jacksonville Post.

do not know why they failed to catch the signal."

An official statement issued from the office of the chief dispatcher of the Michigan Central at Chicago also declared the Michigan Central engine crew apparently failed to observe that the crossing signal was set against them.

Wreck Is Described.

Edward W. Fiedrke of Grand Rapids, Mich., who stood on the platform of the day coach just a few feet from the point where the New York Central engine hit it, and who saw the headlight bore down on them, told his story today.

"The car swayed suddenly and left the tracks," he said. "We bumped along the ties for a few feet at full speed. From one side I heard a blast of a whistle. I looked out. There was another train bearing down on us at full speed.

"I couldn't move. My tongue stuck up in the roof of my mouth. I tried to open the door into the day coach to shout to the people inside. My hand refused to function.

"It, perhaps, wasn't over thirty seconds between the time I saw that train and the moment it hit us. It was ten years to me.

Car Buckles In.

The light from the headlight of the approaching train made everything as bright as day where I stood.

I thought I was surely going to be killed.

"As I stood I could see into the day coach. On the side the New York Central train was approaching. I could see that other passengers had seen it. A woman jumped up from her seat. She held a little girl to her breast. Men jumped up—one started for the door.

"Then suddenly the side of the car buckled in. I remember hearing a scream that I'll never forget. And then came darkness.

"I was thrown from that platform nearly fifty feet. I lit on the ground. The breath knocked out of me. When I sat up, the whole middle of our train had gone. It was a little bell there for a few minutes.

"I wish I could accurately describe the sensations of that moment that I awaited death. When I could get to my knees, I stayed there and gave up a prayer. And I'm glad of it.

"I'll never forget the expression of the faces of those poor people as they died. The staring eyes of one man looked directly into mine—that face is going to come to me for the rest of my life."

Fiedrke, outside of numerous bruises, was not injured. The car platform on which he stood was smashed into fragments.

E. M. Giddings, carrying a railroad ticket from Kirby, Wyo., to Augusta, Mich., died of injuries on the way to Michigan City.

An unidentified woman, believed to be Giddings' wife, also died en route to Michigan City.
