CLAIM JAP'S LAW AGAINST ALIENS IS MORE SEVERE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—By direction of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, now in session here, President Samuel Gompers is to investigate the whole Japanese and Oriental industrial and labor problem with a view to determining whether the restrictions imposed upon American workers and capital in the Far East are not more severe than those imposed in this country on Orientals.

Union officials said today they had received information that the land and immigration laws in Japan were more restrictive than those in America and that American laborers seeking employment in the Orient were compelled by law to give up trade secrets.

"There is so much agitation about the Japanese question in this country," said one labor official, "that we feel that it is a national problem and want to ascertain the facts. We do not feel that Japan is justified in making such an outcry against our laws when she has more restrictive regulations at home."

B. J. Doran, representative of the Bean Sprayer company, is conducting a demonstration every day this week at Hubbard Brothers, their local representatives place of business. The machine being demonstrated is their super-giant sprayer especially adapted to this locality. One of the disadvantages of some sprayers is their small capacity, light engine and low pressure. ## WILSON TO MEET HIS SUPPORTERS AFTER CEREMONY

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—Woodrow Wilson will receive democratic senate leaders and other official friends at his new home on S street Friday afternoon after his retirement from the presidency. Mr. Wilson will go direct from the capitol to his home after the inauguration of President Harding.

The president was represented as wishing to attend the inauguration on the east portico of the capitol and the congressional inaugural committee has offered to provide a chair for him. Whether Mr. Wilson will attend the ceremony will depend, it is understood, upon his ability to negotiate the steps leading to the portico.

Even if the president does witness the inauguration of his successor, he will not ride with him to the White House.

The Screen

Rugged Star Has Powerful Role
Hobart Hosworth is the star in "Behold the Surface," coming to the Rialto theatre today for a four day run.

The story centers around Martin Flint, played by the star, and his son, Luther, deep-sea divers, living in a small New England village. Martin's rescue of the crew of a navy submarine by means of a record dive brings him to the attention of an unscrupulous promoter, James Arnold, who approaches the diver with a proposition to salvage the treasure in an old wreck. Martin denounces the enterprise as foodhardy, but Luther, lured on by Edna Gordon, an underworld character who accompanies Arnold, agrees to make the dive. As a reward, Edna marries Luther, despite Martin's objections.

Luther collapses in his attempt to reach the treasure. Edna deserts him. Martin traces the girl to Boston, bundles her onto the steamer, and starts back with her. Arnold secretly follows on the same boat. The steamer is wrecked and Arnold and Edna are drowned together. Martin escapes. Luther insists upon diving for his wife's body; and, doing so, discovers evidence of her perfidy. The boy's airline becoming fouled, Martin rescues him from sure death.

"Behold My Wife!"
"Behold My Wife!" is coming to the Page theatre for four days commencing today. The story was adapted from Sir Gilbert Parker's novel of the Canadian northwest, "The Translation of a Savage."

The central characters are the aristocratic sons of an English family and the simple Indian girl whom he encounters in Canada while he is on business for the Hudson's Bay company. Receiving word from his fiancée back in England that she has broken with him because of his family's objection to their marriage, the youth, in a fit of rage, marries the Indian girl and sends her back to England as his wife to disgrace his blue-blooded aires. Then he proceeds to hit the toboggan in his own way. However, dramatic events work a transformation in both the young Englishman and his bride and the ending is a happy one.

"Behold My Wife!" has been filmed against a background of snow-capped mountain peaks, bleak Canadian trading posts, and luxurious English country homes. The action is interpreted by a distinguished cast including Mabel Jullienne Scott, Elliott Dexter, Milton Sills, and Ann Forrest. Frank Condon adapted the story to the screen.
