

OREGONIAN SAYS HE HAD SUFFERED SINCE CHILDHOOD

"Tanlac is what ended by troubles and, besides that, my wife has gained twenty-five pounds by taking it," said M. C. Staley, 3618 Fifty-Second street, Southeast, Portland.

"I had been having spells of rheumatism ever since I was a child and at times was in such bad shape I actually couldn't raise my feet an inch off the floor. The pains would start in my feet and go up through my legs into my arms and shoulders, and I simply ached all over.

"My stomach got out of order, I lost my appetite and couldn't eat anything hardy but what it bloated me up until it was all I could do to get my breath. My kidneys bothered me terribly and I had awful pains in my back. I had sickening headaches and at night the pains would wake me up about one or two o'clock and I couldn't get back to sleep the rest of the night.

"Well, I have taken six bottles of Tanlac now and cannot feel a trace of the rheumatism and am as strong and active as a man could want to be. My kidneys never bother me now and I am a well man in every respect. Tanlac has restored my wife's health, too, and to my way of thinking it's a medicine that can't be equalled."

Tanlac is sold in Medford by West Side Pharmacy, in Jacksonville by J. W. Robinson, in Rogue River by W. S. Cary, and by leading druggists in every town.

SENATOR THOMAS DEPLORES GRIP OF CAL.-ORE. POWER

Senator C. M. Thomas addressed the Grade Teachers' association at the library last night, upon the "Teachers' Tenure of Office" measures before the last session.

The history of the contests growing out of the several measures was given, particularly setting out the political reasons for the position of many of the individual senators and representatives. Senator Thomas did not hesitate to give names and facts.

Among the vicious influences he referred to in Oregon politics was the California-Oregon Power company, whose activities he said in connection with other power companies of the state were attracting the attention of those conversant with public affairs. He said that in his opinion, the power companies had already obtained a grip that would be exceedingly difficult to break.

The greatest advertisement the city of Medford could possibly present to the world would be "the cheapest light, heat and power on earth," and with the city of Medford almost on the banks of the Rogue river, one of the great power streams of the world, Senator Thomas stated he could not see why such a hope should not be realized.

He stated that data was now being assembled; a concrete plan was being developed, and would be presented to the public soon.

FOR BUSY LITTLE FOLK

The quaint fashion of pinafores revived in many ways. Here, a pink and white barred linen has baby ducks embroidered on the shallow yoke of it. The apron, as one can see, is tied at the sides with sashes of the same material—a pretty fashion that any small person would like.

Mrs. Gus Nichols, her daughter Miss Muriel Smith, her stepdaughter Miss Ruth Nichols and Mrs. T. F. Nichols, her stepson's wife called on the hostesses at the Sunnyside Saturday evening.

Sunday was rather a busy day at the Sunnyside for in addition to some 25 regular boarders, a number of whom are the men working on the Crater Lake highway and other regular boarders, we had as guests at the noon hour Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Satchwell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Duff of Medford, Wm. Von der Hellen, wife and daughter Miss Joyce and son Hugo, and Mrs. Von der Hellen's brother-in-law, Raymond Reter of Medford, Mr. and Mrs. Gustine (Gus the Tailor), Dr. C. T. Sweeney, wife and daughter, Miss Edith and Mrs. Francis Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Kroschel and two boys, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Caton of Medford.

Monday forenoon there were but very few people in from the country although C. E. Bellows went thru here quite early in the morning on his way to Medford, but about noon there was some stir in business circles and among the callers at the Sunnyside for dinner were Carl Von der Hellen and wife of Wellen, E. M. Campbell who is operating the creamery truck for the Snider Dairy and Produce Co., he is gathering farm produce for the Farm Bureau of Medford. Mr. Campbell reports that Mr. Snider had bought out the Eldridge creamery business and Mr. Snider is carrying on the business so far as the cream is concerned but is gathering the eggs, poultry, etc., for the Farm Bureau.

through our town Tuesday morning on horseback going on Rogue river and if it had not been for his white hair might have passed as a young buckaroo.

N. B. Hildreth and wife of Butte Falls, came out Tuesday evening and spent the night at the Sunnyside on their way to Prospect taking the stage this Wednesday morning for Derby to connect with the Prospect stage at Derby.

For the benefit of the curiously inclined I will say that this, the 16th day of March, 1921, is my eighty-ninth birthday, and that if I continue to keep up my work as a newspaper correspondent until next September I will have been in the business almost continually for the last sixty-three years, the first few years writing only occasionally, but for several years have written from once to five times a week and for the last, I think thirty-five or thirty-six years, have written every week for the same paper although it has changed hands and changed the name twice, first the Monitor, then the Medford Mail, and then the Medford Mail Tribune, and for years before that I wrote for the Jacksonville Times and Valley Record regularly every week, and if the Lord gives me the ability to do the work, gathering items and writing I will not predict how much longer I will try to keep it up, and while on the subject wish to extend to the editors and managers of the paper, through all these years for their kindness in bearing with my mistakes, and to the many friends who have encouraged and assisted me in my arduous duties.

Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

The Screen

At the Page
"Once to Every Woman," Dorothy Phillips' amazing photodrama of tears and laughter, the offering at the Page theatre. Not since "The Heart of Humanity" and "The Right to Happiness," Miss Phillips' former successes, has the screen offered such a remarkable photodrama.

"Once to Every Woman" will continue at the Page theatre until Saturday midnight.

At the Rialto
The showing of "Conrad in Quest of His Youth," at the Rialto theatre, was in the nature of an ovation to Thomas Meighan, the popular actor who enthused film fans by his memorable work in "The Miracle Man," fascinating them as the butler in "Male and Female," and made them love him as the young artist in "The Prince Chap."

In this new William DeMille production, he portrays the role of Conrad Warrenner, who, having passed middle age realizes that he is old, and seeks, by re-living the scenes of his youth, to make himself young again. He finds ultimately, that the secret of youth is love and the picture finishes with a delightful romance.

LOCAL HAY CROP NEARLY EQUAL IN VALUE TO PEARS

While it is generally known that Jackson county is the greatest pear county in the state. And while it is known everywhere that the Medford pears topped the market the past season in London, New York and Chicago, yet it is not of general knowledge that the lowly hay crop of Jackson county ranked in value for the past season, about equal to that of the famous pear crop.

According to the U. S. department of agriculture, in its 1920 crop report of Oregon crops, the value of hay grown in Jackson county was $1,687,200. The acreage in Jackson county was 25,150, more than the combined acreage of spring and winter wheat, corn and oats.

The pear crop of Jackson county is estimated at 526,569 bushels, of which half a million bushels is regarded as a commercial crop.

Although the government places an average value of $1.50 a bushel for the general pear crop of Oregon, yet for the Jackson county crop, $3.00 a bushel is considered a very low estimate. Even at $2.00 a bushel, the pear crop, according to the government's figures was worth to Jackson county the past season, the total sum of $1,572,030.

However, placing an average value of $3.25 a bushel for the Jackson county pear crop, the total would amount to $1,719,670, providing the government's figures as to total crops approximately correct.

This figure would place the pear crop slightly more in value than the government's figure on the Jackson county hay crop, the bureau of statistics figures there was an average of 2.2 tons an acre in the state and that the value on an average, was $13.19 a ton. These figures for the estimate were collected last December and compiled early in the year.

However, Jackson county is known as the highest priced market in the state, and it is probable that the government's estimate of a value of $13.19 a ton for loose hay in the field would hardly hold good.

If such is the case, the best figures available would place the value of the hay crop in this county about equal to that of its famous pear crop for 1920.
