

STUDENTS WILL BUILD YOU SMALL BUILDING, GRATIS

L. A. Mentzer, instructor in manual training at the high school, made the following statement at a recent meeting of the school board: The manual training classes of the school are taking up the study of building. The present plan is to work out actual sized detail parts of the houses, showing the construction of the corner, then one of two working cuts of the rafters and of construction.

As soon as these details are made the theory of house building is thoroughly gone over. It is the plan, possibly, to build some real outside building. As the time is limited, we will be unable to take up as large a project now as we might another year.

We would like, however, to make an offer to you. If you are in need of a garage, chicken house, small tool shed, or any other small building, we will build it for you here on the school grounds free of charge. If you will furnish the materials, and then move to your own home.

We are quite anxious for some of the kind of work, so we trust you will feel interested and take our offer. This not only means that you will get your house built for nothing, but you will be helping to give the boys a part of their training by furnishing them something to work upon. We will guarantee you an A. job, and be glad to be of service to you. Now, if you are interested in our proposition, please feel free to come and talk it over with us. We will invite you to come and visit our shop at any time and inspect our work.

Signed: Manual training class of the high school.
L. A. Mentzer, Instructor.

ORCHARDISTS SHOULD TEST THERMOMETERS

Persons having thermometers or frost alarms to be tested and compared with standard Weather Bureau instruments, should leave them at the county agent's office in the Liberty building at once. As much preparation is necessary to test one thermometer as fifty, and it is desired to have all the instruments to be checked and delivered as soon as possible, so they can all be handled at once.

The ordinary stock thermometers should be checked each year, as they are subject to slow changes which affect the accuracy of the readings. This is especially true of thermometers graduated only on the metal or wooden backs.

PERFECTION BREAD ON THE MARKET

Messrs. Washburn and Fullerton, who came here from Tacoma about six months ago and purchased the bakery at the corner of Main and Grape street, and who are expert bakers, have been putting in up-to-date equipment, consisting of a revolving oven and other machinery, now have their bread on the market, which they call "Perfection," and guaranteed it as good as any on the market. They have changed the name to the Medford Bakery and not only make first class bread but all kinds of pastries. Their motto is "It's the Flavor."

A FINAL REQUIEM MASS IS HELD FOR CARDINAL GIBBONS

BALTIMORE, Mar. 30. — Members of the Catholic laity filled the cathedral to overflowing this morning at the last of the special requiem masses preceding the final funeral services tomorrow for Cardinal Gibbons, whose death occurred last Thursday. Bishop O. B. Corrigan, vicar general of the diocese was the celebrant, assisted by members of the local priesthood. The music was sung by the cathedral choir.

At the end of the mass the congregation filed slowly past the bier for a last look at the features of the cardinal, and the long line of men, women and children who had gathered in the street meanwhile, streamed into the edifice in a procession which bid to continue all day. It is estimated that between 25,000 and 30,000 persons viewed the body of the prelate yesterday during the twelve hours it was exposed to public view.

The office for the dead will be sung at the cathedral tonight by the seminaries of St. Mary's college here and the diocesan clergy, Bishop Corrigan presiding.

Governor Hitchie gave the final touch to the plan for a general tribute to the cardinal when he issued an official proclamation yesterday calling on the people of Maryland to suspend all activities at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, the hour of the funeral to offer a prayer for the example of Cardinal Gibbons' life. In Baltimore the mayor and city council have proclaimed a five minute period of business suspension.
