

LEADING AUTHORITIES NOW SHOW JUST WHAT TANLAC REALLY IS

Physiological Action of Principal Ingredients of Celebrated Medicine on the Human System Is Explained.

SUPREMACY CLAIMS WELL SUPPORTED

Many of the Medicinal Elements Have Been Known and Used Since Civilization First Began.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada, is composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science. The formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State Pure Food and Drug Laws. Altogether, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value.

Many of these ingredients have been individually known and used since civilization first began, and some of them have been used and prescribed by leading physicians everywhere, but until they were brought together in proper proportion and association, as in the Tanlac formula, humanity had not heretofore realized their full value and effect.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered." In referring to others of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text book, states that "They impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

The same well-known authority, in describing the physiological action of another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as a "run-down condition," uses the following expression: "It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tanlac which, because of their influence upon the appetite, digestion, assimilation and vital activity of the tissues and more important organs of the body, and produce that state of general tonic which is called Health.

The United States Dispensatory makes the following comment regarding another ingredient: "It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required. Dyspepsia, atonic gout, hysteria and intermittent fever are among the many affections in which it has proven useful."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensatory and in other standard medical text books as having a beneficial action upon the organs of secretion, whose proper functioning results in the purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner objectionable and poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed and the entire system invigorated and vitalized.

Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and a thorough elimination of the waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

Although Tanlac's claims for supremacy are abundantly supported by the world's leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have really made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it with gratifying results, and have told other millions what it has done for them. That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade in this country and Canada, and that is also why it is having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world today.

The Screen

A gripping story of father-love is "Heliotope Harry," the Cosmopolitan picturization of Richard Washburn Child's absorbing novel. This picture is attracting throngs to the Page. It is, in a sense, a sequel to "Humoresque," the Paramount picture of mother-love.

Although the name suggests a love story of somewhat passive nature, "Heliotope Harry" is distinctly not that type of play. It depicts the supreme sacrifice which a father makes for his daughter's happiness.

"If I Were King" Ends Tomorrow Night

Never have the patrons of the Rialto theatre been better pleased with a picture than with "If I Were King," in which William Farnum plays the part of the swaggering vagabond, Francois Villon.

This picture more than lived up to the advance notices. It will be shown for the last time tomorrow night at the Rialto theatre.

U. OF O. CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

A fair sized but very appreciative audience enjoyed the concert given at the high school auditorium last night by the University of Oregon orchestra of 25 members. The splendid program was a varied one to meet all tastes from jazz to classical. The latter numbers were particularly pleasing, as were the solo numbers of Miss Alberta Potter, talented violinist, Frank Jue, the sweet voiced Chinese tenor, and the selections by the jazz portion of the orchestra.

The concert was given under the auspices of the high school girls' glee club, and the visiting players were entertained at the homes of U. of O. alumni and friends during their stay in the city. The high school expresses appreciation for the courteous entertaining. The orchestra goes to Roseburg for a concert there Saturday night.

Aluminum wire is now being used on high tension electrical transmission lines because it is light and offers comparatively little resistance.
