EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

When I stopped writing last Saturday afternoon I was just ready to tell about our egg king No. 2, Henry French, and his son Floyd who had come back from Medford via Eagle Point, the first time I had seen them for two or three weeks, and then I caught Henry on the fly and he was in such a hurry that he said he had but little time to talk as he had a little business to attend to while Floyd and our blacksmith were doing a little repair work on his car. I asked why I had not seen him, etc., for so long a time and he said that for the last few weeks he had been taking their eggs and cream to Medford since the roads were getting worse down as he could cross the French-Dodge bridge and have a better road to Medford than he could go by way of Eagle Point, and that they had to go to Medford to get his cow and chicken feed at the Farm Bureau as he could save money by that means and that he could get considerable more for his eggs and cream than he could from the creamery men out here. I could not hold him longer so turned and went to the shop and found Floyd busily engaged working on the car, too busy to talk, but I noticed that the car seemed to be well loaded with feed, milk cans and egg crates, and the crates would indicate that they were taking around a hundred dozen eggs a week and cream in proportion and if he could save a few cents a dozen eggs on a hundred dozen and a like profit on their cream it would soon run into dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Rynning called for dinner the same day. Mr. Rynning is the state engineer on the Crater Lake highway in this section and his wife have rented rooms over the T. E. Nichols store and gone to housekeeping.

There has been considerable interest taken in this section of the country as to who will be the lucky person to receive the contracts to carry the mail from here to Trill six times a week and back; also to carry the mail from Trill to Persist and back twice a week, Tuesdays and Fridays. It was thought that by this morning there would be some word received but I was talking with one of the bidders this Wednesday and he had received no word from the department.

Wholesome Entertainment at Page. If you are one of those who cried over Anna Sewall's book, "Black Beauty," when you were a child, and who, ever since, perhaps, have given a thought to the rights and comfort of that all but extinct from our city streets animal, put away your fears of a pet spoiled, and to the Page theatre to see the screening of the tale. It is like going back home to find your home has been kept in all the lovin' used-to-be-ness that you have carried close in your heart since you left.

The picture has one virtue that stands out beyond its several other good qualities—the photography. It is exquisite frequently, with a reproduction of nature in her most wondrous moods.
