

Local and Personal

Owing to the cancellation of the Medford date of the Howe's Greater London Shows and circus not having been given sufficient publicity in the coast country, many disgusted people arrived in the city from Crescent City, Calif., last night and this morning for the purpose of attending this show. Seven auto loads which arrived last night passed nine more cars enroute to Medford for the show. The Crescent City people were disgusted to learn that the show had changed its route and would not be in Oregon at all until possibly later in the season. Crescent City and vicinity were billed by the show for the Medford date, and no notification was given there of the change of plans.

"A carload of dairy cows has been located which can be laid down in Klamath Falls at an average cost not to exceed $105.00 per head," says the Klamath Falls Herald. "These cattle were inspected by L. A. West, county livestock chairman, and the county agent when in Medford last week. Two dairy herds near Medford have just been combined, and the present owner must reduce this herd at once to the capacity of his barns. He gives the opportunity to select these cows from 50 to 60 head, all of which are tested producers. The production records are available on practically all of these. If this carload of cattle is to be obtained, arrangements must be made at once. Therefore anyone interested in securing any of these cows should get in touch with the farm bureau office not later than Saturday, May 7."

Real Hawaiian Dancer at Page Edith Roberts, the piquant star who will be seen here at the Page theatre tomorrow in "The Adorable Savage," a distinctly different romance, the setting of which is in the South Sea Islands, is a great help to her director, Norman Dawn. According to her mentor, the little star is forever thinking of some little scheme or detail to make the picture in which she is playing just a little bit better.

One of the instances cited by Mr. Dawn shortly after the filming of "The Adorable Savage," was complete, was the case where Miss Roberts induced Lillian Phillips, the celebrated Hawaiian beauty, to appear in the film in the role of the ceremonial dancer—the first time she had ever appeared before the animated camera. Mr. Dawn was having considerable trouble selecting the proper person for this character, which was a difficult one, requiring a native South Sea Islander who could not only appear cultured, but one who would require no "double" in performing the weird dances of the tropic isles.

Miss Phillips is a grandniece of the late King Hamakua. She is a native Hawaiian, her family adopting the American name when the United States came into possession of the island.

Human Side of Story of "The Scoffer" According to all pre-view reports the story unfolded in "The Scoffer," Allan Dwan's latest contribution to the screen, is one of the most tremendously human of recent productions and the momentum with which the series of exceedingly interesting incidents move forward is described as "an avalanche of life's truest truisms so presented as to entertain rolly." This playhouse is booked for a showing at the Rialto theatre tomorrow.

Shortly after completing "The Scoffer," Mr. Dwan issued a statement in which he announced that he had made every possible effort to avoid the theatre in presenting this theme and he publicly thanked the members of his cast for the success they had achieved in co-operating with him in making the whole production intensely human.
