AL JOLSON PAGE TUESDAY EVENING

Al Jolson, in the Winter Garden's whizzing, sizzling cyclone of laughter, the famous oriental travesty, "Sinbad" will be the attraction tomorrow night at the Page theatre. Never before in the history of the stage has there been an artist who approached the present popularity of this incomparable and imitable Al Jolson. He has been appearing in this extravaganza during the past two seasons, and during that time has appeared in but ten cities outside New York. The story of "Sinbad" takes us back to old Bagdad where we discover all our old friends of the Arabian Nights, and more particularly, the Porter, impersonated by the delectably droll and dynamically diverting Jolson. Harold Atteridge, who wrote the book of "Sinbad" and Sigmund Romberg and Al Jolson, who provided the music for this extravaganza, surpassed anything heretofore seen at the Winter Garden. Some of the big and important scenes in "Sinbad" are: North Shore Country Club, Golf Shelter, A Street in Bagdad, In the Perfumed East, the Palace of Sinbad, Cabin of the "Whale," the Briny Deep, the Valley of Diamonds, the Isle of Youth, the Hindoo Snake Dance, the Deck of the "Whale," the Garden Party, the Golf Course, and the amateur Dog Show, with its wonderful leaping hounds.
