The local Chautauqua season which closed at the tabernacle last night with a fine concert by the Mary Adele Haven Grand Opera company was so successful that a contract has been signed with the Ellison-White circuit for another short season here next summer, this being made possible through 84 Medford men and women guarantee the financial end of the venture. The guarantee for the season just closed was $3500 and the guarantors are freed from making up any deficiency as there is a surplus left over the expenses. This despite the fact that the chautauqua was given during a week in which were so many other attractions. The sale of season tickets amounted to $1001.50, and single admission tickets to $322.40.
