MEDFORD BOY IS GIVEN THRILLS IN AIRPLANE

Robert W. Clancy, Jr., aged 10 years enjoyed an aeroplane flight Sunday, to which were attached all the thrills of the game. He looped the loop, did the maple leaf fall, and the dangerous tail spin, at his own request, and is now the biggest boy in town. Before the stunts, Robert flew over his home, and proudly waved his hand at his folks and sister. When the young man got back to terra firma, he expressed a desire to go again. Master Clancy is very much interested in aviation, and spends his waking hours at the aviation field. To satisfy his juvenile longing an aviator Sunday took him up, on provision that he help get the plane ready. This he did. After his request to fly over his house, the young man demanded "to turn over a couple of times," and then ordered a tail spin, both being granted. The flight was made in a commercial Hispano-Suiza plane piloted by Jack Sherrinack, former army aviator. A number of other local people took a flight during the day. The plane arrived Saturday.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The government asked the supreme court today to dismiss its appeal in the suit brought against the American Can company and its subsidiaries under the Sherman anti-trust laws. The government lost in the lower courts. The government's action was based on the decision of the supreme court in the United States Steel corporation case. In view of that decision, Solicitor General Frierson said it was considered useless to continue the case against the American Can company.

BOURBON PRINCES FIGHT TO RECOVER LARGE CHATEAU

PARIS.—Efforts by two princes of the House of Bourbon-Farma to recover possession of the celebrated Chateau de Chambord which was sequestered by the French government during the war is one of the most interesting aftermaths of the great conflict. The chateau is more than 400 years old and is one of the most striking and interesting of the famous feudal establishments of ancient France. It was once one of the most magnificent of these great estates and lies in the valley of the Loire close to the town of Blois and has about 15,000 acres, part of which is enclosed by walls extending for 29 miles. The building is about 290 feet square with famous circular towers at the corners and a double spiral staircase leading to the double lantern, which dominates the center tower. It was built about 1525 and for two centuries was a royal residence. Louis XV gave it to Marshal Saxe and Napoleon presented it to Marshal Berthier. Eventually it fell into the possession of the Duke of Parma. At the beginning of the war it was owned by Prince Elias of Bourbon-Parma and was sequestered because he was serving in the Austrian army as an attaché of the Austrian general staff. Prince Elias is a brother of Zita, wife of the former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, who lately attempted to regain his throne as king of Hungary. After the war Prince Elias attempted to recover possession of the estate but the French courts have just disallowed his claim. This, however, does not settle the question of its ownership for Prince Sixtus, also of Bourbon-Parma, brother of Prince Elias has put in a claim to the ownership of the chateau. Prince Sixtus does not suffer the disability of Prince Elias as Sixtus and his brother Xavier both offered their services to the French government in the war and being refused on the ground that descendants of the old royal houses could not be permitted to fight for France, they both enlisted in the Belgian army where they served as stretcher-bearers under fire. Their bravery in this service was afterward recognized in a French citation. Americans will identify Prince Sixtus as the man who received, while the war was still in progress, the famous letter from Emperor Charles of Austria in which he stated that he sympathized with France's aspirations to recover Alsace-Lorraine and that in his opinion Belgium should be restored to the emperor. Prince Sixtus turned the letter over to President Poincaré and its publication by Premier Clemenceau created consternation in Germany. The emperor Charles denied its authenticity.

Waters Are Receding. PUEBLO, Colo., June 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—A report originating on the south side of Pueblo last night that the Arkansas river was four feet higher at Swallows and a new flood might be expected in Pueblo proved groundless early today. At 3:30 o'clock the river had fallen considerably from its high point of last night. The Associated Press correspondent accompanied Colorado rangers in an automobile trip through flooded Main street, over the Union avenue bridge in South Pueblo and traced the report to the wireless of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. How the report reached the wireless station cannot be learned. It was believed that the report referred to the flood of last night when the water rose again, following a heavy rain. Water had receded from the lower part of Main street, leaving only mud which was about a foot thick. The rangers said that the condition of the river looked better than at any time since early yesterday afternoon, just before the heavy rain. Hundreds of people living in buildings in the vicinity of the district flooded by Friday's disaster were routed out of bed at one o'clock this morning as a precautionary measure as a result of this report. Many remained up the remainder of the night and few of them returned before daylight. They sought shelter in churches and the courthouse. Dawn was breaking over the city on the trip back from the south side and showed strange sights on this flood swept thoroughfare. A baby buggy was left standing by itself in the center of the bridge, away from any obstruction. A few feet away was a Morris chair and heavy trunks. A boiler had been left on the bridge when the flood receded and a dead poker lay in the mud beside a pile of driftwood.

PUEBLO TO REBUILD

(Continued From Page One.) of looting in the flooded areas began to come in. The guards brought between fifteen and twenty men to military headquarters for questioning and investigation, but in almost every case it was found that the supposed ghoul was merely an ignorant, frightened Mexican, who homeless and forlorn, did not understand that shelter had been provided for him. Only one or two cases of actual looting have been brought to light since the military assumed control of the situation, according to Captain H. O. Nichols of Denver, adjutant. Today there will arrive from Denver, according to Colonel Hamrock, enough tents, bedding, cooking utensils and medical supplies to care for two thousand of Pueblo's homeless. Work of establishing a refugee camp at Mineral Palace park is also under way and all the flood sufferers being cared for in churches, school houses and other public buildings, will be removed to the camp. Planes to Aid. Also it is expected that during the day there will arrive from Dodge City, Kas., three army airplanes which will be used for observation and scouting purposes. Reports last night that the big D. and R. G. bridge at Buttes, Colo., had gone out for the second time are unverified. This morning on all roads leading into Pueblo mounted guards have been posted to stop and turn back all

HOLD STRAW VOTE ON AUSTRIA AND GERMAN UNION

VIENNA.—Three more provinces will imitate the Tyrol and hold sentimental referendums on the question of the fusion of Austria with Germany. Salzburg, Styria and Upper Austria have set May 25 as the tentative date for the ballot and it is believed that Carinthia also will fall into line. Voralberg, the westernmost of the states last summer voted practically unanimously to join Switzerland. The almost unanimous vote for fusion in the Tyrol on April 24 was a surprise even to the most ardent of fusionists. They had estimated an 80 to 90 per cent favorable ballot and it is conceded that the excess represented an element of those hard-headed mountaineers who voted simply because of the entente prohibition against the referendum. "The movement toward a union with Germany, born almost immediately after the creation of the republic, has grown steadily and these sporadic and independent referendums are the outgrowth of the failure of the effort to force the central government to defy the entente and order a nation-wide vote. According to foreign observers who have kept a watchful eye on the agitation there is no doubt that the total vote will show a heavy majority for the union. They do not share the belief professed by the opponents of the movement that if the vote actually meant action instead of a sentimental expression of opinion it would not carry. On the contrary they express the belief that it is a genuine and earnest thought and desire on the part of the mass of the people and say they are motivated by three controlling things. First is the firmly rooted conviction that Austria cannot survive politically or economically as an independent state. The economic arguments have been set before the world officially and unofficially for the past two years but the political phase of the matter was brought to a focus by the former Emperor Charles' recent attempt to regain the throne in Hungary.

STATE GAS TAX IS HELD VALID

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The state of New Mexico won in the supreme court today a partial victory in its fight to sustain the special tax on gasoline sales within its borders. The supreme court reversed a decree of the United States district court of New Mexico in favor of the Continental Oil company holding that the tax was unconstitutional on the ground that it was an interference with interstate commerce. The court affirmed a decision of the court of claims in the case brought by executors of the Alan H. Woodward estate, in Alabama, which held that the government erred in refusing to permit such a deduction from that estate's income for 1918.

ESTATE TAX MAY BE INCOME REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, June 6.—An estate tax is an "allowable deduction," from the income of an estate in computing next income, the supreme court ruled today. The court affirmed a decision of the court of claims in the case brought by executors of the Alan H. Woodward estate, in Alabama, which held that the government erred in refusing to permit such a deduction from that estate's income for 1918.

FOCH STRATEGY IS ADOPTED BY G. CARPENTIER

French Heavyweight Places Reliance on Defensive Tactics, Then Counter Attack—Dempsey Quits Boxing, Wound on Head Opened. MANHASSET, N. Y., June 6.—A battle campaign such as Georges Carpentier's illustrious countryman, Marshal Foch, might plan, is being carefully mapped out at the camp of the French boxer. First and last Dempsey's challenger, his manager, Francois Descamps, and Gustav Wilson are strategists. "After all," said Georges, "theory of military strategy may be boiled down to good use in a fight of this sort. Imagine, for instance, that Dempsey, my foe on July 2, is an opposing army, then remember that the Jersey City ring will indeed be the battle ground. "We are cognizant of the strength of the foe and that the battleground will be, you might say, familiar ground to us. You might say that the enemy is dangerous and that it will take something beside direct assault to defeat him. So it simmers down to a battle of speed, endurance and strategy. "Our scheme is to show more cleverness than the enemy and to throw our forces into the battle in such a manner that he will be unable to strike that direct and early blow that always spells defeat or launch at any time a telling attack."

RATE WAR IS ON TO JACKSONVILLE

War has broken out between the Jacksonville jitney and street car line and fares have been slashed. The jitney has adopted a fare of a dime to the county seat, one way, and if the street car line retaliates with a cut, the fare is liable to go to nothing. The street car started operating a week ago and a 25 cent round trip fare. It resumed operations at the behest of Jacksonville citizens, when the jitney line threatened to boost the fare a nickel. In 1919, during the unprecedented snow storm, the street car suspended operations for a day on account of the storm, and the indignant citizens, as a protest for being thus cut off from the world prevailed upon Lewis Bros to establish a jitney line.

SUTHERLIN ROAD ORDERED CLOSED

SALEM, Ore., June 6.—Because of construction work on the Pacific highway from Sutherlin south for about three miles the road has been closed, according to a report from the engineer received by the state highway department. Barricades and six-foot signs have been placed routing traffic by way of the county road, going one mile west from Sutherlin, and then two miles south to a junction with the highway. Rate Raise Denied. SALEM, Ore., June 4.—The public service commission has denied application of the Portland Gas and Coke company for authority to increase its service rates in Portland and environs. The company's petition was filed May 28, soon after the commission had issued an order decreasing gas service rates in Portland because of the reduction in the cost of oil to the company.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6.

Boxing gloves were laid on the shelf in Jack Dempsey's training camp today. All work with the gloves was ordered dropped from the training program for four or five days because of the ugly gash over the champion's left eye, which was opened yesterday in a windup of the hardest day's work he has indulged in since training was started here three weeks ago. The boxing was ordered dropped by physicians who stitched the wound last night. Dempsey will continue his road work, bag punching, shadow boxing and other training routine. The cut was first opened ten days ago when Dempsey's head collided with Jack Renault's, his sparring partner, during a mixup. It was healing nicely during the four days Dempsey laid off last week, but was ripped open yesterday when Larry Williams, an awkwardly attempting to evade a right hand punch butted the champion. Blood spurted out of the wound profusely. Martin Burke, the New Orleans heavyweight, after boxing two rounds yesterday says the champion had improved 100 per cent in boxing since they boxed together in a theatrical tour Burke made with Dempsey before he won the title.
