OBITUARY.

HALL—Died at Oakland, Calif., June 2nd, 1921, Juanita Carolyn Hall, beloved daughter of G. P. and S. J. Hall. A native of Vancouver, Wash., and for several years a resident of Table Rock, Ore. Aged 16 years and one day.

An Advertisement Helped Her Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin, but now she is as fat as ever." Sold everywhere. Adv.

A BRAVE MAN

EVERYONE admires courage. And courage—is rare. It was Bernard Shaw who said all men could be divided into two classes, cowards and liars,—the cowards told the truth, the liars, who proclaimed their fearlessness, didn't. And the author of "Candida" proceeded to show that not love, but fear made the world go round.

Therefore, a genuinely brave man in public life, deserves mention. And such a man is Governor Hugh M. Dorsey of Georgia. Governor Dorsey has started out to give the colored man in his state a square deal. It is, as far as we know, the first instance of a Southern Governor taking such a stand. Anyone with the slightest knowledge of race feeling in the south, knows that such action requires the highest and rarest quality of moral and physical courage.

The recent convictions of Georgia planters for murder and espionage were the result of Governor Dorsey's courageous leadership. Recently he published a "Black Book" which gives a circumstantial list of outrages and persecutions of negroes in some twenty-five counties in his state.

Naturally a storm of denunciation and abuse has broken over the Governor's head. He is called a "nigger governor," a corn fed demagogue, an inciter of bloodshed and rebellion, and threats of impeachment have been openly made.

But the Governor has stuck to his guns. More than that he has carried warfare into the enemies' camp. In reply to an attack by a certain Judge Seary of the Circuit Court, who was responsible for a flagrant case of negro persecution, the Governor said "If the negro in question was sent to the chain gang or fined one cent, the court houses of Georgia ought to be torn down."

And in spite of the tremendous obstacle of race hatred, which in any colored belt is such an overwhelming force, Governor Dorsey is gaining ground. His support naturally does not come from the colored population, for in such a crisis their support is negligible, but from the best white citizenship in the state, the men and women, who recognize that the treatment of the colored people in Georgia has been a scandal and disgrace, and are determined to purge the record, not so much for the sake of the colored people, as for the sake of their own state.

From this distance it doesn't seem possible that Governor Dorsey could win. But whether he wins or loses, his spirit like the spirit of John Brown, must go marching on. For he is eternally right, and eventually the right must prevail. Meanwhile, with hatred, discord and strife so prevalent throughout the world, there is an inspiration in the example of this strong hearted fearless man, which should be an unending inspiration to his country and to the world.

HELPFUL EXERCISE.

I USED to sit in pomp and state and took no exercise, and I achieved such grievous weight I pained the doctor's eyes. 'Twas very little grub I ate, my appetite unsound; but every bite increased my weight three quarters of a pound. And then I heard the doctor say, "You surely lard the earth; you'll have to walk twelve miles a day, and thus cut down your girth." So I put on my nine-league boots, and walked till I was lame, although I never cared three hoots for walking as a game.

NOTHING that we could say would so thoroughly convince you of the value of Chamberlain's Tablets as a personal trial. We can tell you of thousands who have been permanently cured of chronic constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver, but this will have little weight with you as compared to a personal trial. That always convinces.

Gorgeous Mt. Rainier. Mount Rainier (also called Mount Tacoma), Rainier National Park, Washington. Mount Rainier is 14,408 feet above the sea-level—the second highest mountain peak in the United States. It is the center of Rainier National Park, Washington—and is situated about seventy-five miles by road east of Tacoma. This remarkable mountain is of volcanic origin and is now crowned with snow and ice, having the most extensive glaciers to be found in the United States. The National Parks Highway leads directly from Tacoma to Rainier National Park, and at Longmire Springs—within the Park boundaries—is a Standard Oil service station ready to serve motorists with Red Crown Gasoline. Wherever you tour in Washington you will see the Red Crown sign on service stations and garages. It is the sign of quality in gasoline. STANDARD OIL COMPANY (California)

CONSERVATIVE IN POLICIES. A community bank serving all classes of people, must be both conservative in its policies, and modern in its methods. And its officers must be men well and favorably known. The First National Bank has for directors men of influence and standing who stand for the strictest observance of banking laws and the adoption of sane and matured policies.
