WASHINGTON SOCIETY LEADER AND "CHUM" OF MRS. HARDING HAS NO FEAR OF OCCULT TERRORS OF THE HOPE DIAMOND

Dazzling Gem Is Worn Fearlessly by Mrs. Edward B. McLean, Despite the "Jinx" That Has Marked Its Omnipotent History Through Many Years.

International News Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Hope diamond "jinx" has no terrors for Mrs. Edward B. McLean, Washington social leader and wife of the multimillionaire publisher of the Washington Post and Cincinnati Enquirer.

HOPE DIAMOND

Mrs. McLean, its present owner, continues to wear the gorgeous gem, apparently indifferent to the legends connecting the misdeeds and tragedies which have befallen its possessors in the past with some evil occult power supposed to be embodied in this wondrous diamond whose rays are so dazzling, they almost blind the eye.

The Hope diamond crowns a collection of jewels said to be one of the most wonderful in the world. When traveling, Mrs. McLean carries most of the collection with her. Her husband always employs a detective to accompany her and keep an eagle eye on her jewel treasures, for this young woman who has priceless diamonds and rubies and pearls "to burn," as her friends express it, is said to regard them as carelessly as if they were mere baubles.

It is no longer a shock to Washington to see her on a shopping tour, wearing the Hope diamond with a sports suit. She wears it almost constantly and with any sort of costume. Formerly she wore the famous stone at formal evening functions as the center of a jeweled diadem. She now wears it as a necklace pendant.

The natives of Point Isabel, the fishing village in Texas on the Mexican border where Mrs. McLean accompanied President and Mrs. Harding last November on the outing which "freshened" them for their entrance into the White House, still remember the "jeweled lady," who roughed it with a rope of costly pearls around her neck and wore gorgeous rubies to brighten her outing costume.

The present possessor of the Hope diamond and closest friend in Washington's social set of Mrs. Harding, the first lady of the land, is the daughter of a Colorado miner.

Oldtimers in Coney, Colo., recall the time when Evelyn Walsh played round the picturesque mining camp in pinafores and her father, "Tom" Walsh went to work every morning in a red flannel shirt and carrying a pick.

The Screen

At the Page. There are a couple of gasps and a blush or two in the picture at the Page theatre this week, and when "Fins" is flashed, we won't blame you if you open your handkerchief lightly to your eyes.

"Midsummer Madness" is the picturization of Cosmo Hamilton's society novel, "His Friend and His Wife." Mr. DeMille seems in this picture to have introduced a camera within the four walls of two typical American homes of the better sort. It is this true-to-life quality that gives "Midsummer Madness" its terrific punch and appeal.

At the Rio. "Reputation," a success fine direction and a splendid cast and there can be but one result. These are the ingredients which make up the position of companion triumphs in New York and Europe marked his path after he "struck it rich."

Elk Creek. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hutchinson visited friends in Trail Sunday afternoon.

A Banquet That Was Almost a Tragedy. "Three years ago at a banquet I was stricken with acute indigestion. Two doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like that. No doctors or medicine saved me permanent help until a friend who was at the banquet, advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results."
