LAST HONORS TO AMERICAN LEGION CHIEF

Tremendous Throng Gathers at Funeral of F. W. Galbraith in Cincinnati—Chateau Thierry, France Sends Message, Also Marshal Foch—Roosevelt Represents Govt.

CINCINNATI, June 11.—Every one of the more than 4,000 seats in Music Hall was filled long before the funeral services over the body of Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith, who was killed in an automobile accident in Indianapolis Wednesday night were held today.

For four hours before the services, thousands, heedless of the rain that fell at times, had sought Music Hall and filed past the bier of the dead soldier. There were men and women from every walk of life. Soldiers and ex-soldiers were numerous.

The services were simple. Orations were delivered by the Rev. John Herget, who was chaplain in the colonel's regiment in France; the Rev. Frederick N. McMillan, who saw service overseas as a chaplain; by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt who represented the federal government; by Victor Heintz, who was a captain on Colonel Galbraith's staff in France, and by Marcel Knecht, director of the French information service in the United States, who represented the French government. The choir of Calvary Episcopal church, of which the deceased was a member, sang "Lead Kindly Light," "Hark, Hark, My Soul," and two stanzas of "America." At the conclusion of these services, the Scottish Rite Masons conducted their impressive burial ceremonial.

The body, followed by one of the largest funeral corteges that ever passed through Cincinnati's streets, was subsequently taken to Spring Grove cemetery, where it was consigned to a vault preparatory to burial with high military honors in Arlington national cemetery in Washington.

Among the many messages of condolence received by Mrs. Galbraith today was the following from Marshal Foch of France: "I wish to express to the American Legion and Mrs. Galbraith my sentiments of heartfelt condolence and profound sympathy in the sorrow which has stricken them and in which France and the French army have lost such a noble friend."

CINCINNATI, June 11.—Since the funeral of General Joseph J. Hooker, of Civil war fame, which took place in the seventies there has not been such a military funeral cortege in this city as that following the services this afternoon over the body of Colonel F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion who was killed in an automobile accident in Indianapolis, Thursday morning.

Marion Knecht, French high commissioner to the United States, who was a close friend of the deceased soldier and Captain De Lavergne, air attaché of the French embassy at Washington, officially represented Ambassador Jules Jusserand. They arrived today accompanied by two French veterans who will carry the tri-color in the funeral procession.

Chateau Thierry Tribute. One of the most impressive of the hundreds of floral tributes was a palm bound with the tri-color which will be placed on the coffin. It is the tribute of the city of Chateau Thierry, France. With the palm will be a card bearing the inscription: "To one of our bravest liberators, from the city of Chateau Thierry."

Sec'y. of Navy Denby Revokes Sim's Leave Of Absence Abroad

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Rear Admiral Sims' leave of absence in England was revoked today by Secretary Denby and he was ordered to report at once to the secretary of the navy. Mr. Denby's action was taken without waiting for a reply from the officer to the secretary's cablegram asking whether he had been correctly quoted as attacking Sinn Fein sympathizers in the United States in a speech delivered in London this week. Admiral Sims had announced that he would sail for home from England June 15. He was granted leave of absence to go abroad to receive a degree from an English university. The naval secretary's telegram sent today to the officer said: "Remainder your leave revoked. You will return to the United States immediately and report in person to the secretary of the navy. Acknowledge."

George Kelly of the New York Nationals, who for a time threatened to compete with the American league slugger for round trips has been passed by "Frisch" Menzel of the Philadelphia Athletics, who this week raised his total to ten home runs.

The New York Americans lead the major aggregation for team totals of home runs with 34 for the season. The Philadelphia Athletics, in last place in the general team standing, have 32 four base hits to their credit, giving them second place in the slugging column.

JAPAN FOR OPEN DOOR IN CHINA

Charles Edward Russell Is Told By Jap Officials That American Policy Is Acceptable—If This Is True, Says Writer, Then War Between Two Countries Is Impossible.

BY CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL, Special Correspondent of the Mail Tribune.

TOKYO, June 11.—In seventy years Japan rose from nothing at all to a place at the Selectest Table of the Mightiest here below; from a handful of conical stabledunks to this vast fleet of steel merchantmen plowing so many seas. And this is the thing which has made most of the trouble, this same dazzling flight from the rear rank to the front; it started the brood of fantastic misgivings. Here was a nation which had taken gigantic strides. Suppose it should keep on striding? Seventy more years at this rate would make Japan the scowling menace of the world. It was a fear some thought to European trade in the Far East. Fear breeds aversion, aversion breeds fakes, and there you are.

Next, they are an easy people to imagine unpleasant things about, they are so devilishly unattractive. They go their way without conversational grace and looking servative, as if full of stratagems and spoils. Hence, for one example, the fixed, immovable conviction of all the outside world that Japan has a definite and depraved plan to swallow China and then attack the rest of us. But first absorb China. There are about 400,000,000 Chinese and (whatever you may have heard) only about 50,000,000 Japanese. The swallowing, therefore, would seem to be some job—the swordfish swallowing the whale—but not too much for dreamers of dreams that at long range view the Orient.

Baron Ijūin Interviewed. If any man in Japan or elsewhere ought to know all this it is Baron H. Ijūin, thirty years in the diplomatic service and most of his active varied life having been spent in China. From second deputy vice consul, or something like that, he rose by earned promotions to be minister to China, then ambassador to Italy, then member of the peace conference. In his long residence in China he studied and observed and connote so well that now he is become the first Japanese authority on things Chinese. I wished particularly to get his opinions on this world fish and whale business because for years he had been on the inside of Japan's policy about China, had carried it out and helped to frame it; therefore he was the first class judge. When the case was put up to him he made this significant response:

"In my almost thirty years of diplomatic service I have seen at close range some interesting events—the Sino-Japanese war, the Boxer uprising, the Russo-Japanese war, the Japanese campaign against German power. But in all that time I have never known a moment when the Japanese policy toward China showed any tendency to territorial aggrandizement.

"For example, the war with China did not originate in any desire or design of Japan to add a foot to her territory. Peking thought political conditions in Japan made the time ripe to seize Korea, totally disregarding China's treaty engagements with Japan. If China got Korea Japan's life would be in imminent danger. We fought for self-preservation.

As to Formosa. "At the end of the war, Formosa and the Liaotung peninsula were ceded to Japan, not because Japan was hungering for more land but because China was in such a state that a third power would have taken possession of these strategic points. Formosa in the hands of a big naval power would have made Japan's position in the Far East untenable; we acquired it for self defense. Similarly about Liaotung peninsula. T third power there would have menaced the security of China, Korea and Japan. The justice of this position was proved when the peninsula became Russian and the three eastern provinces of China were brought into the Russian sphere of influence.

The Russo-Japanese war, again, was brought about by the diplomatic muddling of the Chinese government, trying, as was its practice, to set one power against another. China allowed Russia to use Manchuria (a Chinese province) as a base of operations, from

Bank Bandits Escape With $4,500 in Cash And Cashier's Wife

SPOKANE, June 11.—After holding Clarence Ostrum, cashier of the Addy State bank at Addy, Wash., in Stevens county, and Mrs. Ostrum under guard from 12:30 this morning until 7:30, three gunmen robbed the vault of the bank of $4,500 and escaped in an automobile with Mr. and Mrs. Ostrum. The prisoners were liberated about four miles from Valley, Wash., and later were picked up by motorists who telephoned to the authorities and returned with them to Addy. Mr. and Mrs. Ostrum were captured as they were putting their automobile in a garage. They were held captive until the time lock on the bank vault released the bolts.

Y.W.C.A. DRIVE IN MEDFORD IS "OVER THE TOP"

$3000 Quota Secured in Brief Campaign—Number of Contributors Trebled—Thanks Extended to Those Who Gave Aid.

The Y. W. C. A. is over the top! The $3000 wanted is pledged and the Y. W. C. A. in its fuller program is assured for another year. The whole city is rejoicing that the campaign was carried to a successful issue and that the citizens have shown their belief in the girls' work to the extent of giving to the organization so cheerfully.

The Y. W. C. A. wishes to thank Mrs. H. G. Wortman, the chairman of the finance committee, and her committee; Mr. Mann, the chairman of the initial gift committee and his helpers; Mrs. Hubert Clark, chairman of the publicity committee, and her committee; Mrs. Coning Kenly and the Colony club; the captains and all the workers, especially Gladys Bridges and the other business girls, who in the short time they had in which to work, accomplished so much, and the public who put it "over the top." The Mail Tribune merits the keenest appreciation for their interest and assistance. The many stores who arranged the attractive Y. W. C. A. windows and those who donated advertising space have the hearty thanks of the Y. W. C. A.

The committee also wish to thank the Walker Auto Co., for allowing Y. W. C. A. headquarters to be in their building. In fact, Medford may well be proud of the way in which her citizens worked and gave, to put this campaign for the Y. W. C. A. over the top. It will be with keen regret, but pleasant memories that Miss Sarvey, the Y. W. C. A. worker from New York, will leave on Monday for the east.

HOME MADE STILL SEIZED IN ASHLAND, OWNER IS JAILED UNDER $5000 BONDS

ASHLAND, June 11.—A key with a suspicious mark inside, a teakettle, and a gallon or so of home brew fortified by more alcohol content than the law allows, were mute evidences of an illicit still discovered on the premises of Harry Ballenger, Southern Pacific switchman, at the family premises, 341 Mountain avenue. The find was made by the police department on Friday morning. Ballenger being arrested and jailed. At a preliminary hearing before Justice Gowdy, that official went the limit as to bail required, setting the amount at $5,000. In connection with this seizure a complete still equipment is lacking, notably the coil or "worm," which could not be found. This is

CARPENTERS WITHDRAW FROM A.F.L.

Delegates Representing Over 325,000 Workers File From the Denver Convention Hall When Suspension Measure Sustained—Sad Day for Labor Says Gompers.

DENVER, Colo., June 11.—Delegates of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, representing more than 325,000 workers, today withdrew from the convention of the Building Trades department of the American Federation of Labor when a resolution was adopted suspending any international union that failed to comply with the awards of the national board of jurisdictional awards.

The resolution which was adopted after a stormy debate, was directed at the carpenters union, because of its refusal to comply with the award rendered against it by the board in its jurisdictional dispute with the sheet metal workers union.

Previous to the adoption of the resolution the convention indorsed the work of the national board which was organized for the purpose of preventing, through arbitration, the tying up of the building industry through jurisdictional and inter-union disputes. The carpenters' delegation cast the only votes against the approval of the board's work.

Motion for the suspension of unions defying the edicts of the board was presented by William B. Wren, of New York, president of the International Union of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers. It was adopted by a vote of 31 to 25.

Carpenters File Out. "Does that mean that the carpenters are suspended?" asked President William L. Hutchinson of the carpenters, who had led a bitter fight on the floor against the board.

"Yes, if they do not comply with the board's decision," replied President John Donlin, president of the department, who had recommended that drastic action be taken upholding the board.

"All right, we are out," retorted Hutchinson as he left the auditorium accompanied by the other members of his delegation. The other convention then turned to other business.

"Nothing sadder has come to my attention in a considerable time than what I have witnessed today," said President Samuel Gompers of the federation, in an address to the convention, following the withdrawal of the carpenters.

"I ask you to think for yourselves for a moment now," he added, "what will be the course pursued by the enemies of labor? What will there be flung to the winds in America as to the result in this convention. It will make our fight all the more difficult; it will not bring courage or encouragement to the great masses of the organization, and it will not bring hope or encouragement to the organization of a possible united labor movement.

"I am deeply and profoundly sorry, I would not be true to you, I would not be true to the labor movement of our country, and I would not be true to myself, did I not express myself as I have done."

Forget Human Element. The labor leader said that the arguments on both side were convincing, lucid and intelligent but he said the an important adjunct in the distillation process, and search is being made for the "missing link" both literally and figuratively. The mash recovered had an odor voltage sufficient to paralyze a camel at forty rods. Several sporting periodicals are making a specialty of advertising stills to be used ostensibly for distilling water for household purposes, but the equipment confiscated on this occasion was so simple and crude that it bore no earmarks of having been manufactured for the trade in general. Ballenger was sentenced Friday to a fine of $200 and costs and six months in jail, but the jail sentence was remitted during good behavior.
