

DEMPSEY QUILTS TRAINING, SPORT WORLD AMAZED

Heavyweight Champ's Camp Closed Up and Public Excluded—Kearns Offers No Explanation—Carpentier Is Starting Work in Earnest.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13.—All training activities in Jack Dempsey's camp were dropped today. The world's champion will rest completely, for he may not resume work until Wednesday. The public will not be admitted to the camp in the meantime, Jack Kearns, manager of the titleholder, announced. The sudden switch in training plans caused considerable stir, but Manager Kearns offered no explanation. Camp followers were of the opinion, however, that Dempsey already has reached the peak of his training and could get himself on edge within ten days if necessary for the defense of his title. It also was generally accepted that the tenderness of the wound over his left eye is causing considerable alarm and no chance will be taken to risk the danger of re-opening the cut.

Dempsey, who laid off Saturday, worked for thirty-five minutes yesterday only because he did not want to disappoint the Sunday crowd which turned out. The champion went through the usual bag punching, shadow boxing and exercises. He worked with great speed and drive to his punches.

Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia lightweight, saw Dempsey working for the first time yesterday and predicted an early victory for him in the coming bout.

"If Carpentier lasts beyond the third round, I'll be the most surprised man in the arena," said Tendler.

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 13.—The loading sign at Georges Carpentier's training camp gave way to one which read "hard work will beat Dempsey." The challenger began the hardest week of training with a long workout in the woods this morning and then came back for a bountiful lunch and prepared to take on several sparring partners.

Georges probably will work hard every day this week and it is known that he will spar more than has been the custom in the past three weeks. He will work in public but two days, today and Thursday, but a lot of friends and acquaintances have been coming on the "off days."

HAND REMATCHED WITH THE HINDU

Basanta Singh, the Hindu who shocked Gold Hill by rudely flipping Ralph Hand after he had lost the first fall in 45 minutes, will try it again next Friday night. The pair have been matched again on a 4500 side bet basis and from all indications the fur will fly. The biggest crowd that ever saw an athletic event in southern Oregon ought to be on hand. The match will be held at the Gold Hill pavilion, under the auspices of the Gold Hill Boxing commission.

Hand has been matched to wrestle Ted Thye at Cottage Grove, July 4 for a $1500 purse to a finish, but if he loses this match he will not be able to take on Thye.

woman on the porch. I called the Kaber home on the telephone and Marian McArdle, the daughter, answered that she could not discuss the matter over the telephone, but asked me to meet her with the two men. That afternoon, Friday, Marian, Tony, Sam and I met on a street corner in the east end.
"Marian said: 'Come out tonight and you'll find everything ready.' We then discussed new plans. It was decided that the men were to hide and that Marian was to make the rounds upstairs. When everything was ready and the house quiet she was to drop some water from an upstairs window so that it would strike the ground near a casement window.
"The next morning I read of the murder in the newspapers."

RED MEN HOLD A NOVEL CEREMONY NEAR BIG BUTTE

A novel and enjoyable ceremony was held last Saturday night in a grove north of the city across from the Big Butte bridge by which Weatonka Tribe, No. 1, Improved Order of Red Men, of this city, conferred the adoption degree on a class of 25 pale-faces. About 140 members were present including Red Men from all parts of the Rogue River valley and northern California points. After the ceremonies the redskins feasted on mulligan stew prepared by P. C. Big-ham.

Weatonka's degree team, one of the best in the state, put on the work under the direction of Frank E. Martin district deputy great sachem of the reservation of Oregon. The grove was illuminated by electric lights, and searchlights and other novel effects added to the attractiveness and weirdness of the scene. The committee in charge consisted of Victor Huston, Victor Danielson, Howard Raymond, Walter Steel and Ralph Watson.

Weatonka Tribe owns its wigwam which is all paid for, and has money on interest. The tribe is contemplating building an addition to its present home in the near future to make more room for the increase in membership.

noon and returned to the house and bought dinner for 50 cents. He stayed in the barn on the Stack place overnight without the family knowing of his presence, and in the morning started south toward Kelso.

He ate dinner at the Liberty restaurant at Kelso and bought a newspaper at a news stand, then going to the river bank sat down and read the story of his escape. Fearing to go into town he went back up the tracks and was a short distance outside the city when he was captured.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Details of the escape of Roy Gardner mail bandit and N. H. Pyron convicted counterfeit, from their custody near Castle Rock, Wash., early last Saturday morning were related by United States Deputy Marshal Thomas F. Mulhall and Federal Guard D. W. Rinckle, who returned to San Francisco late last night.

"We left Portland about 11 o'clock Friday night and the porter came to make the berth about midnight," said Mulhall.

"We moved Gardner and Pyron to the smoking room and then moved them back. Pyron was put to bed first. We put leg irons on him and put him in an upper berth.
"Gardner asked to wash his hands and we took him to a basin in the corner of our drawing room. He was leaning over the basin, with one right in back of him. Quick as lightning he swung around. He had whipped out a pistol from beneath his clothing and had me covered. 'Stick up your hands,' he said, talking quickly, as if excited. 'Now Gardner, what's the use of trying to scare me?' I asked.

Gardner Too Quick.
"Stick 'em up," he said. I saw he meant business and I did. Rinckle made a rush at him, but Gardner was too quick. With the cleverest move I ever saw, he got my gun and backed into a corner, where he could cover us both and be safe from attack.

"Pyron jumped down from his berth to the floor and Gardner told him to search us for keys. He found them in the first pocket he went into and freed himself and then Gardner. Gardner took off the Oregon boot, covering us all the time with both guns.

"He then told Pyron to handcuff us. This Pyron did, putting us face to face and he clinched the handcuffs very tight. Pyron then demanded Rinckle's gun. Rinckle said he had none, but Pyron found it in a satchel.

"Gardner gave my gun to Pyron and ordered us, under penalty of death, to be still. He made me sit on the edge of the berth and fastened the Oregon boot on me. Another part was fastened to some pipes so that we were handcuffed, booted and chained to the car. He twisted my leg so that it hurt and when I complained he said he would unfasten it before he left. They then searched for money. Gardner took my purse with $30 in it from one pocket. Pyron took Rinckle's roll of $120 and told Gardner to go back for Pyron's purse of $40 in my pocket.

"What are we going to get breakfast with? I asked Gardner and he threw down a five dollar bill. Then he unfastened the boot from my leg and made us promise to be quiet for twenty minutes. He said he would leave the handcuff keys in the wash room. We joked with him as best we could asking him what way he was going and telling him he would have to hurry to get over the line.
Gardner Returns Gun.
"I'll get over the line alright," he said, "and you'll hear from me pretty soon. I'll pull a big job that everybody will hear about." We talked this way for about twenty minutes and when the train slowed down for Castle Rock he pulled down the shade so nobody could see us in the car. He then raised a window and backed out of it, never once taking the guns off us. When he dropped outside he opened his gun, threw out the cartridges and tossed it at us.
"Here's a souvenir," he said, "the gun you got stuck up with."

Pyron, according to Mulhall, dove headfirst through the car window. Gardner before he left showed Mulhall and Rinckle where he had concealed the gun with which he held them up.
According to Mulhall it had been sewn into a pocket in front of his undershirt. Gardner said the gun was given him at the county jail in San Francisco. It was a .22 caliber cylinder type weapon and nearly new.

FIRST ASHLAND LAD TO FALL IN FRANCE BURIED WITH HONORS

ASHLAND, June 13.—The first Ashland soldier boy to be killed in action in France, was buried on Sunday, in Mountain View cemetery, with semi-military honors. His name was Phillip R. Trefren, and he lost his life in the Vosges district, Sept. 16, 1918, having been a member of the 169th infantry. Phil was 29 years of age. He was a native of Nebraska, growing up in manhood in this vicinity, having resided in various sections of Jackson county. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Trefren, of Butte Falls. Anticipating his draft number, he enlisted June 13, 1918, and at Camp Lewis was assigned to Co. D of the regiment aforementioned. He landed in France in August and lost his life in September—enlistment, ocean voyage, and the final summons, all occurring within a few brief months.

Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. F. Koehler, the remains having reached Ashland the Friday previous from overseas. The local post of the American Legion had charge of arrangements, and the body found its last resting place in the presence of sorrowing relatives, sympathizing friends, and fraternal comrades. Other Ashland soldier boys have died in the service both at home and abroad, stricken by illness, with due homage of respect being paid to their memory, but the circumstances in this case seemed to add to the solemnity of the funeral rites, and if mourning was more in evidence it was due to the fact that the tragedies of the great world struggle were again reflected in the passing of this young soldier, a loving son and brother, genial companion and friend. In addition to his parents, he leaves five brothers and three sisters.

On Tuesday evening, June 14, the annual Flag Day exercises will be observed at Elks temple. This year the American Legion will participate, and at 7:30 Ashland Post No. 14, will meet at the park entrance, preliminary to marching to Elks headquarters, where not only legion members but also all ex-service men are cordially invited to join in the ceremonies.

Another chapter is about to be written in Ashland's hotel history, and this relates to a change in the management of "The Austin," erstwhile known as the old familiar "Oregon." Landlord Chisholm will relinquish present quarters on or about June 25, having a position at Crater Lake lodge under the management of Carl Tongwald, formerly of The Holland at Medford. Olaf Hanson, major domo, will follow in Chisholm's footsteps. Chisholm was here once before, leaving the Austin to go to Salem, but returned to Ashland about eight months ago, resuming the hotel management locally. In the meantime the Austin's dining annex has been closed, compelling Evangelist Hulgin, now holding a series of enthusiastic revival meetings in Ashland, to go clear to Hotel Medford for breakfast, though the daily of that metropolis does not state where the genial doctor partakes of luncheon and dinner.

Five company entrains on Tuesday for Fort Stevens, where a fortnight or more of employment at "hard labor," awaits the boys, interspersed with all the features which go toward affording an ideal outing by the seashore. If the organization does not go fully 100 per cent strong, it will be so near that classification that its record in this particular will rank as A No. 1.

stantly decreasing vigor and effect and that their momentum of three months ago has been dissipated."

The report demands labor call a halt on dissection within its ranks.
"When labor is confronted by an enemy such as it has never been called upon to meet and overcome in the past two decades, it seems to us," says the executive council in the report, "that we should all for ourselves as well as jointly call a halt at least to the unnecessary and unwarranted jurisdictional claims and conflicts and devote ourselves wholeheartedly to the work in hand."

The report urges co-operative labor banks, credit unions and other co-operative enterprises as a curb to profiteering.

convention call upon the president to take the initiative or co-operate with other nations to bring about universal disarmament.

"The working people, the masses in the world population, can end wars if they have the independence to think and to give their convictions reality by daring to do," says the report.

The report reiterates the federation's stand for Japanese exclusion and land laws, charging that a national anti-labor organization is engaged in a campaign to amend the Chinese exclusion act to permit importation of Chinese labor. It touches on the danger of war with Japan and expresses confidence that the Japanese workers are as anxious as American labor for friendly relations.

The report puts the federation on record against the proposed department of public welfare sponsored by President Harding, declaring it will weaken the department of labor. It announces labor's opposition to a sales tax, other new taxes.

AUDITORIUM, DENVER, Col., June 13.—Appeal for a closer alliance between the organized industrial workers and the farmers of the country was made by President Samuel Gompers today in addressing the opening session of the forty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"Men in industry and in agriculture, he said, 'must have a closer alliance to see to it that they shall not be crushed by captains of industry and princes of finance.'"

The veteran labor leader warned that the same interests that are promoting the alleged anti-union drive in this country are trying to drive back the farmers from the position they have attained in the last few years.

He urged co-operation in opposing "the movement being made to wipe out the department of labor and destroy the department of agriculture."

More than 500 delegates were seated in the convention hall when the session was opened, making it one of the largest labor gatherings ever held in the history of the federation.

It is not bolshevism but bourbonism that is the danger in the United States today, former Representative Edward Keating of Colorado told the convention today.

"Bourbonism, drunk on war profits, is the menace," Mr. Keating declared. "I don't believe there are enough honest to God bolsheviks in this country to break up a picnic of the mouldier union."

The convention was opened by an address of welcome by Mayor Dewey C. Bailey and by Oliver H. Shoup of Colorado.

ASSESSOR COLEMAN FORUM SPEAKER

A subject of vital interest to every taxpayer of Jackson county will be presented by the County Assessor, J. R. Coleman, at the forum of the Medford Chamber of Commerce next Wednesday noon at the Medford hotel.

Classification and revaluation of certain taxable properties, if they are not taxed in just proportion, should be revised. County Assessor Coleman believes he has certain information that the general public should know about. He presented certain facts relative to taxation to the Grand Jury, members of which suggested to the forum committee that he be asked to bring these facts before the members of the Chamber of Commerce, therefore, it is considered highly important that taxpayers attend the forum and be advised of a situation which may mean a good deal in dollars and cents to them.

1ST ANNIVERSARY SERMON DELIVERED BY REV. F. R. LEACH

Sunday morning, Rev. F. R. Leach preached his first anniversary sermon as pastor of the First Baptist church. When Rev. Leach came to the Baptist church one year ago he found conditions somewhat discouraging in many ways, but with a vigorous, strong and united pull on the part of Mr. Leach and the church membership the year just closed was one of the best in the history of the church. In every department of the church there has been marked growth. In the calling of Mr. A. Andrew Walker as musical director, the church took a strong advance in its musical program. The work of the choir has drawn much favorable comment from strangers as well as from the community. The congregations have also shown marked growth. During the year 100 new members have been added to the church from the regular activities of the church with no special meetings, the largest with one exception in the history of the church. Sunday 25 united with the church by baptism in addition to the one hundred. The membership is united and planning for larger things for the year to come. Rev. Leach spoke Sunday morning on "What Constitutes a Successful Church," pointing out that a church is not successful because it has the most costly church edifice; the best preaching, or the best music, nor is it successful because it includes in its membership the leading social people of the community. Those who stand highest in society, said the speaker, do not necessarily stand highest before God. Social standing, however, if consecrated adds to the usefulness of the church. Mere numbers do not make for success. The real question is how many of the members are consecrated to God, and are covenant keeping people. A church to be strong must be founded on the word of God. The character of its members also indicate strength or weakness. A single unworthy member can do more harm than twenty consistent members can do good. A church which lives right will have the respect and confidence of the community. A strong church will also possess an aggressive, evangelistic, missionary spirit. It will be unified and energized with the Christ spirit. A large audience was present.

Home-made ice cream — can anything be more delicious?

Easy to make with Carnation Milk

Four cups Carnation Milk, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1 cup water, 1 1/2 tablespoons vanilla. Carnation Milk is always ideal for making ice creams of any sort, because of its purity and richness. Eggs are not needed. For a plain vanilla ice cream, mix the sugar and a cup of the Carnation Milk together and let come to a simmering point; cook for five minutes in this manner; remove from fire; when cool, add remainder of the milk and water, and the vanilla. Freeze. This will make about a quart and a half.

This summer, try making more frozen desserts at home. They are so delightful for warm weather eating, and so much more pleasant to make than cooking hot dishes.
