EX-MEDFORDITES' GOAT INSPIRATION FOR CALIFORNIA

BERKELEY, Calif., (Special)—"My goat that used to live on Grape Street in Medford, and was the inspiration for many high school jokes, was the inspiration for me to go into the Pure Blood Milk Goat business," said P. E. Baker, who was principal of the Medford high school during the years of 1918 and 1919.

"I find that I can carry on this business with school work just fine, and you ought to see the new pure blood I bought down in Sacramento. Why, he cost me $300.

"You know down where I'm teaching Mrs. Baker and I run a regular little ranch with our home.

Mr. Baker has accepted the principalship of the Princeton high school in California for the second year. Here ten rural districts are united to support this one high school and the assessed valuation is five and a half million.

Mr. Baker says such a notice of income makes it possible for the high school to take up many interesting projects.

Also the school is taking advantage of the Smith-Hughes bill and are opening up an agricultural department in the high school since Mr. Baker has been there.

Mr. Baker is spending the summer in Berkeley and looking for teachers for the coming year.

He says that Mr. McReynolds, former commercial teacher in Medford and orchestra director in the high school has been elected to the position of instructor of all wood and string instruments in the Princeton high school.

If Mr. McReynolds accepts this position he will give individual lessons to students during school hours.

This is also a new department added since Mr. Baker has been the principal.

Little Lorna Baker will attend the University play school this summer.

SIGNOR TITTONI AS U. S. VISITOR TO AVOID LEAGUE

ROME, June 19.—The president of the Italian senate, Signor Tommaso Tittoni, several times minister for foreign affairs, will leave for America soon to deliver some lectures at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass.

Speaking of his plans, Senator Tittoni said: "In my lectures I shall not touch upon the question of the League of nations, unless other lecturers speak about it. Even then it would be my object to avoid propaganda. The league being a question, which divides the two great political parties in the United States, I might easily be misunderstood and wound American susceptibilities, as I might have the appearance of interfering in an internal controversy of the country giving me hospitality.

"This, however, will not prevent me from discussing the matter in private conversations, the more so, since having participated in the work of the League of Nations, and having seen at close quarters its mechanism in action, I formed a clear conception of its deficiencies and of the reforms which it would be well to introduce into it, reforms which, in my opinion would fully satisfy the American point of view."

"Both Premier Giolitti and Count Storni, minister of foreign affairs, urged me to go to the states, as from my lectures a better knowledge of Italy may be brought about, but I shall have no official mission from the Italian to the American government, as our distinguished ambassador, Senator Rolandi Ricci, deals with the utmost competence with the questions interesting the two countries.

"I shall therefore, remain in America only the time required for my lectures, returning to Italy in August."

RUSSIANS WILD WITH JOY WHEN FOOD ARRIVES

RIGA, June 20.—Honors such as are usually accorded to royalty or to officials of high rank were given the Dutch steamer Alexander Polden when she arrived at Petrograd recently, says the newspaper Investita of Moscow. The steamer brought the first large cargo of food that has entered the harbor for about three years and as she passed Kronstadt she was saluted by the battleship Marat, while Russian sailors lined the docks and cheered.

With years of starvation behind them dock workers by day and night, unloaded 5530 barrels of the ship's cargo of herring so swiftly that the next day twenty carloads of herring were despatched to Moscow while the rest was left for distribution in Petrograd.

Since the Alexander Polden made port, two more steamers have arrived at Petrograd carrying 17,000 barrels of herring, which were quickly unloaded.

Ring Sketches of Bygone Years

There was great little boxing in the heavy-weight championship bout between Jack Johnson and Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, at Las Vegas, New Mexico, on the fourth of July, 1912.

Flann attacked Johnson somewhat after the manner of a bull charging a bohemian banner, Johnson devoted most of his energy to holding Flynn's arms, like a Hechik person defending himself from a playful comrade. The police stopped the performance in the ninth round. The referee awarded his decision to Johnson, as he had had the upper hand during those sporadic periods when it appeared that a boxing bout was taking place.

Flann was a physical character, but it was of a strong build. Now and then he would run his bare into the pit of Johnson's stomach.

Johnson complained that Flynn was behaving like a bull-rung and Flynn called the referee's attention to the manner in which Johnson was holding him.

In the ninth round the challenger became extremely puffed when Johnson grabbed his arms and clinched tightly. On the break he lowered his head and bore in for all the was worth, but Johnson, in the body and then jabbing up and crashing his head against Johnson's face.

It was then that the referee called a halt.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

Among the business callers not mentioned in my list was E. V. Britton and Mrs. G. P. Priddy. Mrs. G. P. Priddy returned to Medford to meet her daughter and grand child, who came up from California to spend the summer in our delightful climate and to avoid the sweltering heat of her home climate. G. W. Garrett and his brother W. O. Garrett of Brownboro were visitors to our town. They have leased the Charlie Terrill farm a short distance above Brownboro and were here having some blacksmithing done. Frank Coster of Brown Creek was also present on the blacksmith the same day. W. H. Bushnick of Portland came in and spent the night and a part of the next day. He is an old civil war veteran and is very much interested in the Agate industry and while his home is in Portland he spends his winters in the soldier's home near Los Angeles and in making his regular trips each fall and spring, generally spends a few days at the Sunnyside hotel and winter here, spends his time gathering the Agate, but this time he said that there was so much green vegetation that it was very difficult to find them. He does not seem to care for the commercial value of them, but has them out and mounted for the satisfaction of looking at them and occasionally gives them away to his friends. W. W. Haas of Oakland, Calif., was also a guest at the Sunnyside hotel during the week at the Sunnyside hotel. Robert B. Warner, one of the clerks in the Ashland postoffice and W. E. Bolton, also of Ashland were here for dinner. Miss Inez Willis of Persist and her little niece, Miss Dorothy Willis, daughter of the late Roy Willis, came out Thursday morning on the Eagle Point-Persist stage and went on to Astoria on the Eagle Point-Medford stage. Jeff Conover, A. M. Gay and Ed Spencer started Thursday afternoon to the headwaters of the South Umpqua river to develop a sulphur mine that has been discovered and only partially developed. Their plan is to open it up so that they can show what they have and by that means induce capitalists to invest money and thus bring it to the market. It is located about eight miles from any wagon road, but if the sulphur proves as good as the samples they have brought out it will probably mean something to Southern Oregon. F. L. Leades representing the meat house, Seattle, Wash., and A. M. Wiswell, representing Security Remedy Co., Minnesota, were here for dinner Thursday. Two men came in Thursday evening for the night. They had their hair being machine alone, and were on their way to Green Matthews. As I was on the sick list Thursday and Friday and was confined to the house, I did not gather very many Eaglelets during the two days. O. O. Winfield of Hill, Calif., came in and spent the day with friends in town. Mrs. Denton, one of our newly made citizens from town, returned to Medford about the middle of the week. Mr. E. H. Hurd and Mr. G. W. Lammach, representing the farm loan, were here for dinner Thursday. They came out to set an appraisement on some land in this neighborhood. A man who is hauling wood for R. B. Pierce, who had the contract with Frank Rhodes to clear the right-of-way and do the grading on the unit between Hog Creek and where the new bridge will span Rogue river, has been hauling in a lot of wood for some of our citizens and taking his dinner at the Sunnyside. A. G. Spence of Brownboro was a business caller. He reports that they had a terrific hail and rain storm at his place about the middle of the week. Charles Gillette of Ashland and Mr. Phearson, the former who has charge of the rock work for Wm. von der Hellen, the contractor for placing the crushed rock on the Crater Lake highway between the David Gingenau place on Antelope Creek and Trail. Mr. von der Hellen is now fixing up his camp on Butte Creek where he is putting up a rock crusher and preparing to bring the electricity from the main line on the west side of Rogue river. He is rushing his work and expects to have the crusher in operation in a short time. He will use the stones out of the bed of the creek and by the time they are crushed, will be fine material to make a good road bed. G. Mitchell, a man who has had charge of the horses on the unit between the Rogue River bridge and Trail for Wm. von der Hellen, brought out the last of the horses that they have been using on the work and turned them over to the owner, Charles Deily. The reader will excuse a little brevity in my letter today, as I am getting tired and will stop for this time.
