

MANY TEACHERS ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL ASHLAND

ASHLAND, June 22.—About 75 teachers, representing the districts throughout the state, are here for the summer school, which, beginning on Tuesday, for a session of six weeks, affords regular normal courses, such as are taught at Monmouth; in fact, the school is an extension of the Oregon Normal classes meet in the local high school building, with G. A. Hines, Ashland superintendent, in charge of the sessions. This extension course had its inception a year ago, and especially during the past winter were arrangements under way perfecting the plans and providing lodgings for the students. The unit of six tent cottages in the park help materially in this respect. The summer school having been established here through the efforts of the chamber of commerce, it was the logical thing to do for that organization to finance the project, which it has done to the extent of an appropriation of $5000 from its permanent budget. It is confidently expected, however, that tuition will, in the main, provide for the expense of the school, and if so, the substantial apportionment will be available for various other enterprises for which the Chamber of Commerce stands sponsor. Practical educational advantages afforded cover a wide scope, including methods in arithmetic, reading, geography, language, etc., for primary, intermediate and grammar grades, also educational measurements, psychology, and rural school problems. Physical training and public school music are additional privileges available. Both "work and play" will be mixed in the right proportions. In other words, if studies prove arduous, the hours of relaxation will be correspondingly pleasurable in the midst of an ideal environment implying a typical summer outing.

J. W. McCoy, cashier of the First National bank, left early in the week, accompanied by his daughters, Margaret and Frances, to join Mrs. McCoy, who for several weeks past has been having a change of scene from mountain to sea level. The family car was taken along, and there will be a series of delightful motoring tours throughout central California, with San Francisco as a center of radiation.

The patrol of Hillah Temple will attend the Shrine contingent to the picnic on the fourth. Although Captain Chapman of Jacksonville, is away at military camp, and First Lieutenant Tongwald of Medford, has gone to San Francisco to be married, there still remains Second Lieutenant Luom, of Grants Pass, who as third ranking officer is capable of marshaling the forces, and in the event his superior officers don't return in time to participate, will lead the procession anyway.

Among students at home from state university for the vacation are Jack Brady and Dwight Gregg. Miss Helen Kinney of Oakland, Cal., is here for a summer vacation with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kinney.

The two "E's" Buchanan and Billings, were elected representatives on the school board last Friday.

M. W. Odell of Vancouver, Wash., has been an interested observer of Ashland surroundings of late, especially about the park in which he and his family camped during the past week or two.

Miss Gertrude Ezule, teacher at Oakland, Cal., has been enjoying the vacation season by a series of tours, beginning at Lake Tahoe and extending as far as Yellowstone Park, also including the Yosemite region.

The children's playgrounds in the park are scenes of joyousness these fine days, with all sorts of games, physical training and amusements for the youngsters, under the eye of a matron, who is ever watchful over the interests of the little folks. Baseball and volleyball are in order for those inclined, from 10 to 12, while lessons in swimming are available free of charge from 1:30 to 5. The city, through its park commission, bears the major expense, and considers it a good investment. The only discordant note is an occasional whine from some hypochondriac to the effect that these playgrounds, in rounding up the kids, afford their overworked mamma more opportunities in which to engage in the bridge and social hour pantings.

The two separate units of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society indulge in friendly rivalry over missionary aid matters. Denominated the blues and the pinks, contests are engaged in, the losers to entertain the winners in a series of picnics and other forms of entertainment.

Editor Greer of the Tidings is expected to return from Burbank, Cal., on or about July 1, accompanied by his family, and they will remain here during the summer at their elegant home on upper Granite street overlooking the park.

Bob Goodyear, of the vicinity of San Francisco, who is summering here with his family, and is stopping with his mother on Church street, is making the old familiar prelates blossom like the rose, to such an extent has he cultivated the vegetable and flower patches, not to mention the well-kept lawn.

The telephone company has been entering a big ad in several papers, large type heading the query, "How much time do you lose?" It all depends. On occasions considerable time is lost in waiting on central, for instance.

Siskiyon chapter, Royal Arch Masons, will confer the Royal Arch degree on Thursday evening this week, and Ashland Lodge No. 23 holds a third degree session on Friday evening.

R. H. Lockwood of Shelton, Wash., has bought the Lithia Bakery from R. C. Jorgensen, and will extend the industry insofar as supplying wholesale as well as retail demands. He believes that every single loaf consumed in Ashland should be baked by the home institutions.

Mrs. Jessie Rondeau, visiting here from California, has sold her home premises on Fairview street to N. E. Nordstrom, a newcomer from Montana.

Z. Moody is preparing to build a fine new home on Mangonia street. Zenas, Jr., of Portland, has been here of late inspecting plans and specifications of the parental domicile.

The local chapter, D. A. R., is adopting ways and means looking to the installation of a substantial and appropriate marker for the Old South Road, in order that those who run, or rather speed, may read.

H. G. Wolcott has bought the grocery store of Wm. Hobbs in the depot section.

LOCAL COMPANY IN HIGH SPIRITS GOOD SCORE MADE

CAMP LEWIS, Wash., June 20.—(Special.) After the usual flurry and excitement, Co. A has buckled into army work with its usual pep and vigor. Due to a blunder, probably of the regular army, Co. A, and other Oregon companies, are scattered about in various parts of camp.

Seven companies including Co. A are encamped on the extreme western end of Oregon avenue, while the remainder of the O. N. G. is scattered from 9th street to 16th on California avenue, about a mile apart. Co. A is well satisfied with their quarters being located in one of the few shady spots in the barracks area.

After two days close order drill the company went on the rifle range, and as usual made as good if not the best record of any company in the regiment. The best score made in our organization was made by Acting Corporal Fredricks with a score of 18 out of a possible 20, while two others made scores of 17. Saturday morning was spent in kit inspection and use of field equipment. At noon Saturday 50 per cent of the company were granted leave until taps Sunday evening. Most of the members took advantage of the leave to visit Seattle, Tacoma and other points of interest.

All members of the company are in high spirits and are working with determination to win their share of the medals and trophies offered as prizes for rifle firing, competitive drill, etc. There is no sickness in the company, and due to the excellent mess prepared by Cooks Iverson and Reynolds under the supervision of Mess Sergeant Terrill, most of the men are gaining weight in spite of the strenuous training they are receiving.

W. S. Hart in Big Role
William S. Hart's latest picture of the west, "O'Malley of the Mounted," will be the feature attraction at the Rialto theatre today and the remainder of the week. The role of O'Malley is said to be one of the strongest character portrayals with which Mr. Hart has favored his followers in many months. Thrills and clever incident abound throughout the action of this virile photoplay. The star appears as one of the Mounted—the inexorable law of which is, Get Your Man! He hits upon the idea of robbing a bank to gain membership in a gang of outlaws, so that he can capture the man he wants for murder. But he is discovered in sending the money back and accused of treachery. He is forced to battle for a girl's honor—the girl being the sister of the alleged murderer.

She saves O'Malley from the outlaws and together they make a thrilling escape. It is then that the mounted policeman learns that the murder was justifiable. So he conducted them to the boundary line and permitted them their freedom, while he returned to the post and resigned. His resignation was decided upon when he found himself in love with the girl. The picture is graphic in action and is highly interesting. The star is supported by Eva Novak, Antrim Short and others.

"What's Worth While?"
If you were asked "What's worth while?" what would your answer be? In a vague sort of way you have at ways told yourself that you know, but the chances are that you have never given the subject serious thought.

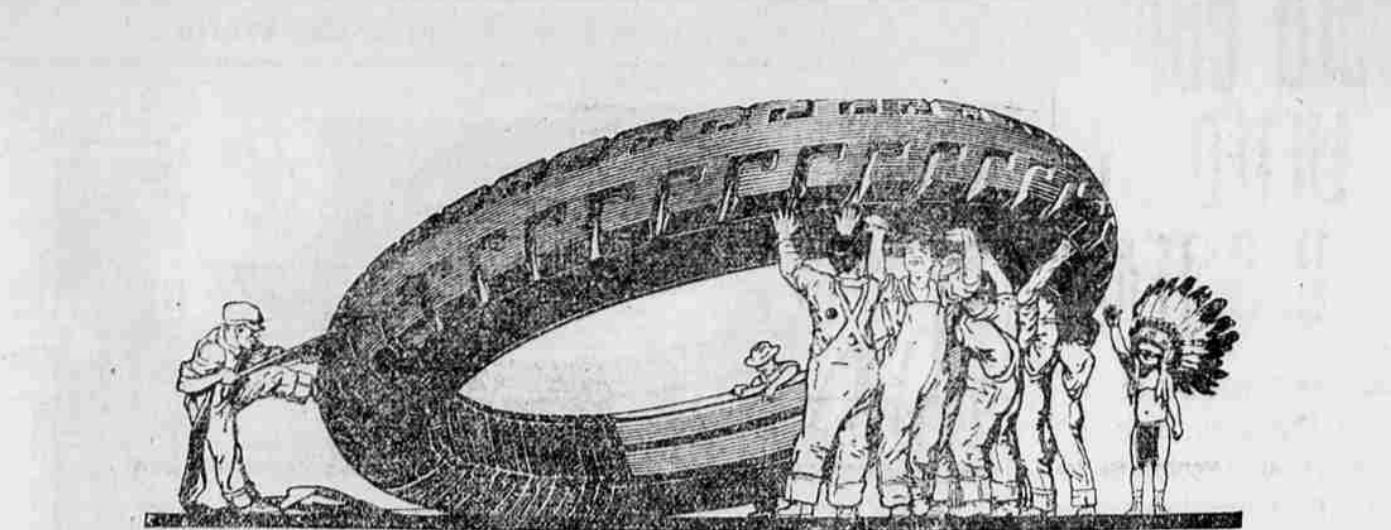

If you were to keep that thought "What's Worth While" before you, dissect it and then practise it, you'd never have cause to say "I'm sure un-lucky," and when your day's work is over you would know it had been conscientiously done and your night's sleep would be sweet.

Lots Weber has adapted the thought "What's Worth While," to the screen and it's not a sermon, but a picture of gripping heart interest from stem to stern. At the Page theatre today and the remainder of the week, Claire Windsor, and Louis Calhern have the leading roles. Others in the cast include Arthur Stuart Hull, Mona Lisa and Edwin Stevens.

JOE LYNCH KNOCKS OUT SAM SANDOW

NEW YORK, June 22.—Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, last night knocked out Sammy Sandow of Cincinnati in 55 seconds of fighting in the opening round of a ten round match.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul lightweight who has eleven consecutive knockouts to his credit and Willie Meekins, of San Francisco, are scheduled to meet here tonight in a 12-round bout to a decision. Gibbons expects to enter the ring weighing 175 pounds, 20 pounds less than his opponent.

THE NEW SAVAGE CORD a mighty tire

THE IDEAL THAT IT EXCEL, AND EVER REFLECT CREDIT UPON THE NAME IT BEARS

When the decision was made to manufacture a Cord Tire the type and quality of tire to be produced was likewise decided upon. The result of an exhaustive investigation showed clearly that the motoring public did not receive a full return upon their normal investment in tires, or in other words, the motoring public failed to obtain mileage and service in proportion to their investment and in proportion to the cost of producing the average cord tire. We were further impressed with the growing need for a tire of unquestionable quality, a tire into which was incorporated the most desirable of the latter day attainments and features that would render the purchaser mileage and service in direct proportion to his investment. To accomplish this it is quite apparent that a tire of superior quality and excellence must be produced. So the new Savage Cord is a mighty tire, not due to so-called secret or patented processes, but as the result of untiring research, experiment and test. First, as to design. Over a year elapsed between the time the original design of this particular tire was started to the completion of the moulds. A year of hard work with much retracing of steps, finally to be rewarded by the production of a tire which even to the casual observer is apparent as splendidly designed from the engineering viewpoint and possessing striking individuality. Large, not over-size, but built up to the maximum standards established by the Tire and Rim Division of the Rubber Association of America. Built by a staff of skilled craftsmen carefully selected due to their knowledge and experience in the cord tire work. That raw materials should be selected for quality is natural, but what is more essential is that every process of production is guarded by continuous inspection to insure against any impairment of this quality. These tires have been subjected to many months of grueling experimental runs on test cars and stage lines over all conditions of roads, enabling us to both prove and disprove many theories, and in several instances choose the better of two known standard practices. Weaknesses were eliminated and many improvements incorporated, finally to present to the motoring public this Aristocrat of Cords which we believe will render the maximum of uninterrupted service and mileage per dollars invested. And in the final analysis, is this not the only basis upon which you can figure tire costs?
