

Local and Personal

This is Columbus Day, as 429 years ago Christopher Columbus first set foot upon American soil, and is a legal holiday as Oregon is one of the states designating Oct. 12 as a legal holiday. All the banks, county and city offices are closed today. Inasmuch as it is not one of the national official holidays designated by the postoffice department the postoffice was open today as usual. Neither did the federal court observe the day.
