

STATE PRESIDENT D. A. R. TO ATTEND FRIDAY UNVEILING

Mrs. John A. Keating Will Attend Dedication Ceremony at Phoenix Friday—Ashland Chapter Stresses Americanization in Public Schools.

ASHLAND, Oct. 19.—A pioneer marker in the shape of a bronze tablet will be unveiled at Phoenix on Friday of this week under auspices of Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. John A. Keating, of Portland, state president of the D. A. R., will be present to attend the dedication ceremony at Phoenix Friday. The Ashland chapter is to stress "Americanization" features, notably in the public schools, and has offered prizes of $10 each to both the senior and junior high schools as an incentive to historical research as applied to the United States in general and Oregon in particular. The Mt. Ashland membership observed its first anniversary recently, not by giving a cakewalk, but in carving an elaborate cake symbolizing the passing of the initial year in its chapter history.

On Saturday afternoon of this week, Oct. 22, Grants Pass and Ashland ladies will meet at Masonic hall in a social way, and the gathering may prove to be the harbinger of the organization of a fraternal order among the ladies of the Shrine, the scope of the affiliation to include several localities in southern Oregon. The hour will be 2:30, and a jolly social reunion is in prospect.

A banquet at the high school followed the football game last Saturday, the vanquished Klamath Falls team being guests of honor. The spread was elaborate, as prepared by high school girls. Dancing was in order later, the new high school band furnishing musical accompaniments which were pronounced ideal either as applied to jazz or more classical incentives to lively footsteps.

Rev. P. K. Hammond and wife are home again, the latter after an extended vacation outing at the seashore and various north state localities. Their son Philip, of Oregon City, was married on Oct. 15 to Miss Catherine Evans, of Canby. Mr. Hammond performing the ceremony which occurred at the home of mutual friends in Portland and was an interesting society event, the young people being popular favorites. The bride's attendant was Miss Marquette Hammond, sister of the groom. The home of the young couple will be at Oregon City. The bride is a graduate of the University of Washington, and her husband an alumnus of the University of Oregon, both being connected with prominent Greek letter fraternities of their respective colleges.

The city has appropriated $200 for the Winter Fair, the privilege being reserved to add to this amount by way of a deficiency appropriation if necessary, thus matching the county court's quota of $300, providing circumstances demand it. Bigger and better than ever, the needed expenditure this year will approximate $1500, as from $1000 to $1300 will be required to meet premium outlay, not to mention other expenses. Last year the cost was about $800, a first class livestock show this season warranting a double expenditure.

Matta commandery meets Wednesday, Oct. 19, stated convalescence, and Red Cross work.

The initial literary benefit in behalf of the community club home will be given at the Methodist church, Friday evening, Oct. 28, by Dr. Mattie H. Shaw, a local reader of more than ordinary cleverness. Her rendition will be a dramatic one as applying to "Miss Gibbie Gault."

After a several months motoring tour, visiting relatives and friends in the central west and southern California, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sams have returned home.

The assessment in sewer district

No. 20, incorporating a considerable extent of granite street, has been fixed by a board of viewers at $216.84, a very reasonable figure. Five property owners were interested in this special improvement unit, and of the total expense the city assumed $108.42 of it owing to municipal frontage along park boundaries.

In order to fill a vacancy in the roster of W. C. T. U. officials, Mrs. Etta Rowland has been elected to a vice presidency in that organization.

Although the city has turned down settling basins and filtering tanks for the time being, as applied to the water system, it will install screens on Ashland creek, and this will prevent the larger fish from entering the meters during the spawning season.

Rev. W. L. Mellinger, former Christian pastor here, and now located at Ogden, Utah, has concluded his chauntauqua platform work for the season, having been in the employ of the Mutual Bureau of Chicago during the 1921 campaign in five central western states, this being the third year with the Mutual people. His son Maxon finishes high school this year, and the family is on the lookout for a location in some town which will afford college privileges. Mr. Mellinger's father, who resided with the family here and accompanied them to Utah, passed away Oct. 7, at the advanced age of 81 years, his remains being taken to the old home in Iowa for interment.

The Relief corps of Burnside Post, G. A. R., was duly inspected by Mrs. Mary Becker of Portland, state president, last week, her visit locally as a guest of honor being a social event of importance.

A neighboring Swede yokler, upon being told where he could get a little moonshine in reply to an inquiry for squirrel whiskey, replied, "Ay don't want to fly, but yoost jump around a leaf!"

On Thursday of this week the Presbyterian Missionary Study class will meet at the church for lesson outline work, and later on for study review. A gift shower will be a charitable accompaniment of the session.

Glenn, son of Charley Johnson, the family now living at Kingman, Arizona, was lately the recipient of a new Ford car, his benefactress being Mrs. H. B. Vail of that city, who has appreciated the industry and perseverance which Glenn has exhibited in a remarkable degree under somewhat discouraging circumstances. The gift was a free one outright, and had no strings attached insofar as payment for services was concerned.

C. W. Nims, of Ashland, member of Malta commandery, was elected grand commander of Oregon Knights Templar at the recent state convocation held at La Grande. George W. Dunn was elected grand sentinel, and also served as a member of the committee on expenses and mileage. The grand commandery will meet at Roseburg next year.

Mrs. Alice Jillson, president of the Jackson county unit of the W. C. T. U., has returned from the state convention of that organization held at Oregon City, which body elected Mayor Lamkin, of Ashland, a trustee of the State Children's Farm Home.

Mail box day was observed Oct. 19 locally, the city carriers submitting to the postmaster a census of the status of all delivery facilities on their respective routes, as applying to residences not numbered and minus receptacle equipment. Patrons not knowing their respective carriers, or upon application to E. H. Walker, city engineer, who holds the meter and bounds of all streets and avenues, also their intersections, in the hollow of his hand.

An object lesson in Christian unity is afforded by the popular community church, of Oakland in Douglas county, which observed its third anniversary on Oct. 14, practically every family in town being represented at the reunion, according to word that has reached Ashland, which by comparison is a community of churches, some of them needlessly multiplied. In Oakland the Baptist, Disciples, Episcopal, Lutheran Methodist and Presbyterian followings are co-operating on the community basis in the interdenominational merger, exhibiting to best advantage the spirit of wisdom in this beneficent and progressive movement.

Among postoffice employees on a vacation, Miss Lydia McCall, of the dead letter division, is visiting in Klamath Falls.

U. S. WORKMEN TO AID RUSSIA IN TRADE REVIVAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—More than a dozen groups of workmen trained in American industries, headed by experts and fully equipped with the latest machinery, are preparing to leave soon to aid in the industrial rehabilitation of soviet Russia.

The Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia, which is organizing these units, announced that it already has sent to Russia clothing workers, machinists, builders and tool and die workers. Most of these workers were Russian immigrants who had become skilled here.

The society, an organization of Russians, has its central bureau in this city, headed by Fedor P. Wilka. It claims a membership of 10,000 through out the United States and Canada and publishes a semi-monthly technical magazine to acquaint its members with modern methods of production in America and their application in soviet Russia.

Officials of the society claim that the aim of their organization is to "bring the people of the United States and soviet Russia into closer relations for the mutual benefit of the two countries."

The society denied it was acting as agents for soviet Russia and declared that its activities were absolutely non-political and confined strictly to organizing technical forces.

"We are not soliciting members, nor do we encourage them to go to soviet Russia at present," said a statement issued by the society.

"Only those brave and energetic workers, who regardless of conditions at present existing in soviet Russia are willing and ready to go there as soon as possible to help build the Worker's Russian Republic are accepted as members of units that we are organizing to be sent to soviet Russia."

"We are organizing our units in such a way that upon their arrival in soviet Russia they will be able to run on their own initiative under their own supervision all kinds of factories, shops, mines, farms, etc."

LANDIS DEFENDED BY SEN. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Presentation in the senate of the resolutions adopted by the American Bar association criticizing Judge Landis for accepting the position of baseball arbiter while retaining his place on the bench resulted in a flurry of debate. The resolutions were presented by Senator Dix, democrat, South Carolina, and brought from Senator Johnson, republican, California, the declaration that Judge Landis' judicial decisions were more than his assumption of the baseball arbitership were responsible for the attitude assumed by the Bar association. If the judge's decisions had "taught" corporations how to skate on this law," the Bar association, Senator Johnson said, would have passed laudatory resolutions.

ANTI-KU KLUX KLAN PLANS ABANDONED

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The National Unity council, formed to combat the Ku Klux Klan, has abandoned its plans for a national organization, according to a letter sent out yesterday by former Governor Edward P. Dunne.

The council will instead substitute a plan for a general committee to foster kinder feelings between all classes of Americans and the elimination of racial and religious animosities.

HISTORY OF THE RED MAN SERIES

THE SONG OF THE COYOTE

BY "INDIAN" MILLER

Coyote heard a cricket singing and he listened long. He said, "That is a short song, indeed; kurit, kurit, kurit. Forever just kurit. Who does he entertain? Perhaps he likes it himself. I like it not." So he moved closer and listened; and then he moved closer again. Finally he found Cricket and swallowed him, saying, "That is the end of your song."

And as Coyote trotted along he heard a little tree-frog singing in a bush. Tree-frog sang so much like the cricket that Coyote soon tired of listening. Then he listened and looked and listened and looked until he saw Tree-frog hidden behind a piece of bark; and as he swallowed Tree-frog he said, "That is the end of your song."

As Coyote trotted on he heard a Jarfy singing. Some call him Locust; but he is only Jarfy. He, too, repeats his song; and as Coyote listened it seemed that there was no end of it. Jarfy opened his eyes wider and he saw Coyote; and he thought, I will fool him. So Jarfy slipped out of his skin; and when Coyote swallowed it, he said, "That is the end of your song." Then Jarfy laughed and said, "That was only an empty husk." Then, lighting on a high branch he gritted his teeth and taunted Coyote, who, after several vain attacks, trotted away greatly exasperated.

Coyote was not a great singer himself in those days; so he went to a lone place to practice. Timber-wolf heard him and could not sleep. Exasperated, he sought Coyote and said "That song is a torture to me; can you not finish it?" Coyote said, "I must sing something or I will be unhappy." Timber-wolf said, "I will teach you my song; but you must learn when to stop even it." Coyote never learned to sing the wolf-song nicely, for he stutters; but it is much better than the old coyote song. Coyote still stutters and stutters when he starts to sing. He can stop all right; but he has difficulty in beginning.

Poor Coyote! How handicapped he is! He cannot sing, for he stutters. Many business organizations are like him. They would build their product better, but are handicapped. Lack of finance or other causes hinder them. On the contrary, with the makers of Savage Tires every source is at command for the building of a superior article. The new Savage Cord demonstrates their determination to make the best tire on the market. It is Built to Excel.
