"Judge C. B. Watson, of Gold Hill, was in the city today, transacting a little business at the courthouse," says the Grants Pass Courier.

Judge Watson, a great many years ago, was direct attorney for the territory now included in Josephine, Jackson, Lake and Klamath counties, when Medford and Grants Pass were hardly on the map, and when Jacksonville had a population of about 3000 and Ashland less than 200. Judge Watson was forced to give up his law practice several years ago, on account of poor health, but recently he has greatly improved, and is now hale and hearty. He will celebrate his 72nd birthday in nine more days. Judge Watson was also in the party with Joaquin Miller, when a trip to the Oregon Caves was made, and was instrumental in having them set aside as a national monument.
