

Local and Personal

The first mail from the east since last Saturday arrived in the city yesterday and was delivered today. There was quite an accumulation of first class and parcel post mail, and the postoffice this morning bore a shortly before Christmas time appearance. The eastern mail was delayed and held up by the bad storm conditions around Portland and eastern Oregon. It seemed like Monday today to most folks, and in addition many had the usual after holiday grump and such a dislike for turkey or chicken and the trimmings that they vowed never to taste the stuff again.

News comes from Grants Pass that William Kern of Placer is out a new car by what officers believe is the direct result of recent arrests for moonshining in that district. Some time since last Friday, when three men were convicted of moonshining operations, persons practically destroyed the machine belonging to Kern. Five new tires, the cushions, backs of the seats and the top were sliced to ribbons, the timer, carburetor and other like equipment were thrown away, while the vandals attacked the engine with a hammer. Threats had been made to wreak vengeance upon anyone who gave information concerning the liquor operations in that district and the officers believe that friends of the convicted moonshiners suspected that Kern had informed the district attorney.
